LODGED

IN JAIL

Two Men Implicated in Hold-up Near Ashland Brought to County Jail Last Week.

J. W. Canon and E. A. Nering, the young men implicated in the holdup escapade last week near White Point, were brought to the county jail last week. Canon, a Southern Pacific employe, being the victim, had a preliminary examination Thursday afternoon before Justice Hart, and were bound over in bonds of $5000 each to appear before the grand jury.

In default of bail, Constable Irwin took them to Jacksonville. The other two who were arrested with them were not implicated in the affair and skipped.

The two held were not drunk at the time, but seemed to have gotten into the trouble by deliberate intent. They are about thirty or thirty-five years old, and Canon claims to be a half-breed Cherokee. They hailed from Greer, Idaho, and letters found on them were addressed to them at Kennett, Calif., the tenor of the same implying that they were men with families.—Ashland Tidings.

Washington Letter.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture have received with satisfaction announcement from the experimental ground wood pulp mill which the Department has been equipping at Wausau, Wisconsin, in cooperation with the American Pulp and Paper Association, that the mill has begun to grind. The carrying on of the tests now announced as under way was provided for by a special appropriation, placed at the disposal of the Secretary of Agriculture by Congress last winter, to conduct tests of the suitability for paper making of plants and woods which seem likely to become valuable sources of supply of new material.

Secretary Wilson considered that the best use which could be made of this money would be to conduct experiments on a commercial scale, with various kinds of wood. Some of these have already been studied in the laboratory, and found to be intrinsically suitable for pulp manufacture. Indeed, the Forest Service has actually made paper by one of the chemical processes from several of them. But in order to know whether they can profitably be utilized, under present conditions, it is necessary to test them under methods of manufacture comparable to those employed in actual business operations. In particular, it is desired to find out to what extent new woods can be used for ground pulp, the cost of which is usually less than that of chemical pulp.

The Wausau mill has been built especially for the use of the Government for as long as the experiments may require. Its dimensions are 40 by 100 feet, and it is equipped with electrical machinery and all necessary apparatus of the most up-to-date type. Part of the equipment is contributed by the American Pulp and Paper Association, and part is furnished by the Government. The Association will also furnish the wood for the tests. The wood now on hand includes carload lots of jack pine, spruce, hemlock, and tamarack. The jack pine is to be the first wood tested.

Oregon Sidlights.

A Forest Grove egg measures 1 1/4 by 3/4 inches.

Farmers are plowing in northeastern Umatilla county.

Forest Grove has the paving fever, says the News.

Prospect is good for much building in Bandon this year.

Many eastern people are writing to Klamath Falls chamber of commerce for information.

Story of mad coyotes biting dogs and hogs in Chewanacan valley was a fake, says the Press.

A company has bought between 11,000 and 12,000 acres near Ontario, and will install a pumping plant to irrigate it.

Man near Dallas had to abandon a 16-foot well on his place on account of the water being so highly tinged with oil as to be unpalatable.

Douglas county men bought 550 acres near Roseburg for about $100,000; 100 acres will be platted in lots and the rest divided into 10 and 20 acre tracts.

More good road building than ever before will be done in Douglas county this year. That is the greatest development the county can get, as well as its best permanent improvement, says the Review.

After four years of dilly-dallying Eugene is about to get its water supply in a safe condition and the city is not calling for any outside help with which to accomplish the desired result, says the Register.

The Dallas justice of the peace says he has married over 100 couples and that in but one instance have the couples failed to live happily ever after. That couple secured a divorce, but soon regretted it and had the knot retied.

A mutual telephone company that started by building a line from Flora to Troy, Grouse and Bartlett, in Walla Walla county, is rapidly expanding into a large affair, says the Chieftain. A branch line reaches upper Lost Prairie and this will be extended to reach the lower farms. The system will also be extended 11 miles into the Eden country, and will be built six miles up the Little Salmon in the near future.

At present there is a greater demand by eastern people for information concerning this section of the country than ever before, says the Silverton Appeal. Scarcely a day but what we receive from one to a great many more requests from persons who are yet in the east for sample copies of the Appeal.—Journal.

PORTLAND LETTER.

Reclamation of Stump Lands of Northwest Now in Sight.

Portland, Or., Feb. 21 (Special).—The transformation of a wilderness into a garden is planned for Western Washington and Oregon no less wonderful than the miracle wrought by irrigation east of the Cascades. This is the solution of the logged-off land problem that now seems in sight. To the Southwest Washington Development Association must be given the credit of carrying this movement forward until it has reached a point where successful clearing of large areas of stump lands at low cost is successfully accomplished.

At the convention of the association, held the past week in Vancouver, the method of operation was shown and plans for the future discussed. Prof. Sparks of the State College at Pullman showed by actual demonstration how land may be cleared of stumps and roots with a minimum of money and effort and at the convention sessions prominent delegates outlined a scheme for pooling large stump areas and making fertile farms out of now almost worthless land.

The organization of a big company to handle the land, clearing it and placing it on the market in small tracts for the farmer, was forecasted. It was suggested that money be raised for the work by bonding the land, similar to the plan followed in irrigation districts. Easy payments for purchasers were favored and it was generally agreed that the resulting development in dairying, vegetable growing and fruit raising would be astonishing in its far-reaching benefits to the territory lying between the Cascade Mountains and the sea.

Twenty-two towns will be placed on the railroad map of Oregon by the operation of the Oregon Trunk up the Deschutes Canyon and to Madras, which will be started March 1. These centers have never before had railroad transportation and the surrounding country will increase in productivity and wealth to a remarkable extent because of the markets placed within reach of the farmer by the coming of the railroad. Pioneer conditions will obtain no longer in Central Oregon. There is now no obstacle to its agricultural development.

Products of the Beaver State will have their inning during the two weeks beginning February 27, when the "Made in Oregon" exposition will open in Portland. Home manufacturers will show what they are doing to meet the demands of their own people for factory products, and the wide variety of articles to be shown will, unquestionably, prove a surprise to many. A local department store will house the exhibits. A similar exposition was held here some years ago and was a great success. The promoters of the coming show expect to outdo the former one.

A colony of Danish farmers is to be brought to Oregon during the coming spring and established on lands in Multnomah and Yamhill counties. The immigrants will number about 100 and are all experienced in intensive farming. Small tracts will be used and vegetables, small fruits and poultry will be raised. Practically every foot of ground will be utilized by these thrifty farmers from abroad, and it is said that they can teach the American agriculturist a few things in "conserving" all the resources of the soil.

The use of a portion of the Pendleton-Yoakum cutoff on the main line of the O-W. R. & N. was an event of the past week. This is the rebuilding of the track between the two points, eliminating curves and leveling grades. The work has cost $1,250,000 and will be a great improvement for the fast and safe operation of trains.

Needed Here Too.

The following revised version of the ten commandments, adopted by Ashland's Civic Club might be used to advantage here by changing the name of the city. They are:

I. We are citizens of Ashland, and should therefore trade at home.

II. Thou shalt not belittle our city by trading elsewhere.

III. Remember that our business men must have your support in order to prosper and bring success to our town.

IV. Honor our business houses with your patronage.

V. Thou shalt not kill the prosperity of our town by sending your money to neighboring cities.

VI. Thou shalt continue to maintain a "dry" town.

VII. Thou shalt not rob our merchants by sending our dollars to outside mail order houses.

VIII. Thou shalt not bear false witness against our city's commendable activities.

IX. Thou shalt not covet our neighbors' good fortune, but work with steadfast purpose for the exploitation of our own.

X. And this, our last commandment, includes all others combined in one, to the end that none should be "knockers," but be loyal to Ashland and prove such allegiance by trading at home.

O. A. C. NEEDS FUNDS

Legislator Says it Should Have Support—Items of Interest From the College.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Ore., Feb. 21. The need of the Oregon Agricultural College for additional funds to carry on its work of supplying the state with well trained men to care for its agricultural interests and development, was emphasized by Representative J. A. Westerlund of Jackson county in a recent interview on the visit of the legislators to Corvallis.

"We have been over the entire college," he said, "and it is everywhere evident that there are not sufficient accommodations for the 1,600 students. Furthermore, the college is built along technical and practical lines. It is making farmers, and that is what we are needing more than anything else just now."

"The military reception made a great impression on all of the members. It made us feel proud of an institution that could give us such a welcome, and it brought to our attention more clearly than ever how really important the military training is, both for disciplinary purposes, and for the creation of a nation with a fair conception of military work."

"The shops especially impressed me as being well manned, and to see those students busily at work that will yield returns in years to come was a sight well worth looking at. One thing I noticed especially, and that was, when we came in there was no curious crowd staring around, but every student kept at work as if he had been trained that way."

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Ore., Feb. 21. The Oregon Agricultural College basketball team will play a series of games during the intersemester vacation, touring the college towns of the Willamette Valley. On Feb. 18 O. A. C. plays Willamette University in the capital city. In Portland the Beavers play Columbia University in the university gymnasium, and games are also scheduled with the Multnomah Club and the Y. M. C. A.

The tour of Washington and Idaho for games with the conference colleges and others is deferred until early in March, since there were conflicting dates at the University of Idaho and Washington State College. Washington University team plays O. A. C. at Corvallis Thursday, Feb. 16. The Agricultural College team is at present made up of the following men: "Teddy Reed, of Burns, Harney county, at left forward; Ben Cooper, Corvallis, right forward; Ellis Dement, Myrtle Point, Coos county, at center; Allen Burdick, Portland, at left guard; and Claude Matson, Astoria, Clatsop county, at right guard."

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Ore., Feb. 21. New subjects added to the curriculum of the mining engineering department of the Oregon Agricultural College for the semester, which opens Feb. 28, include mine surveying, special work in assaying, metallurgy of gold and silver, and ore dressing.

The mining students are to take a trip during the inter-semester holidays to the Tacoma Smelter Company's plant, to study its operation.

Harry J. Evans, of Bourne, Baker county, who graduated from the mining engineering department at O. A. C. last year, is now employed by the American Mining Company of New York at its mines in Korea.

Corvallis, Ore., Feb. 21. The debate in which the Philadelphian and Jeffersonian literary societies at O. A. C. decide the year's championship and the possession of the Gatch Cup is on the subject "Resolved, That the higher institutions of learning of Oregon should be under one board of regents".

Senate bill No. 284, fixing the salary of the school superintendent of Jackson county at $1800, has been passed.
