THE MAYORS MESSAGE.

To the honorable council of the city of Jacksonville by a provision of the city charter it is the duty of the mayor at the end of his term of office to make a statement of the conditions of the affairs of the city and to recommend such measures for its government as he shall deem expedient and necessary. In complying with these requirements I hereby submit the following recommendations: In my statement to the council in February 1910, I recommended that cement walks be constructed on the business streets of the city, and now I am very much pleased to be able to say that these walks have been constructed, for which I wish to thank the citizens for responding so promptly in building their walks, other citizens seeing the benefit derived from these walks have been encouraged to build walks and there is at this time many walks in course of construction and many others contemplated at a special election held on Aug. 1, 1910 the citizens of Jacksonville voted $30,000 of water bonds to construct a system of water works for the city which I hope to see installed during the year of 1911 as it is in course of construction at this time. Owing to the limited amount of funds at our disposal the city has not been able to do but a limited amount of work on its streets, we have repaired them in many places and constructed some substantial bridges and also some very good cross walks are in course of construction which will be very convenient especially for people having business at the county court house. In conclusion I wish to thank the members of the council, the city attorney and also the city engineer for their kindness and the pleasant relations existing between us in the past year and hoping for a continuance of the same, I remain, Yours respectfully,

T. T. SHAW, Mayor.

Pioneer of Two Counties

Henry Duncan, a pioneer of Jackson and Klamath counties, passed away on his ranch, 8 miles east of Klamath Falls, Jan. 31st, aged 79 years. He was a former resident of this vicinity, and an uncle of the Hargadine boys, with numerous other relatives hereabouts. He used to follow mining operations on Jackson creek, and was one of the earlier settlers who aided in establishing the Klamath Indian agency; also followed lumbering operations on Ashland creek, up the canyon. He was buried in Klamath county.—Tidings.

The Caddie's Comment.

"Yes, sir." The caddie regarded the corrugated turf at the tee with a thoughtful frown. "Yes, sir, since you ask me the question, there are worse players than you."

"I thought so; I thought so," said the golfer.

"But they have the sense," added the expert. "not to play golf, but to stay at home and do fret sawing."—London Answers.

She Knew Better.

Ostensible Head of the Family—Marta, there was a canvasser at the office today who wanted to sell me a work on etiquette and good behavior. Teach me it in six lessons. I told him I'd ask you if you thought we wanted it.

Real Head—It's all humbug, John. It can't be taught in six lessons. I've been trying to teach it to you for sixteen years and haven't succeeded yet.

Weight Variations.

A man weighs less at noon and midnight than at sunrise or sunset at the time of new moon and full moon owing to the moon's and sun's attraction then acting together. In fact, he is subject to the same force which causes the tides.

An Echo of Tennyson.

"Ring out, wild bells!" a poet sang. "Ring off!" was hissed into his teeth. "Those same wild bells the poet sang 'Who wore old Albion's laurel wreath.'"

The poet paused him in his path. Quite angered at the sudden check. "I'll ring those bells," he said in wrath. "Or else I'll ring your scrawny neck!" T. BAPP, JR.

Unselfish.

Dad—My son, hard work brings the only true happiness. Why don't you work?

Son—Father, I intend to lead a life of self denial. Why should I seek selfish happiness? Nay, nay—no work for me!—Cleveland Leader.

Cause For Envy.

"There are times when I envy my hair," remarked the man who had failed in seventeen different business enterprises.

"Because why?" queried his wife.

"Because it comes out on top," explained he of the many failures.

Italian Peasants.

The diet of an Italian peasant is composed of black bread, beans, cabbages, onions and wild herbs, with a small quantity of inferior oil, fruit and macaroni. Tea, sugar and other similar commodities are absolutely unknown to the Italian field worker.

A Hard Face.

"Shine yer boots, sir?"

"No," snapped the man.

"Shine 'em so yer can see yer face in 'em," urged the bootblack.

"No, I tell you!"

"Coward!" hissed the bootblack as he vanished.

Just a Little Exercise.

The elevator conductor of a tall office building, noticing that the colored janitor had ridden up with him several times that morning, remarked: "Sam, this is the fifth time I have taken you up, but you have not come down with me."

"Well, you see," Sam replied, "Ah been washin' windows on de 'lev-enth floor, and every now and ag'in Ah misses mah hold and falls out."—Success Magazine.

A Sure Sign.

"I see you had a perfectly lovely time at the matinee," said the unfeeling person.

"How do you know?" asked his sentimental wife.

"Because you have cried until your nose is red."—Washington Star.

Cosmopolitan Candor.

"I suppose you saw many strange people while you were traveling around the world."

"Yes," replied the candid man. "I suspect that some of those foreign people looked as queer to me as I looked to them."—Exchange.

Days of Chivalry.

Wife (dreadfully)—Ah, me! The days of chivalry are past. Husband—What's the matter now? Wife—Sir Walter Raleigh laid his cloak on the ground for Queen Elizabeth to walk over, but you get mad simply because poor, dear mother sat down on your hat!

Realistic.

"You call him a powerful orator? Why, when he spoke of the abyss that confronts our nation the people actually yawned!"

"Certainly. He made the people actually see the abyss yawn, and you know how infectious yawning is."

Supply at Hand.

Employment Agent—I have a cook that will just suit you. She is a widow and is very fond of children.

Mrs. Ritchie—But we have no children.

Employment Agent—Oh, that'll be all right. She has six of her own.

More Details.

Life Insurance Agent—I'd like to write you up a policy if you haven't all the life insurance you think you need. Cholly Knickerbocker—You'll have to see my valet, old chap. He attends to all such matters, douter-know.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Lends His Class.

Parent—My wife and I were particularly gratified over a letter received from our boy the other day announcing that he leads his class.

College Professor—Ah, yes. The boys march into class in alphabetical order.—Exchange.

A Close Shave.

He—I had an awfully close shave this morning. She—Mercy, Jack! What was the matter? He—I needed it.

A Good Reason.

She—Why did Mabel refuse you? He—Because I could not support her in a style she is unaccustomed to.

The Eagle's Prey.

On the eastern Alps a hunter has discovered in an eagle's nest the skeleton of a child aged about three. It has been recalled that six years ago the child of a peasant in that neighborhood mysteriously disappeared. The mystery is now cleared up.

Case 36 H. P., 10-Ton Road Roller

The name of the J. I. Case Threshing Machine Company, Inc., Racine, Wis., is known in every household in the Great West and Middle West, where the products of this company have been distributed for many years. There are thousands of Case products in use through the country, and there are thousands of other buyers who would demand them were they only aware of the high standards of efficiency and general durability that they represent.

The Case 36 H.P., 10-ton Road Roller is a very desirable piece of machinery for road contractors and builders. It is an absolutely efficient machine, which has proven its ability as to quality and quantity of work to many owners. This road roller is sold $2,200 f.o.b. Racine, Wisconsin, with simple cylinder, and for $2,300 with compound cylinder. These are payment prices.

This company also sells the well known line of Troy Dump Wagons and Dump Boxes, also Road Scrapers, Road Drags, Road Routers, Stone Crushers, Rotary Stone Screens and Road Sprinkling Wagons. The attention of government contractors and other officials is called to these excellent products. Army engineer officers and other readers of this paper, who are connected with road construction in any branch, should write to the Road Machinery Department, J. I. Case Threshing Machinery Co., Local Agency Jacksonville, Oregon, for the Contractor's General Purpose Engine and Municipal Tractor catalog and mention this paper.
