

GOVERNMENT TIMBER

In National Forest advertised for sale at minimum price of $1 $2.50 per thousand

The Government is advertising for bids on a large body of timber on the Tahoe National Forest, in California, with an offer of terms which inaugurates an important departure from the policy of the past.

About 73 million board feet of saw timber is offered for sale, with a 10 year period for the removal of the timber. The National Forests contain a vast supply of merchantable timber, estimated at the equivalent of over 500 billion feet board measure, a great part of which is ripe for the ax or already overmature. In many cases, however, the purchaser has to make a very heavy initial investment in transportation facilities. To have this to pay, he must be able to figure on a large operation, requiring a number of years to carry through.

The Tahoe sale will call for construction of 20 miles of railroad, which will be a common carrier and therefore decidedly beneficial to the community another reason for making the sale which is taken into account. A minimum price of $2.50 per thousand feet for yellow pine, and of $1.00 per thousand feet for all other species, is specified in the advertisement. The interest which has been shown by lumbermen in this sale leads the Forest officers to believe that one or more bids will undoubtedly be received. The usual conditions of cutting National Forest timber, to insure a renewal of the forest and close utilization of what is cut, will be incorporated in the contract or sale.

That National Forest timber is in increasing demand is evidenced by the fact that over 830 million feet were sold during the year which ended on June 30, 1911, as against less than 675 million feet in the previous year. The current year is likely to show a still higher total.

PORTLAND LETTER

Will Teach Agriculture. Deposits in Banks Increase. Lakeview Celebrates Railroad Day.

Portland Or., Jan. 2(Special)—A state-wide campaign of education that leads toward instead of away from the farm is to be undertaken early this year. The State Bankers' Association the Oregon Agricultural College and the Oregon Development League are co-operating with the State Superintendent of Public Instruction to formulate a course of study to be introduced into public schools of Oregon.

A conference will be held at Corvallis about the middle of January at which the various interests will be represented and a course of instruction will be adopted. Commercial organizations are expected to arrange simultaneous meetings throughout the state at which their members will be informed on the plan and speakers selected to visit the local schools and deliver talks to the children along these lines. The school meetings will also be held on a date to be announced later.

State bankers are strongly backing the plan are contributing funds to maintain an organizer in the field, who will visit the various local school boards and teachers and enlist their aid.

Deposits in Oregon banks total $121,834,644, according to the statement of Superintendent of Banks Wright, just issued. This shows a steady gain in bank deposits over a year ago.

Some interesting comparisons are shown by Government figures on Oregon's population just gleaned from the last census by the Department of Commerce and Labor. The number of people to the square mile from 4.3 in 1900 to 7 in 1910. The drift of population during the decade was toward the cities and away from the farms. Ten years ago the percentage of people in cities of 2500 or more was 32.2 and on the farms 67.8; in 1910 this was changed, with 45.6 in the cities and 54.4 in rural Oregon. Harney, Lake, and Malheur counties average less than one person to the square mile.

Baker held a notable celebration during the past week when the one-hundredth anniversary of the coming of the white man to that section of the state was observed with appropriate exercises. The coming of Captain Wilson Price Hunt overland from Fort Boise to what is now Barker County was told again and the heroism of the early pioneers honored.

Poultrymen about Aurora are discussing going into the business of hatching and shipping day-old chicks. They say 3,000,000 baby chicks were shipped into Oregon, Washington, Idaho and California last year, and that only 50,000 of this number were hatched on the Coast the remainder coming from east of the Rocky Mountains. Oregon's mild climate would seem to be ideal for the business.

Beaver for National Park.

The superintendent of Crater Lake national park, W. F. Arant, has received a letter from Lieutenant Colonel L. M. Brett, U. S. A., who is acting superintendent of the Yellowstone national park, stating that an attempt is to be made to trap several colonies of beavers and distribute them to the various national parks throughout the West. He asked Mr. Arant if he thought he could use some of these colonies to advantage and if the conditions in his park were favorable to the propagation of the beaver.

Following the receipt of the letter Mr Arant made a careful investigation and became convinced that the conditions prevailing in the Crater Lake park were ideal for the rapid increase of the beavers and selected three places where he is desirous of placing the colonies he is in hopes of securing. He has made application for three colonies and if his requisition is granted he will make arrangements for the placing of them at points where the natural conditions are favorable to their habits of life. The beaver is a vegetarian, subsisting on herbs, bark, grasses and such food, an abundance of which is to be found in the three localities selected by Arant.—Tidings
