LIFE IS TOO CHEAP

The price placed on human life is too cheap. In the court room in San Francisco a man (Haas) deliberately shot an attorney in cold blood, for no other reason than the attorney, Francis J. Heney, would not accept him as a juror.

It developed that this man Haas had been in the penitentiary and therefore was rejected by Heney as a juror, whereupon Haas became angered and procured a revolver. After practicing shooting at targets for about a week, he proceeded to the court room and deliberately shot a man.

I do not believe that once a criminal always a criminal, but I do believe that some men are criminals for life, and these men should be segregated from those who will reform, and these men placed beyond the power of pardoning pen.

Something must be done. Crime is spreading too fast. Our jails are overcrowded, and by men who have been in jail before. Is the law too weak? I do not believe that a twenty-year sentence is any more beneficial to the criminal than a five-year sentence. If a man cannot reform in five years he cannot reform in twenty.

Let us consider the social problems of the day: It is human nature (made so by society, or by a class of people who feel that they are a little better than any one else) to want to be the best in their particular vocation. Let man be what he is. If you are a millionaire the diamond upon your breast does not make you honest nor does it make you any better than your neighbor. It is the greed for fine clothes and jewelry that sends many men to the cell, simply because he tries to imitate that which he is not. Let the great social functions of the day be less advertised and the people adopt a more common style of dress and within a few years crime will be reduced.

Missouri has a republican governor.

Some men are too lazy to go out and meet returning prosperity half way.—Blade.
