GATEWAY OPENED

Interest Manifested in Oregon Lands.

(Special Correspondence)

Portland Ore. May 23, 1 09.

Portland People are delighted over the Interstate Commerce Commission's decision this week opening the Portland gateway. This guarded as an important one. Its chief significa ce will mean a free interchange of passenger traffic at Portland between the Hill and Harriman lines. This is bound to increase the travel of Eastern visitors to the Coast through this city for at present travelers coming through Portland bound either to or from the sound, must re-check their baggage and buy new tickets here. This is inconvenient and has often detered passengers from coming to this city. The decision means that through tickets must be sold via Portland, a thing the Hill lines have hitherto maintained should not be required of them as it gave the long haul to the Harriman roads. The Hill roads are expected to appeal the case to the Supreme Court.

Showing much interest in Oregon timber, a party of 18 Michigan capitalists spent a day in Portland during the week. They represent capital of over $50,000,000, and their visit here an interest in Oregon timber that will mean the investment of large sums here in future. They said some of their number intended to secure some of the remaining big trees of the state shortly. Two of the party will return to Portland within a few days to receive reports on Oregon properties they are now looking up. The visitors are mostly officials of the Michigan-Pacific Lumber Company.

A new member, The Brownsville Commercial Club, has just been added to the Oregon Development League. Brownsville, one of the most favorably located cities of the Willamette Valley, has joined with the other 89 progressive cities of the state composing the League, making a round 90 of Oregon communities now in line for all the benefits to be derived from co-operation and intelligent publicity work.

New and improved train service throughout on the Southern Pacific lines in this state will be inaugurated on June 1st. at that time the Shasta Limited, the new fast train to California, will be put in commission, improving the Willamette Valley service to a great extent.

Cival War veterans are completing arrangements for the annual state encampment which will be held at Corvallis June 2, 3 and 4.

Peanuts in Oregon

Peanuts yeilded over $12,000,000 to growers in the United States during 1908. It is a crop constantly growing in value, and while not cultivated to any great extent in Oregon, could be so to advantage.

No part of the country is better adapted to peanut raising than the Rogue River valley. Ideal conditions exist here and peanuts can be made a most profitable crop between fruit trees in young orchards. They have the additional advantage over other crops of being soil builders and renovators.

A pamphlet issued by the department of agriculture written by Expert W. R. Beattie, gives some interesting facts regarding peanuts, which attained commercial importance in 1870, though grown to some extent in colonial days, coming from the tropics.

Until recently American peanuts were grown chiefly in Virginia, Tennessee, the Carolinas and Georgia. Now they come from all the South Alantic states, the southern border and California. In the boll-weevil districts they will make frequently a more profitable crop than cotton.

Peanuts cost but little to raise and are among the crop of growing commercial importance.—Southern Oregonian.

Chamberlain's Liniment.

This is a new preparation and a good one. It is especially valuable as a cure for chronic and muscular rheumatism, and for the relief from pain which it affords in acute inflamatory rheumatism. Those who have used it have invarably spoken of it in the highest terms of praise. Lame back, lame shoulder and stiff neck are due to rheumatism of the muscles, usually brought on by exposure to cold or damp, and are quickly cured by applying this liniment freely and massaging the affected parts. Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury, is allayed by this liniment. For Sale by City Drug Store.
