Official Paper of the City of Jacksonville, Oregon

A weekly newspaper published every Saturday at the county seat of Jackson County, Oregon. D. W. BAGSHAW, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter June 22, 1897, at the post office at Jacksonville, Oregon, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1910

SUBSCRIPTION: One year by mail $1.50. Advertising rates furnished on application.

The State Game Warden in his annual report submitted to the governor Dec. 15, recommends that the open season for killing deer should close Oct. 1, instead of Nov. 1, as at present. This is a mistake, if a shorter season is necessary or advisable it should be curtailed by cutting out the first month instead of the last as the deer are in far better condition at the close than at the opening of the season, August 1st.

Jim Hill must be from Missouri, but whether he is or not his advice is good. He gives two tips to Oregon when he says "Show what you have and don't rob people." These tips are worthy of the notice of railroad companies as well as private citizens.

MOCK ON TRIAL

Julian A. Mock on trial for murder of Jesse Smith--

Jury empanelled and are sworn--Testimony being taken as we go to press.

In the case of the State of Oregon vs. Julian A. Mock, was called in the circuit court, Thursday morning at nine o'clock. Prosecuting Attorney Mulkey appearing for the State and the defendant being represented by E. E. Kelley of Medford.

The defendant in the case, Julian A. Mock, is charged with the killing of Jesse Smith, at Medford, Ore. on the 20, of September 1910.

Almost the entire day Thursday, was spent in securing a jury, some of those called were excused on account of defective hearing and others had formed or expressed opinions as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant.

The regular panel was exhausted and several special venire issued before the box was filled.

The work of selecting the jury was completed at 3:30, the jury sworn and a brief statement of the case made by the prosecuting attorney, followed by a few remarks by Mr. Kelley after which a recess was taken until 9 o'clock Friday morning when the trial was resumed by the introduction of testimony and is still in progress as we go to press.

Estray Notice

Came to my place at Provolt, Ore. on or about Nov. 1st, 1910, one Jersey heifer about 1 year old. No marks or brands. Color yellow.

I have taken up said heifer and have her in my possession at my ranch near Provolt, Ore. The owner of heifer is requested to call at said ranch, prove property, pay charges for pasture and advertising and take her away, within six weeks from and after date of this notice, otherwise she will be sold according to law.

Dated Provolt, Ore. Dec. 9, 1910.

H. MESSINGER.

Oregon Sidelights.

There are thousands of acres of the best quality of garden land in the vicinity of Banks.

Only 25 votes were cast in the Corvallis school election, 17 of which were for a 5 1/2 mill tax.

Much residence building and other improvements have taken place in the eastern part of Albany this year.

So great has been the development and settlement of Josephine county outside of Grants Pass that more schools are being needed all the time.

It has been authentically stated that 5,268,000 pounds of hops are annually produced and sold within a radius of six miles from this city every year.

From seven acres of Newtown Pippins, A. D. Helms of Ashland, Or., marketed $9100 worth of apples in 1909, or $1300 an acre. In 1907 his yield was worth $16,000, or more than $2000 an acre.

Medford will send a large delegation to the state good roads convention to be held at Portland Monday instructed to work for state aided highways and for the employment of state prisoners on the Crater Lake highway.

There are 12,000,000,000 feet of merchantable timber in the Siskiyou forest, which has its headquarters at Grants Pass. Outside of the forest and tributary to Grants Pass are 8,000,000,000 feet more of merchantable timber.

Hillsboro has a charter which will permit of street improvement, drainage and sewerage, and this should be an epoch in the history of the town, says the Argus. With proper drainage, with septi tank sewerage, and with the principal streets furnished with hard surface we will have a town that will be praiseworthy.

Notices are posted in a large number of precincts in Washington county calling for meetings to vote for or against a special tax for laying rock roads, and it is said that the sentiment is very strong in those road districts where citizens have traveled over the work which was accomplished last summer and fall, reports the Argus. - Journal.

Warmth Not Wanted.

"This would be a pleasant world if people put more warmth-genuine warmth-in their letters," said the man of sentiment.

"I don't agree with you," replied his worried friend, "there was a warmth about some of the business letters I got this morning that I didn't at all like."

THEIR CHRISTMAS SURPRISE.

"THIS year," said Cartwright firmly, "there are going to be no Christmas surprises in my happy home--none of those pleasant little attempts at playing Santa Claus which begin with suspense and effort and end in mortification and disappointment. I am going to take my wife downtown and let her pick out anything she wants within the limit of my spending capacity, and then I'm going to let her take me around and fix me up with a pair of embroidered suspenders or gold cuff links or any old thing she likes and that will make her happy. Neither of us has quite got over the effects of the last holiday season yet.

"You see, we had been married just long enough last Christmas to wear out our first installment of furniture and most of our wedding gifts. Things were looking a little shabby around the house, so we both agreed that in selecting our little remembrances for one another we ought to confine ourselves to something which would be mutually useful and attractive. Both of us had been secretly longing for a morris chair, one of those mission things with big leather cushions that swallow you up in a delirium of comfort. Mrs. C. wanted it for the beauty of the library and her afternoon siestas, and I wanted it for evening recreation.

"Months before the Christmas season I began putting by a little sum weekly, with the morris chair in mind. Two weeks before the 25th I went down to a dealer's to look at chairs. I had been looking casually for weeks before, but it was not until I came upon this particular shop that I discovered what I wanted. It was a beauty in the darkest and finest of weathered oak, with all attachments and a pair of fat, greeny brown leather cushions that fairly felt like pipe dreams, laced with leather strappings and tied to the woodwork with thongs. The minute I saw the chair I knew it was for me, but the price was rather staggering. The dealer wanted $95 for it at first, and when I had got him down to $80 he acted as though he were giving the thing away. I thought it best to hold out a little, so I merely requested that he give me a day's option on the chair and paid a small deposit for the privilege.

"Meanwhile my wife had been saving every penny, cutting down on the grocery bill and keeping me on cheap meals with Christmas in view. It seems that she, too, had a morris chair on the brain. On the afternoon of the same day on which I discovered my prize she strolled into the same shop. The first sight of the chair was enough for her, and she offered to buy it on the spot. The dealer was incoherent. He had sold the chair, he believed; at least he had given a gentleman an option on it, and the gentleman had paid a deposit, but if madam would leave her name something might be done.

"When my wife spelled out her cognomen for him he lifted his eyebrows in astonishment. That was exactly the name and those were the initials of the gentleman who had already spoken for the chair. My wife thought for a moment. Then she controlled her emotions and merely remarked that such coincidences were quite common and walked out without leaving her address.

"Next day I hid me to the dealer's quickly, prepared to leave my order for the chair. But the dealer did not seem half so inclined to sell. A lady had been there, it seems, a lady of my own name, with the same initials--odd, was it not?--who was willing to give the full price for the article. Then it was my turn to think. On the whole, I decided I did not want the chair after all. If Ellen wanted to buy it, I'd let her have that pleasure.

"Christmas morning we both fussed about the house expectantly. I wondered where on earth Ellen was keeping my morris chair. After breakfast I unloaded a pair of green portieres I had bought for her. As the wrappings came off I saw her face fall. Then she went over to a corner and produced an exactly similar bundle and unrolled another pair of green portieres for me.

"But," I stammered, "I thought you bought a morris chair!"

"Oh, John, didn't you buy it after all?"

"And then, in the light of our understanding, we wept on one another's shoulders."--New York Press.

The River Jordan. The Jordan is the crookedest river known, winding 213 miles in a distance of sixty miles.

Early Industry. Hewitt--How did you come to start in business as a floorwalker? Jewett--Twins.--Judge.

Balanced. "Why is the delivery boy always in such a rush?" asked the idler in the grocery.

"So that if in his haste he delivers anything wrong he will have time to fight the matter," the grocer explained. --Buffalo Express.

Willing to Be Tempted. Willie (who has eaten his apple)--Mabel, let's play Adam and Eve. You be Eve, and I'll be Adam.

Mabel--All right. Well? Willie--Now you tempt me to eat your apple, and I'll give way to temptation.

The Rest Cure. "Why do you make that patient wait three hours every day in your ante-room?"

"He needs rest," explained the doctor, "and that is the only way I can compel him to take it."--Louisville Courier-Journal.

Candied Flowers. Rosebuds boiled in sugar and made into a preserve are eaten by Arabians, while in China candied rosebuds and jasmine flowers are equally popular. The common yellow lily that grows in marshes and ponds is utilized by the Turks as the main ingredient of an agreeable conserve. Candied violets are very common in France, while in Roumania and Bulgaria many flowers are used for flavoring.

Sassy Food. An anecdote which we think ought to be made public and to enter into history is hereby presented. A certain man had been doing a great deal of work. He was contemplating undertaking still more, and a friend observed that if he worked too hard he would break down.

"Me!" he said. "Me break down! I don't drink them cocktails, I don't smoke, and I don't eat none of that sassy food." In our opinion he came very near analyzing correctly the sources of his strength. --Collier's Weekly.

Desert Gems. In 1880 a hunter in the northwest of New South Wales wounded a kangaroo. The animal went off through the mulla and the salt bush at a pace too fast for the hunter to follow and was soon out of sight. The hunter was a bushman and did not despair. He followed the blood trail, hopeful of a short search and a speedy bag. At one point of the pursuit it may be that the trail grew faint and necessitated a closer inspection. Anyway the hunter stooped and picked up a piece of stone. This he examined. The red spot was not on it; it was in it. It was not blood that he saw; it was opal. Such was the beginning of the White Cliffs opal fields.

Children's Answers. The superintendent of St. Louis' public schools tells many anecdotes of odd answers which have been made by children to the questions of teachers.

One teacher explained to the class in a lower room that an island was "a body entirely surrounded by water." Then she asked one of the little fellows in the class, "Now, Willie, what is an island?" "It's a person in a bathtub, teacher," said the confident Willie.

Another teacher in the physiology class asked the class in general which was the most curious bone in the human body. "Please, ma'am," was the quick reply from a little girl, "it's the wishbone."--St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
