APPLEGATE CELEBRATES

Fourth of July With Ball Game, Dance, Etc.

Probably nowhere in Jackson county was the Fourth so well enjoyed as on the Upper Applegate. The farmers and miners with their families came for miles from either direction and enjoyed themselves to the utmost. Picnic dinners were followed by a ball game, and races. The feature of the day, however, was the ball game. The Upper Applegate nine, the "Bluejays," have been carrying off all the honors this year, but the lower team, with the assistance of McIntyre and Dnnford, of the local battery, contrived to trim their wings. The game was interesting but a little hard to keep track of, as 22 runs crossed the plate. The final score was 10 to 12 in favor of the Lower nine, who secured 14 hits, and the Bluejays only 6. In view of this we dread to think of what the Bluejays would have done to the lower nine if it had not been for McIntyre. After the ball game, 60 yard, 100 yard and 200 yard dashes for the men and boys, a 60 yard dash for boys under twelve, and 60 yard dashes for little girls, big girls and old girls, respectively, were all run with considerable excitement.

Somebody also said there was a horse race, but we didn't see anything that looked like it.

After supper, everyone danced at Anos McKee's till about 4 o'clock the next morning.

GOV. WILSON SPEAKING.

The Man in Whom Many See a Future President of U. S.

GOVERNMENT BY THE PEOPLE.

All Progressive Reforms Have Their Object, Says Wilson. Discussing the progressive movement in politics, Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey said recently:

"If you will look at the proposed reforms, proposed by men in both parties, meant to serve the country in some special way, you will see that each particular reform has a definite object. For example, the question of the cost of living is a question which touches the great body of the people. It does not touch those exceptional persons whose income is abundant. It touches the whole body of the people. The question of direct primaries touches the accessibility of the offices by the people. It touches the means which they are to exercise to put the sort of men they desire into office. The question of the equalization of taxation means that equality which is justice, that fairness which will see that no man is taxed more than another man or upon a different basis from other men or other corporations. The question of corrupt practices in elections is a question of the attacks which have been made upon the virtue of the people.

"Every direction you turn you will see that what we are striving after is to bring the government back within the touch of the people and to use it in behalf of the people. Upon what sort of occasion, therefore, in what sort of campaign, should a man who remembers the long traditions of American government take greater pleasure and zest than in a campaign which has such objects?"

THE PROGRESSIVE MOVEMENT.

It is Pervading the Whole Country, Declares Woodrow Wilson.

How widespread is the progressive movement in American politics was eloquently expressed by Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey in a recent speech. The governor said:

"It does not require any great imagination to think that high thoughts and purposes in politics are running subtly through every household and every member of every household in this country. It does not need that you should touch elbows—actually touch elbows—with men in the street and men in the shop in order to know the great issues of human happiness that are involved in a great contest like this, for the question of the tariff is not a mere question of policy. It is a question of the rearrangement of the public interests as you touch every household in this country; and how any man in such circumstances can hold his head up after he has voted for a special interest without a just conception of the common interests I for one cannot comprehend.

"But whether men can comprehend it or not, help it or not, we all know that the 'mills of the gods grind slowly,' and they 'grind exceedingly fine,' and the men who now resist this great impulse of reform, the men who impede this great compulsion of public interest, will be ground so fine as some of these mills of the gods that their very dust will be imperceptible."

I am accused of being a radical. If to seek to go to the root is a radical, a radical I am. After all, everything that flowers in beauty in the air of heaven draws its fairness, its vigor, from its roots. Nothing living can blossom into fruitage unless through nourishing stalks deep planted in the common soil. Up from that soil, up from the silent bosom of the earth, rise the currents of life and energy. Up from the common soil, up from the quiet heart of the people, rise joyously today streams of hope and determination bound to renew the face of the earth in glory.

I tell you the so called radicalism of our times is simply the effort of nature to release the generous energies of our people. This great American people is at bottom just, virtuous and hopeful. The roots of its being are in the soil of what is lovely, pure and of good report, and the need of the hour is just that radicalism that will clear a way for the realization of the aspirations of a sturdy race.—Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey in a Recent Speech.

Uses of the Bible. A wee miss was visiting her young aunt who had just got married and gone to housekeeping in Boston. The little girl wandered over the new home, examining everything, and finally came back to her aunt, who was waiting for her report.

"Well, auntie, you seem to have about everything," she said. "But I have found one thing that is missing."

"What is it?" asked the aunt. "A Bible," the little girl replied soberly. "A Bible," questioned the aunt, to test the child's answer. "What would I want of a Bible?" The little girl looked at her in wonder for a moment and then replied in a sober tone: "To press flowers in, of course!" —Boston Traveler.

Promise and Performance. In Tolstoy there was the same contradiction between the natural man and the ascetic moralist that pertains to lesser minds, and in a certain instance cited by Aylmer Maude in his "Life of Tolstoy" this mental elasticity makes for humor.

When Sarah Bernhardt visited Moscow the great man delivered himself of a crushing condemnation of the contemporary theater and of the falsity of dramatic art in general. After a momentous silence one of his guests admitted, somewhat timorously, that he was going to see the French actress that evening. Tolstoy's face suddenly lighted up with a good humored smile. "Do you know," he said, "I am awfully sorry I'm not going."

In An Old Library. What a place to be in is an old library! It seems as though all the souls of all the writers that have bequeathed their labors to these Bodleians were reposing here as in some dormitory or middle state. I do not want to handle, to profane the leaves, their winding sheets. I could as soon dislodge a shade. I seem to inhale learning, walking amid their foliage, and the odor of their old moth scented coverings is fragrant as the first bloom of those scintillating apples which grew amid the happy orchard.—Charles Lamb.

To Purify Water. To purify water sprinkle a tablespoonful of pulverized alum into a hoghead of water (the water to be stirred at the same time). It will after a few hours, by precipitating to the bottom the impure particles, so purify the water that it will be found to contain nearly all the freshness and clearness of spring water. A painful containing four gallons may be purified by a teaspoonful of alum.—National Magazine.

A Vast Difference in Floor Finishes

It means economy—it means satisfaction—it means a beautiful, lasting finish on your floors, to know the difference before you buy.

Common varnishes are brittle and soon show unsightly scratches. Elastica Floor Finish is so tough that nothing mars it. Heels, scraping chairs, casters, leave no marks. Common varnishes turn white under water.

Elastica Floor Finish never dries. It is water-proof.

Common varnishes and wax need constant care and refinishing. Elastica Floor Finish keeps its original lustre. It outlasts any finish ever before offered. It saves work and saves expense.

We cannot overstate the importance of knowing the facts about floor finishes. Come in and ask us.

Neglected wounds produce old sores and these in time develop ulcers which eat away the vitality.

Ballard's Snow Liniment

Is a Healing Remedy for All Ailments of the Flesh of Man and Beast.

The speed with which this splendid liniment heals up a bad wound or sore has surprised and pleased those who were accustomed to the slower and uncertain effect of less powerful remedies. It mends the lacerated flesh so quickly that there is but little time lost from work. In relieving rheumatic pains, neuralgia, sciatica, it has done and is doing a wonderful work. Many chronic victims of these diseases have found to their great satisfaction that it cures an attack in a fraction of the time required by the ordinary treatment.

It is equally effective in the flesh ailments of animals. Owners of blooded stock value it highly for two reasons: It heals sores and wounds quickly, and leaves no disfiguring scars. This remedy is needed in every home. If its great power and efficacy was generally known, no family would be without it.
