FOREST SERVICE

New National Forest Range Regulations Approved by Secretary Wilson.

Washington, March 25.—The Secretary of Agriculture has approved a revised form of the grazing regulations which govern use of the National Forest ranges. In the opinion of the Department officers, the most important departures from the old regulations are found, first, in the fact that provision is made for recognition of a permanent National advisory board representing the sheep and cattle interests, which will confer annually with the Secretary of Agriculture concerning grazing matters; and secondly, in the laying down of a rule that on forest where the quality of range and advantages for raising cattle and sheep are equal, the year long rate for sheep after the season of 1911 will be thirty per cent of the yearlong rate for cattle.

The new regulations have been made the subject of extended and most careful consideration and are promulgated at the present time as the result of a general revision made of all the regulations governing the use of the National Forests. Before deciding on the grazing regulations, Secretary Wilson invited representatives of the two great National organizations of stockmen, the National Wool Growers' Association and the American National Live Stock Association, to present their views to him on grazing matters, and to make any suggestions which they might wish to offer concerning the proposed regulations.

Teaching Farmers by Mail

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Ore., March 28.—The principal of making the college of direct, practical service to every taxpayer of the state of Oregon, of carrying its assistance and instruction out to those who are unable to attend the courses at Corvallis, is demonstrated in a striking manner by Oregon Agricultural College in its new correspondence course in farm accounting and business methods, given by the school of commerce under Dean J. A. Bexell.

One advantage to the farmers, in addition to the fact that it is free to all, that it can be taken up at any time, and carried on at the convenience of the student, without restriction as to the number of months it covers. There are already fifty students enrolled in the work, and it has so attracted the attention of the publishers of the bulletin of lesson instructions that they have evolved a plan by which Dean Bexell's course can be offered by all the different agricultural schools throughout the country, adapted to each locality and its particular needs.

As fast as the funds and instructional force at the college will allow, other courses will be added to the correspondence work for farmers, including a study of rural law, and agricultural economics. Unfortunately the legislature did not allow the appropriation requested for this work, so it can not at this time receive the attention and development planned for it. It is the policy of the college, however, to extend these advantages to the people of the rural communities of the state as fast as resources will permit.

That thousands are studying farm accounting and business methods as taught by Dean J. A. Bexell of the Oregon Agricultural College school of commerce is demonstrating beyond doubt by the fact that the first edition of 2,000 volumes of his text on the subject was exhausted a short time after it came from the press, and a new edition of 4,000 copies more than made necessary, to supply the demand.

From every state in the Union and from six foreign countries requests for copies have been received, several hundred still unsatisfied. A large number of the agricultural colleges of the country and the farm journals have written Mr. Bexell of their appreciation of the value of the work. Already several high schools and colleges have adopted it as the text book to be used in instruction in farm business methods and accounts.

"My aim," said Mr. Bexell, in discussing the book, "has been to make the exercises in it as practical as possible, but no attempt has been made to limit the illustrations to actual experience on any particular farm. For this reason both prices and results will vary considerably from actual practice. This will not, however, reduce their illustrative value. I have introduced many new labor saving devices conforming with the best business methods.

"The increasing interest shown in farm accounting and business methods would warrant a belief that it will shortly be introduced in the high schools of the country as one of the regular subjects for instruction. Surely there is no other more sadly neglected, and none more worthy of attention. I shall be grateful for any suggestions or criticisms from farmers or teachers who become acquainted with my book, as they will greatly aid me in the preparation of future editions."

PORTLAND LETTER.

Livestock Show Proves Portland's Place as Leading Market.

Portland, Or., March 28 (Special)—Portland gained considerable prestige as a livestock market from the recent Fat Stock Show held here. Not only was the show a great success but it broke former price records for stock. The sale of the champion steer for $409, or 25 cents a pound, on foot, is the highest figure paid for beef in this market. The steer was two years old and was raised in Baker county.

Livestock men, the Commercial Club and the railroads contributed to the prizes and they brought out a large number of splendid exhibits. Breeders in attendance were impressed as never before with the importance of this market and its future as a livestock center. This is also the highest market for cattle in the United States, quality and conditions being considered. Inside of five years, predicted a Montana stockman at the show, all the cattle in the northwest will come to Portland.

Oregon's Naval Militia will get the Cruiser Boston for use in training the members in the ways of the navy. The vessel will be available May 15 and will be stationed at Portland. Cruises will be made to sea and to coast points to give the membership practical instruction in handling a fighting ship. The Reserve is an active organization that promises to become more important as time passes.

North Plains is one of Oregon's newest towns and one of the first things it did was to organize a commercial club and line up with the progressive spirit now so noticeable throughout the state. Portland Commercial Club officials, railroad men and others made an excursion to North Plains during the week and attended the "christening" of the new town.

Oregon is getting its full share of tee colonists who are crowding the westbound trains. A telegram from Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern, to Manager Chapman of the Commercial Club bore the information that over one-third of the passengers on the Oriental Limited one day out of the Twin Cities were bound for Oregon. This ratio is probably true of practically all of the colonist trains coming to the northwest.

Instead of the usual foolishness that attends April 1, one Oregon town is going to accomplish something useful. Gaston, under the direction of the women's auxiliary of the commercial club, will clean house that day. Everybody will help, and it will be known as the cleanup day.

Oregon postmasters will hold the annual convention in Portland June 7, 8 and 9. Selection of the place of meeting and the dates were made during the past week. Postmasters of California, Washington and Idaho will be invited. Matters for the betterment of the service will be discussed and many suggestions made that will very likely be adopted by the department.

Cove, the beautiful and thrifty fruit growing city of the Grande Ronde Valley, has taken steps to organize a commercial club. One of the first projects in view is the holding of a cherry fair on the first week in July.

Oregon Sidelights.

Klamath county's paramount issue at present is the location of the new court house.

Judge Ben B. Lindsey, the famous juvenile court authority, will lecture at Baker, April 3.

Lebanon capitalists will build at Lebanon a three-story brick hotel of 60 rooms, to replace the hotel recently destroyed by fire.

Joseph Herald: Wallowa county now has but one telephone system, the Home Independent company having bought out the Bell Telephone company.

Enterprise News Record: An Oklahoma man who arrived in Enterprise a few days ago is already satisfied he has found the country he was looking for and is now seeking some one who wants a good farm back in Oklahoma.

Haines Record: No brighter prospects for the Powder valley farmer could be asked for than are apparent at this time. But regardless of what the early prospects are this valley always shows up with the best of them at the finish.

Evangelists Taylor and Wegner, according to the Malheur Enterprise, have closed a most successful series of revival meetings in Vale and are now holding similar services in Huntington. During the two weeks in Vale the evangelists secured 170 professions.

Silver Fake Leader: A few weeks ago the Leader mentioned that Silver Lake needed a bank. The Portland Journal copied the item, and as a result we are now in a fair way to secure the coveted institution. Just another example of the fact that it pays to advertise.

Culver, Crook county is represented journalistically by the Deschutes Valley Tribune Vol. No. 1, was issued March 23. It is a five-column folio, home print. Moreover, Culver has organized a volunteer fire department, and a new brass band is practicing diligently.

Dramatic and club note in Silver Lake Leader: The Fort Rock dramatic club will present their play, "The Homesteaders," at the Odd Fellows hall here. The play is warmly commended by those who saw it produced at Fort Rock. The proceeds will go to the Fort Rock Literary association.

Jackson county's need of a new jail is emphasized in the report of the grand jury. Among other things, segregation of classes of criminals is recommended. The paupers at the poor farm are not so well cared for as they should be. Inadequacy of capacity and of forces and funds is the sole charge in respect of the management of these institutions.

After recording that Charley Runyan, who claims to be the boss fisherman of northeastern Oregon, says that after the season opens on April 1 he wants to engage a man with a wagon to haul fish heads from his back yard to the surrounding farms, to be used as a fertilizer, the Joseph Herald proceeds to guess that fish tales will be more in evidence than fish heads.

The Malheur Enterprise, published at Vale, sees in prospect 170,000 acres reclaimed under the Bully Creek and Malheur projects, a $20,000 railway depot, a fine high school building and a city hall that shall be "the envy of all neighboring towns." Meanwhile, the city council is about to clean up the city park and the busiest streets of the city are to be graded and graveled.—Journal.

FAREWELL RECEPTION

Tendered Mrs. Leeve on the Eve of Her Departure for England.

A farewell reception and leave-taking was tendered Mrs. Leeve, at the residence of Mrs. M. H. Roundtree, Monday afternoon.

The reception was given on account of the departure of Mrs. Leeve and children for the old home in England, opportunity to say good bye, was embraced by some twenty-five friends and acquaintances of Mrs. Leeve who expressed their regret at her departure, and their wishes for a safe arrival at her home in that far off land.

One of the pleasant incidents of the occasion was the presentation by the friends to Mrs. Leeve of an elegant gold pin, the emblem of the Rebekah Lodge, of which she is a member.

Gumption on the Farm.

Steady now! Don't rush into the spring work like a "house afire." Take things easy until man and beast get accustomed to the strain.

The toad is the gardener's friend. When you don't know just what to do, go in and have a good talk with your wife.

Save your metal roofing by giving it a good coat of paint, and do it before it is too late.

The mountain of work before you can all be worked off if you just keep a cheery heart and peg away.

A man with a large family can live better on the farm, where money grows, than in the city, where money goes.

Take time to look into every project that is suddenly sprung on you. Life's greatest successes come out of the most careful consideration.

Can't you fix it so that you will not have to buy any garden stuff this year? Of course you can. What any farmer can do, you can. Get right at it now and make the best garden in town. Surprise yourself and the neighbors.

Here is the formula for treating seed potatoes to prevent scab: Soak the whole seed for two hours in a mixture of one-half pint of formalin (formaldehyde) and fifteen gallons of cold water; dry the seed, cut and plant in ground that has not recently grown potatoes.

If you are planning to grow your own asparagus plants sow the seed as soon as the ground can be worked. Palmetto is a splendid variety and you will make no mistake in planting it. Be sure to get seed from a reliable grower. Make the drills wide enough apart to permit cultivating with a horse. Thinning the plants to two inches in the drill, and thorough shallow cultivation are necessary to secure strong, well-rooted plants by fall.

ELECTRIC SPARKS.

Is Diaz also a "lame duck?"

Of primary importance,—remember April 4th.

A sad, sad summer for the Chautauquas, with Champ Clark, so busy.

The Government has ordered 500 mules to the front; it looks like business for Missouri.

We could not approve of any war, lightly undertaken, just at the advent of the fishing season.

Mr. Woodrow Wilson having dined with Mr. Bryan may expect to be under suspicion of having borrowed ideas, which he may hereafter promulgate.

The new Maxim explosive is doubtless presented to give peace advocates new hope in the theory that war can be made too terrible to be attempted.

Senator La Follette looks across the border line into Mexico and wonders whether it may not become proper for "us insurgents" to stand together even in war.

The Japanese war scare necessitates as many denials as the average resignation rumor.

It would be interesting to know whether Dr. Aked has any reason for believing California would be led to righteousness more easily than New York.

There may be hope of depleting the Japanese forces by getting that country interested in aviation.

Be patient with the weather. We'll soon be eating early peas.
