-:-JACKSONVILLE POST-:-

Official Paper of the City of Jacksonville, Oregon.

A weekly newspaper published every Saturday at the county seat of Jackson County, Oregon. D. W. BAGSHAW, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter June 22, 1907, at the post office at Jacksonville, Oregon, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1910

SUBSCRIPTION: One year by mail $1.50. Advertising rates furnished on application.

The council is progressing in the efforts to provide a water system. This issue of the Post contains an advertisement of the bonds voted at the recent election. Ordinances have been passed making contracts with Mr. Beekman for the site for the dam on Jackson creek, and with Mr. Britt for site for storage reservoir, etc. Some of our citizens question the sufficiency of supply from Jackson creek and suggest the sinking of wells with hopes of securing artesian water to augment the amount obtained from the creek. It is stated that the engineer who drew the plans and made the surveys assured the members of the council that the supply of water which could be obtained from Jackson creek was sufficient for a town of 2500 people, and if this statement is correct there would seem to be no need of any hesitation in regard to sufficiency of water for present needs and for some time to come. On the other hand, if artesian water could be secured in sufficient volume and at reasonable cost, it would be much better for domestic purposes, but it is a question whether the council would be justified in experimenting in the matter without some definite information regarding the geological formation and topography of the country. Let us have water of some kind and as soon as possible. If it is not first quality for domestic use it will at least do to sprinkle the lawns and extinguish fires and for these uses alone will be worth all it will cost.

FOR SEPTEMBER.

Now softened suns a mellow luster shed,
 The laden orchards glow with tempting red;
 On hazel boughs the clusters hang embrowned,
 And with the hunting horn the fields resound.
 —Old September Poem.

Well we should say so, and the mellow horn of Mr. Morgan will awake the morn, bidding us garner for the bins and cribs in which we labor for his royal nibs. The summer ended and the blower on, the respite over and the money gone, and Rockefeller as we drill along, bowing and hoping we are well and strong.

The seaside sojourner will quit the shore, and the summer girl will line up three or four conquests in puppy love she has around, and choose the one that is to go undrowned. The which selection from the litter born of summer madness she will then suborn with things sufficient to unlock its eyes and hurry homeward with the gasping prize.

The busted tourist will return from France with hotel stickers stuck upon his pants, and tagged and postcarded by his friends, will reap the penalty of what he sends. They'll waltz him up and down upon a rail, and alternately turn him head and tail, or however they may best enjoy the views in Venice or the site of Troy.

The festive calf will blithely sniff and snort, and deftly tip up where the hair is short, and in the quiet even afterglow the quail will pipe his dulcet piccolo. The bold insurgent will insurge the more, and fill the planet with the dreadful roar, and each one betting he will not be last, the autumn candidates will gallop past.

The new progressive and the Democrat, the unassuming that are standing pat, and in the midst of them, unfaint of heart, our Mr. Bryan on the water cart. A maze of issues, and a mass of men, and lo, a gallus busting now and then, and not especially alarmed by it, the trusts desisting till the swarm has lit.

The man from Elba trying to come back,
 And the poor consumer in his cul-de-sac
 Unknowing if the quaking earth portends
 Death or the near approach, perhaps of friends.

But however and be it as it may, the dread mosquito will have had its day, and joining Satan in its spectral growth, have made it real hell there for them both. The while the earthly remnant of it swings upon the window screen, and drying clings to that post which, though wanting mortal fire, it still holds with its face against the wire.

The sad first day of school will come back,
 And the barefoot boy will hide out in the grass,
 And by the time we've caught these malcontents,
 The Crippen chase will look like thirty cents.

Milady Fashion in her hobble skirt will stride the pavement with the men alert to set her right side up again in case she should in time turn turtle any place. It does beat thunder what the women wear, and how they stick on other people's hair, constrict their middles and constrain their toes and what importance they attach to clothes. But bless us, are they after all to blame, or had they been in these things quite the same if Mother Eve's first thought as we suppose, had not been necessarily of clothes? Was it to be expected in her case that with a man somewhere upon the place she ever thought of anything at all but gowns, slippers, or perhaps a shawl?

But anyhow, the crawfish will have holed,
 And the pumpkin shown the faintest trace of gold.
 The sassafras will don a redder dress,
 And the gods will crowd around the cider press.

Or prohibition or whatever will, here is a fountain that shall serve us still; a place of resting and a steal away out of the desert and the heat of day. A place of quiet and the shade of palms, of irrigation and the soothing balms that no reformer till the poles embrace shall ever capture for a bathing plane.

The hosts of labor will parade the street, which will remind us of a happy feat in arbitration from the oiden days when Julius Caesar was a sort of craze. It is related of that ancient time that sweat September in the Roman clime was hot as blazes, and the union file
