Sayings Wise and Otherwise, From the Exchanges

"Get married," says Senator Depew. But he doesn't say how often.

He who looks like a wise man to one person may look like a fool to another.

The man who loses his temper never seems able to make it stay lost.

The South has the artistic temperament. It draws the color line.

The goose that laid the golden egg did not know when to hide out.

Destiny may be waiting for you just around the corner, so cheer up.

The man with the hay fever must keep away from the alfalfa widows.

Don't be discouraged. It doesn't help any and is an uncomfortable condition.

Boys really should be clubbed for their neglect of the kind of girls they want their sisters to be.

There are things that are necessary to our happiness only when we have not got them.

Denatured alcohol is not good to drink unless one wants to be a denatured drinker.

A fool laughs at what is good, at what is bad and at what he does not understand.

It cost Oklahoma $7000 to wipe out Crazy Snake. P. S. Crazy Snake has not been wiped out.

"Don't marry the men—fight them," says Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont. But why not marry them first.

If Mr. Roosevelt runs for office again, the question, "Can a moose gallop?" may become an issue.

Ever notice how a man roasts about the noise the children make when he has to stay home with them a day?

It got so hot in Minnehaha, Minnesota, a short time ago that Minnie quit ha-haing and went to boo-hoing.

A Kentucky couple married after a courtship of 59 years. There ought to be no quarrel on the ground of deception.

A scientist declares that every time a man lies he unconsciously wriggles his big toe. Blessed be the man who invented shoes.

Now some of those Missouri people have been shown how things looked to Noah when the dove came back with the olive leaf.

Thaw kicks because he is "begrudged a little sunshine." He seems to forget how much sunshine he begrudged the man he murdered.

Praying for the eradication of mosquitoes will not accomplish a great deal. You've simply got to hit 'em and weed 'em hard.

The new sultan of Turkey has only two wives. But that isn't so bad when the short time he has held office is taken into consideration.

A Michigan boy has started out on a hunt for the devil. No matter what direction he takes, if he travels long enough, he'll find what he is looking for.

The women who married Johnson simply because he promised them fine clothes, a beautiful house and a good time deserve just what they got—a tenth interest in a joint-stock man.

Naked Igorrotes on the "Pay Streak," are shocking Seattle folks, says a dispatch. It doesn't mention any but Seattle folks being shocked, but that is natural. The naked truth would shake them up.

A certain club which has been making tests finds that life can be sustained for 4½ cents a day. This ought to give most anybody at least ½ cent a day surplus. It's a poor scrub that can't make a nickel a day somehow.

System of Waterways

To organize the nation's waterways into one system like a railroad system, is the proposition of Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations. Mr. Smith makes this suggestion in a report to the President. It is the result of study as a member of the Roosevelt inland waterways commission and it is the preface to several water-way reports Mr. Smith will make. The commissioner says in part: "Our increasing commerce demands that our waterways shall be made an active part of our transportation system. Our inland rivers are not so now. Waterways themselves and their conditions must be so improved that they shall carry a share of the nation's traffic proportioned to their real possibilities and shall so supplement the rail system as to prevent the recurrence of disastrous traffic congestions.

"At present we can hardly be said to have a general waterway system. Our great mileage of waterways is split up by certain physical characteristics into a number of largely unrelated parts. These include ocean routes of unrestricted depths and widths, lake routes of unrestricted depth except in certain very important connecting channels, and rivers and canal channels of varying and always restricted depth, of narrow width, devious courses and with more or less current and obstructions.—Ex.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy the best and Surest.

"It affords me pleasure to state that I consider the preparation known as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy the best and surest of good results of any I have ever used in my family," says P. E. Herrington, of Mount Aerial, Ky. This is the universal verdict of all who use this remedy. Its cures are so prompt and effectual that people take pleasure in recommending it. ### Oregon Sidelights.

Siuslaw people want a new county. Potato growers see large crops ahead. Salem is getting its first steel building.

Dallas handle factory is running full blast. A new La Grande residence will cost $10,000.

Lebanon morals couldn't stand a picture show. Man near Eugene is plating 73 acres into acre tracts.

Sugar beets planted near Enterprise are doing fine. Huntington is going to fire some of its undesirables.

Big hay crop in Powder river valley; other crops good. New summer resort to be opened on upper Klamath lake.

Polk county man contracted 30,000 pounds of hops at 15 cents. New Pendleton woolen mills will be humming in about a month.

Corvallis merchants will try to get a bridge across the Willamette. Authorities are wrestling with the weed problem in Union county.

Ten acres near Mc Minnville sold for twice what it did two years ago. Medford expects to ship 275 carloads of peas, worth around $1000 a car.

To Rid the House of Flies

A correspondent writes to ask how to use phrethrum powder for the destruction of flies. Directions will be obtained when the powder is purchased. It is largely used as an insecticide. There is a substitute fly-killer that is probably better. The London Lancet, a good authority, says: "The best exterminating agent is a weak solution of formaldehyde in water (say two teaspoonfuls to the pint), and this experience has been confirmed by others. It would appear that the flies are attracted by a weak solution of formaldehyde, which they drink. Some die in the water, others get as far only as the immediate vicinity of the plate of water, but all ultimately succumb, and where they occur in large numbers, hundreds may be swept from the floor. It is consoling to know that by this method the flies have died under a dose of a fluid which is fatal to disease organisms, a fluid also which is inoffensive and for practical purposes non-poisonous. The method at once provides a means of diminishing the scourge and of securing to some extent what is most desirable, the disinfection of the slain.—Courier.

Art of Home-Making

President Work, of the College of Industrial Arts, of Texas, in a strong address before the National Education Association made the statement that "our cities are filled with miserable women, heart-sick men and blighted homes, due to a lack of instruction for girls in the grammar school and the high school courses in the fundamentals of home economics." And there he touched upon a vital point. It has been shown that in the majority of divorce cases the cause is either drink or ill-temper, or both on the part of the man. On the other hand, close investigation would show that woman's failure to know the science of home-making and her failure to do her duty in the home is back of very much of the drinking and brutality of her husband.

One economist has ventured the statement that bad cooking has driven more men to drink than any other single cause. This is not hard to believe, and it ought to set both women and educators to thinking. The social influences and the system of education that trains a girl into disdain of the art of home-making is a renegade to the greatest institution in the American nation. We have always advocated vocational schools, but we maintain that the training for a vocation should not crowd out from a woman's career the preparation for domestic life. This country would wag along some way without a single woman in the vocations, but it cannot get along at all without homes, and the right sort of homes.—Outlook.

How to be Happy.

(Selected)

Happiness is not an art. It is a state of heart and a condition of mind. We cannot teach it but we may preach it. There are people who, to all intents and purposes, find in the blessed state of being happy nothing of either art or philosophy. To them it is a simple condition, easily acquired by putting their hearts in tune with their surroundings. They are their simple selves, radiantly full of the joy of living and reflecting the sunshine with which the beautiful world is illuminated. They have caught the colors—the purples and soft rose tints—of the fascinating things around them.

The idea that man was made to mourn is not a cheerful one, and the less we allow it to creep into our minds the happier will we be.

WOMAN THE INDEX OF CIVILIZATION.

The degree of civilization to which a nation has attained may be pretty accurately determined by the status of its women.

Among savages the woman was a beast of burden.

The women of Hindoostan used to drown their female infants in the Ganges. In some old-world countries even in this day woman is regarded as a helpmate in only the most menial sense.

In America woman has reached her most exalted sphere—and it seems strange therefore, that in this country she has filed the most protests. Ingersoll, whose soul was always attuned to love and sympathy for woman, declared:

"She has all the rights I have and one more, and that is the right to be protected. That is my doctrine".

That was the doctrine of a man who symbolized in his domestic life the highest ideals of our best civilization.

Yet there are men today by the millions who delight to class themselves as woman's superior. And such men are generally of the very inferior grade.

In Justice Court

Judge T. M. Jones' court was busy Thursday afternoon when C. S. Sanderson, the well known local real estate man, was haled before the court on a charge of assault and battery preferred by W. J. Boosey, of North Jacksonville precinct. Boosey was also haled into the temple of justice at the same time and place on a charge preferred by Sanderson of an assault with a dangerous weapon.

The double heaver case was an echo of the old time boundary dispute between Mr. Boosey and former owners of the Sanderson farm, which has been a disturbing element in the circuit and supreme courts of the state since away back in the early days when Mount MeLaughlin is said to have been a hole in the ground and Crater Lake is alleged to have been a towering, snow, capped mountain peak. A few feet of land was the pawn and the game was played as though millions depended on the result.

In the present case it appears that the old wound was opened by the attempt of Boosey to raise a fence on land claimed by Sanderson as his own and when Sandy protested it is alleged that Boosey made a pass at him with a Rooseveltian club whereupon Sandy dodged the impending calamity and countered on Mr. Boosey's jaw with his right.

Mr. Boosey immediately sought the district attorney and swore to a complaint as above indicated, and probably to show a sociable spirit and to keep the good work going forward Sanderson took the next move by bringing counter charges.

At the appointed time the wheels of justice began to grind and while they may not have, like the mills of the gods "ground exceeding small," they handled the grist so quickly that before either party could say that they were both bound over to keep the peace in the sum of $250 each. Hon. B. F. Mulkey, district attorney, appeared for the state and Judge Wedekind, of this city handled the defense. After hearing some testimony on both sides the two limbs of the law got their heads together and framed up an Oregon compromise that resulted in putting both defendants and complainants, and each was both, under peace bonds. The charge against Sanderson was dismissed.

"You can't do such a thing as that," asserted a citizen to the judge after court adjourned. "Well, we did do it right in his honor, and we done it with the approval of both lawyers and at least one complainant and one defendant. Shouldn't that make it mighty nigh unanimous."—Central Point Herald July 15.

Help for Those Who Have Stomach Trouble

After doctoring for about twelve years for a bad stomach trouble, and spending nearly five hundred dollars for medicine and doctors' fees, I purchased my wife one box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which did her so much good that she continued to use them and they have done her more good than all of the medicine I bought before. — Samuel Boyer, Folsom, Iowa. This medicine is for sale by City Drug Store. Samples free.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN

If you like to have decent work done, not too far between the nails or too large holes for the wax end to pass through, go to a shoemaker who has learned his trade and knows how to use bristles instead of harness needles. You are the judge. When you find your feet wet and your stockings muddy you will realize that hurry makes poor work.
