PORTLAND LETTER

Sneaks and Thieves Don't advertise-Portland Flouring Mills buy Hammond Mills at Seattle-McLoughlin home to be maintained Spokane business men to be here next month.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 17-(Special)-"Sneaks and thieves don't advertise", was the text of an immigration sermon recently delivered by a McMinville minister. He followed this up by showing the value of intelligent publicity work in attracting settlers to the Pacific Northwest and the benefits alike to the newcomer and the country settled. Each settler means added wealth to the state and in return the Pacific states offer greater opportunity to the man from the older sections of the country. The Northwest has a duty to perform, believes this pastor, in bringing people from the overcrowded districts of the East to this land of opportunity and live cities in the Northwest are making the most of their advantages in attracting settlers.

The Portland Flouring Mills will maintain its position as the chief flour manufacturing concern of the Pacific Northwest and during the past week purchased the Hammond Mills and holdings in Seattle and vicinity at an approximate cost of $590,900. The property consists of the largest flour mill in Seattle and has a capacity of 2000 barrels a day. T. B. Wilcox, head of the Portland Flouring Mills, and associates conducted the negotiations leading to the purchase. He said the growth of Seattle has made it advantageous to have a mill there and the purchase includes a number of warehouses in Washington and the agency of the Hammond concerns in San Francisco. The Portland company now has 14 mills running night and day in different parts of the Northwest and are turning out an enormous product.

State dairymen and fruit growers held their annual conventions in Portland during the past week and both were well attended and very successful. Both these great industries will receive a decided impetus from the gatherings of the past week. Better acquaintance of the men actively engaged in dairying and horticulture has resulted and the interchange of ideas is always valuable. Thursday night a reception to the two bodies was given by the Commercial Club. A valuable suggestion was made by President H. C. Atwell of the fruit growers, who advises an annual fruit show in Portland at which all sections of the state shall be represented. This idea is being taken up actively by all interested in the development of the state along these lines and the advantages that may be expected to result are very great.

Dr. John Mc Loughlin and his work in aiding the early settlers at Oregon City will not be forgotten and by a decisive vote, this pioneer city has declared it will maintain the historic home of Dr. Loughlin as a public monument to his work. This tribute to Dr. Mc Loughlin will meet with the hearty approval of all right thinking people everywhere.

Spokane will run an excursion of business men to California next month and the party will be entertained here on January 18. This will be the first of a number of excursions to be run from Washington cities through Portland to California during the winter.
