

A SUNNY DAY ON YUKON AVENUE, A.-Y.-P. EXPOSITION, SEATTLE.

Yukon Avenue is one of the many ways leading to the Court of Honor of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition. It leads from the Cascades down to one of the many entrances to the Pay Streak and directly to the "café center" of the Fair Grounds.

All of these structures were completed before December 1, 1908. They are of the conventional exposition type of construction—plaster set over heavy wooden framework.

Bowel Complaint in Children

When six months old the little daughter of E. N. Dewey, a well known merchant of Agnewville, Va., had an attack of cholera infantum. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was given and effected a complete cure. This remedy has proven very successful in case of bowel complaint in children and when given according to the plain printed directions can be relied upon with perfect confidence. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take, which is of great importance when a medicine must be given to young children. For sale by the City Drug Store.

THE AFTERMATH.

The list of deaths and accidents due to celebration of the Fourth is smaller than previous year.

Although the celebration lasted three days, the list of killed and injured is considerably less than in former years. The latest returns give, killed 43; seriously injured, 784, fire loss, $535,000. In 1908 the number killed was given as 162; injured 5570. The decrease is due largely to the use of explosives being restricted in most large cities.

LUMINOUS PICTURE

A puzzle for scientists now on exhibition at Seattle.

Is this wonderful picture of the Christ the latest miracle, or is it the result of some chemical change far beyond the knowledge of the scientists of today?

Casting off a radiance five times as great as that of any known light giving substance except radium, the painting by Henry Ahl. In the shadow of the Cross, has puzzled all who have seen it on exhibition in the Swedish building at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition.

That there is no phosphorus or other radiating substance on the picture is attested by the foremost chemists of the country who have analyzed the paint.

And yet its light is wonderfully bright. That it might deceive the eye is possible but it is impossible that it could practice that deception on a photographic plate.

A picture, the most remarkable feat that has ever been known to photography, was taken of this radiating wonder by its own light at the Exposition recently. The camera was placed with the picture in a room absolutely black with darkness. After eleven hours of this exposure to the rays from the painting, a perfect photograph was obtained.

A peculiar and unexplainable part of this experiment is that the features of the picture, which do not appear to the eye when viewed in the dark are plainly seen in the photograph, while the shadow of the cross which does appear to the spectator, cannot be seen in the plate.

Photographers agree that this is the most wonderful picture ever taken by a camera.

The painting, is owned by a Washington, D.C., physician, who purchased it from the artist for four hundred dollars. It has been exhibited before over 4,000,000 people. It was given a gold medal at the St. Louis Exposition which is a guarantee of its genuineness.

The artist in September, 1866, was returning to his studio late at night and noticed that the picture radiated light; Believing that the moonbeams must be penetrating some crevice he examined further and discovered that the light came from the picture itself.

The light from the painting of the divinity came from all parts of the painting except that a shadow of a cross was observed to be cast diagonally across the shoulders. The artist refused to finish the painting which was then three-fourths completed and it remains unchanged.

The light from the picture has never lost its power in the fourteen years it has been on exhibition, and it is today as bright as the day the artist first noticed the peculiar phenomenon.

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES.

Kidney Diseases Cause Half the Common Aches and Ills of Jacksonville People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric poison circulated in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ill.

A. R. Bly, living Cor. 4th & B. Sts., Ashland, Ore., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills proved of wonderful benefit to me. At the time I began them I was so lame and sore that I could hardly get around. My kidneys were disordered and the secretions gave me much annoyance, by their frequent action. I would arise in the morning feeling tired and worn out and the pains in my hips were excruciating. It was while I was in this condition, that Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I procured a box. I had only used them a short time when I felt better, I continued taking the remedy and was soon free from any trace of kidney trouble. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to many persons suffering from this affliction and will continue to do so."

Plenty more proof like this from Jacksonville people. Call at The City drug store and ask what customers report.

PORTLAND LETTER

Exhibits from Seattle fair will be displayed at Portland--Unique Celebration at Bend--A Successful School Convention at Albany.

Portland, Ore. July 7 1909.

Special arrangements have been made whereby all the exhibits in the livestock show at the Seattle fair will be displayed in Portland the third week of September during the show of the Portland Fair and Livestock Association. This will mean a show of pure bred stock in horse, cattle, sheep and swine divisions greater by far than has ever been seen in the state. The exhibit will show the great strides of the livestock industry in the Pacific Northwest during recent years. The annual show of the Portland Fair and Livestock Association will last from September 20 to 25th and the State Fair entries will be on display as well as the cream from the show at Seattle.

"We had at least $1,000,000 worth of stock here last year," said Secretary Wisdom of the association. "But applications from stock farms of the Coast, Middle West and Canada already received make it certain we shall have more than $1,500,000 worth of the finest stock the breeders of America produce. It will be possible to arrange for a great deal more comprehensive display this year for the expense of shipping exhibits from a distance will be minimized and distributed between Portland, Salem and Seattle."

Bend had a Fourth of July celebration that was probably the most unique in the country because of one great feature, a trout barbecue. There are numerous places in the state that could duplicate it, probably, but where throughout East could such an affair be held? Bend had about 3500 trout served to those in attendance at the celebration, certainly a splendid advertisement of Oregon's attractions as a fisherman's paradise.

The Oregon State Teachers' Association completed its ninth annual convention at Albany during the past week. The gathering was pronounced the most successful in the history of the organization. An interesting and valuable programme was given, with many notable addresses. The second annual convention of county superintendents of schools was held at Salem just preceding the meeting of the state pedagogues. A higher standard for school work in this state was set and many matters of mutual helpfulness were discussed.

Not Up-To-Date.

The Myrtle Point Enterprise remarks that a woman always gets cross when she has to get up to let her husband in, but she doesn't mind it at all to get up and let the cat out.

That editor is certainly a close observer, in fact, a philosopher of the old and most reliable school. He undoubtedly acquired his knowledge through experience, but that household is not of the most modern type or he would be home minding the baby ready to let his wife in when she comes from the club, then there would be no occasion for any one to be cross.—Courier.
