A seedy man, out at the elbows and looking as though he had slept the night in the park, stopped a gentleman on the sidewalk and said:
"My friend, you haven't seen a family consistin' of a woman and four small children—two boys and two girls, the girls lookin' like me and the boys like their mother—go ridin' by here today in a two story frame house painted yellow?"

"Excuse me, my friend. I'm in a hurry."
The wayfarer passed on, leaving the seedy man standing looking after him as though he felt very much hurt. Leaning up against a tree box, he waited for another person to question. A lady came along, and the man, pulling the rim of his hat, accosted her.

"Beg your pardon, ma'am. Have you seen anything of a poor woman with four children enjoyin' themselves on an afternoon ride in a yaller house on wheels down this here street?"

The lady looked sorrowfully at the man, took out her portemonnaie, picked out a silver coin to the value of 10 cents, gave it to him and walked on. He looked at the retreating lady, then down at the coin in his hand, and didn't seem to understand.

The next person to whom he applied was a benevolent looking gentleman with mutton chop whiskers and spectacles.

"I'm lookin'," said the seedy man, "for a family"—and stopped short.

"Well, my good man, tell me about what family you're looking for."

"I've tole that to two psons already, and they don't seem to know what I'm talkin' about. I thort I'd just call 'em a fam'bly to you, so's I wouldn't mix you up, and say nothin' about the rest of it."

"But how can I help you to become reunited to this family without your tellin' me more about them?"

"Well, if you're sure you'd understand, I'm lookin' for 'em to ride by here about this time in a yaller house enjoyin' themselves."

"In a yellow house?"

"Yes, two story, shingle roof."

"My good man," said the other after contemplating him thoughtfully for some time, "tell me where you live. I'm going to take you home."

"My residence is anywhere from 74 Union street to no number at all at present, Hopkins street."

"Poor fellow!" sighed the benevolent man.

"I tole you you wouldn't understand me. None of the others did. What's the use of my tellin' him all about it? They only think I'm gone daft."

He looked very much troubled. Taking out his handanna handkerchief, he blew his nose sonorously.

"Come with me," said the benevolent man coaxingly.

"I don't want to go anywhere with nobody. I just want to catch my wife and children as they go by and enjoy the rest of the ride with 'em."

"I think I can take you where you'll learn all about it. Come."

"Where you goin' to take me?"

"Oh, I'll take you where you'll be cared for."

"I don't want to be cared for. I want to know whether my family has gone past. There's a puff of smoke blowin' around the corner now. I shouldn't wonder if it's them!"

"I see. They're coming in an automobile. You confused it with a yellow house."

"I didn't do no such thing. The smoke I'm talkin' about comes out of the chimney."

The gentleman assumed an authoritative tone. "Now, my man, either walk with me to a police station or I'll call a policeman and have you taken there by force. You're off your head. I don't know whether you are a dangerous lunatic or not, but you need to be shut up, if not for the public good, for your own."

"I knowed it," said the man lugubriously. "I knowed if I tole you the bull thing I'd get myself into trouble."

"Will you come?"

"Who are you anyways?"

"I'm the president of the Society of General Charities. Now you know that I intend you no harm. I wish to help you."

"But I don't need no help. There's another puff of smoke. I reckon they'll be turnin' the corner purty soon. Will you wait a few minutes? If they don't come along just as I said they would I'll go with you."

"Instead of waitin' I'll go with you. If you are satisfied the smoke you see comes from another cause than what you suppose, perhaps you will go with me."
