The Peanut's Perfections.
The man who buys 5 cents worth of peanuts perhaps doesn't realize that his purchase is helping to build up one of the largest farm products in this country, now worth some $15,000,000 annually. The thin covering is very like wheat bran and is excellent food for live stock when mixed with other things. The shells are burned in the factories as fuel, and the ash is used for fertilizer. The vines make fine forage. Those peanuts that are not sold on the market are ground up into butter and into meal, which is used in the manufacture of confections of various kinds. But oil is the most highly prized byproduct of the peanut, of which a bushel will yield about a gallon.—Harper's Weekly.

No Performance.
Little Marian had been taught several pieces which she was called upon to speak on various occasions. There came a time, however, when the worm turned, and on being requested to speak for a visitor one day she absolutely refused. The assembled family coaxed, but in vain, and finally the visitor said, "I don't believe Marian can speak a piece."

Upon this Marian took her finger out of her mouth and said solemnly, "Mrs. Wobinson, I can, but I ain't!"—Woman's Home Companion.

Balm of Gilead.
The real balm of Gilead is the dried juice of a low shrub which grows in Syria. It is very valuable and scarce, for the amount of balm yielded by one shrub never exceeded sixty drops a day. According to Josephus, the balm or balsam of Gilead was one of the presents given by the queen of Sheba to King Solomon. The ancient Jewish physicians prescribed it evidently for dyspepsia and melancholia.

Tar Water.
Tar water was a cure-all in the eighteenth century. It was prepared by pouring a gallon of water on a quart of tar, and the dose was half a pint in the morning and a second glass in the afternoon. Its use became so fashionable that a contemporary noted: "It's as common to call for a glass of tar water in a coffee house as a dish of tea or coffee."

A Different Place.
"Don't use too long words," said an author. "On the way to Reading by train and at a town nestled beside the river I came out on the platform and drew in deep breaths of the pure, delicious air."
"Isn't this invigorating? I said to the brakeman."
"No, sir; it's Conshohocken," said he.

Unavailing Suggestions.
"It was a mistake to name our youngest George Washington," said Farmer Cornstossel.
"Isn't he inspired to follow the illustrious example constantly before him?"
"I should say not. 'Pears like names went by contraries, same as dreams. Georgie fits somethin' terrible, an' he never once thinks of choppin' wood."—Washington Star.

A Magnetic Island.
The island of Bornholm, in the Baltic sea, may be regarded as a huge magnet. Although the power of attraction is not so great as to draw nails and bolts out of approaching ships, the magnetism works a good deal of damage in that it deflects the needle of the compass so that it cannot be depended upon. The effect is perceptible at a distance of nine and a half miles.

A Big Exception.
A New York journalist was touring in Ireland.
"You see thim mountains?" said the driver of the jaunting car.
"Yes."
"Thim's the highest mountains in the wurruid."
"Is that so?" asked the surprised journalist.
"It is," assured the driver, "except in' av course, thim in furrin parts."

HERBINE

For the Bowels

A Cure for Chronic Constipation, Torpid Liver and Irregular Bowel Movements.

Constipation is the most common disorder of the bowels. It affects both sexes and all ages but is more prevalent among women because their duties in the household require less physical exercise than the occupations of men; therefore women suffer most from its baneful effect.

A constipated person is an easy victim when exposed to any serious disease—Pneumonia, Typhoid Fever, Malaria, Rheumatism, Small Pox, Yellow Fever and Bright's Disease gather their annual harvest of death among those who are habitually constipated. Even though they escape these diseases, such persons are always ailing more or less. They have headaches, bad digestion, dizzying, vertigo (blind staggers), sallow complexion, flatulence, loss of strength, and no energy at all. Herbine has a most admirable effect in the bowels; it is cooling, purifying and regulating. It puts a prompt check on biliousness, wind in the bowels, nervousness, heartburn, bad breath, low spirits, drowsiness in the daytime and nervous wakefulness at night.

Price 50c per Bottle.
