JUSTICE

If Coss was a poor man he would be serving sentence in the penitentiary, he would not be able to have attorneys to visit the governor, he could not take his case to the supreme court.

Is it not a fact that the trial jury is better able to tell whether a man is guilty than the supreme court who only has the record of the lower court? This jury had an opportunity to study each witness. With all due respect to the supreme court the writer firmly believes that this arm of the law should be abolished. When a man with a bank account gets into trouble he makes his threat that he will carry his case to supreme court if necessary to beat the case. This remark should be sufficient to convict, because it admits of guilt. The man whose finances are carried around in his vest pocket must quit, because he cannot go to the supreme court, and right here is where many criminals bluff the poor man out.

ELECTION DAY CLOSE AT HAND

November 3, the people of the United States will be given the privilege of once more selecting a president. In the selection of a man to fill this position we must select a man of ability—one who is capable and able to stand forth and exercise his own mind.

There are five candidates in the field, all men of high standing and the choice of each party.

Theodore Roosevelt, when he entered upon the duties of the office in 1904, was held in the highest esteem of the American people, party affiliation was reduced to the minimum, and he went into office loved by the people of this nation as George Washington was in revolutionary days. The republican party has a man aspiring for the office who has worked shoulder to shoulder with this great statesman, a man who has assisted in bringing about the successful termination of the present administration; a man, who if elected by the people, will carry out the policies of the present administration in a true and fearless manner; a man who is not changing from one theory to another for no other purpose than to strike some issue upon which he can be rail-roaded into the White House.

William H. Taft has a record upon which he can stand, we know him by past deeds, and we are not experimenting.

What candidate in this campaign aside from Taft and Sherman has a record on which to stand and ask for the American vote? They have all had an opportunity to distinguish themselves, but what has this government benefitted by their efforts?

SCHOOL DIRECTORS AND CLERKS

In accordance with Section 61, page 30, of the Oregon School Laws—1907, I will hold a School Board Convention at the High School building in Medford, on Saturday, October 31, commencing at 9 o'clock a. m.

The law makes the chairman of the board of directors of each school district the delegate to the Convention, and provides that in case he cannot attend, he shall appoint some member of the Board or the clerk to represent the district.

It is earnestly desired that each district be represented not only by the chairman of the Board but by the Clerk as well, and in as much as the $2.00 allowed by law to be paid out of the general fund of the county is not sufficient to meet the expenses, I would suggest that where-ever it is necessary, an amount not to exceed $5.00 be taken from the 15% of the school funds which the law sets aside for general expenses, and this be added to the $2.00 to meet the expenses of the two delegates.

The Annual Teachers' Institute for Jackson and Josephine counties will be held in Medford during the three days immediately preceding this Convention, and it is hoped that many directors and clerks will make this an opportunity to attend a part or all the Institute. An effort will be made to have teachers remain for the School Board Convention.

Below is a list of the topics suggested for discussion. There will be no formal program of Speakers, but each delegate will be given an opportunity to express his views and ask questions on various subjects. In this off-hand way, we expect to get much good out of the meeting. No school director or clerk can afford to miss the Convention.

LIST OF TOPICS FOR DISCUSSION
School Furniture and Apparatus, when, what, and how to buy, Special Tax Levies, Clerks' Bonds, Employment of Teachers and Teachers' Salaries, Shall the County Treasurer be made the District Treasurer, Annual Reports, Board Meetings, The Annual and Special School Meetings, Methods of Apportionment, Length of School term, What to do in case of vacancy in the office of Clerk or Director, Other topics may be suggested at the meeting.

Yours truly,

J. PERCY WELLS, County School Superintendent.

A National Awakening to the Need of Forest Preservation.

PATROL AND IMPROVEMENT OF NATIONAL FORESTS

"The National Forests are constantly being used in more ways and by more people. Added experience is making possible the classification of the forests by types, general instructions concerning the systems of cutting best calculated to secure in each type the production of most wood of the best quality. In carrying out some of the timber sale contracts utilization is now almost as complete as in German forest. The lumbermen, though now cutting timber under regulation on the National Forests, are competing in the markets with those who cut outside—a direct argument that conservative forestry is thoroughly practicable from the lumberman's point of view.

"The third year of systematic fire patrol recorded an improvement of 40 per cent over 1906 and 65 per cent over 1905."

"Marked progress has also been made in securing prompt communication between the comparatively few men charged with the custody of wide areas. At present 1,185 men must guard 160,000,000 acres, an average of 135,000 acres, or 211 square miles, for each man. Ranger's cabins have been erected, and roads, trails, telephone lines and bridges are being constructed.

"The roads and telephone lines will greatly assist in controlling fires, especially with the aid of lookout stations, which are established at strategic points. A typical example will illustrate how important are these improvements as means of overcoming distance in the administration of the forests. In the Southern Division of the Cabinet Forests there are two lookout stations from which, with the aid of field glasses, nearly a million acres are visible. The system of patrol provides that once or twice each day, and constantly during the danger seasons, rangers scrutinize the forest from these lookouts. Notice of a fire can be sent by telephone, and the roads trails and bridges make it possible to obtain help promptly.

"Experiments in seeding portions of the range with cultivated grasses were begun, and careful detailed study was made of typical range areas to learn under what conditions the best native grasses propagate successfully. An experimental pasture was constructed where the action of sheep under various systems of handling could be investigated, and the effect of each system upon the forage crop ascertained."

The article, from which the above are excerpts, gives a brief summary of recent achievement in forestry in the United States, a list of forest laws passed in 1907, and a directory of State forest laws, forest associations, and forest schools. It has been printed as a separate, and can be had free upon application to the Forester, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.
