:-JACKSONVILLE POST:-

Official Paper of the City of Jacksonville, Oregon

A weekly newspaper published every Saturday at the county seat of Jackson County, Oregon. D. W. BAGSHAW, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter June 22, 1907, at the post office at Jacksonville, Oregon, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 6, 1912

SUBSCRIPTION: One year by mail $1.50. Advertising rates furnished on application.

The prosperity of a town depends more upon the efforts of those living in the town than of those outside of it. What are you going to do this year to put Jacksonville to the front?

Water for fire protection, sprinkling streets, lawns, etc., an electric railway; lower rate for lights; a cement mill and several other things are in sight and should materialize during the ensuing year.

At any rate the clam knows enough to shut up.

It is useless to advise an aviator not to "go up in the air," for that is his business.

Home-made things are often the best. Especially is this true of the home-made man.

The man with his all invested in mining stock is seldom in a position to rest on his ore.

Many a woman sits up late in the night before Christmas engaged in making a hem for a him.

Too often the profits of farming are less in evidence than the prophets of farming; more's the pity!

If as alleged, that the main business is making money, it is amazing the number of people who fail at it.

The farmers of this country are fast reaching the conviction that the parcels post is a good thing to tie to.

The ostrich is only secondarily responsible for the big millinery bills. It does not part with its feathers willingly.

It is reported that in some sections last summer the robins nested on the ground in order to reduce the cost of high living.

Speaking of aids to agriculture, there is the cut-worm which volunteers to cut the farmer's corn long before he is ready to cut it himself.

Before you kick the other fellow cut for not bringing home the borrowed mail, go and see if his borrowed ax stands behind the door.

Things are not always what they seem. When Johnny is met with the injunction to "wipe his feet," what is really meant is to clean his shoes.

A Free Note Book

We take pleasure in announcing that any of our readers can secure a pretty vest pocket note book and calendar by sending 4 one cent stamps to D. Swift and Co., Patent Lawyers, Washington, D. C. In addition to the 44 blank pages for memoranda, it contains calendars for 1912 and 1913, the population of the 600 largest cities, 20 in each state according to the census of 1910 the population and area of each state the number of electoral votes each presidential candidate received from each state in 1908, the number of Democrats and Republican elected to Congress by each state in 1908 and 1910 a chapter of useful household information, and a chapter of useful law points for every day use. This book would cost 25 cents at a book store.

THE SALVE OF LOVE

By SARAH W. CHAMBERS

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Every morning after my household duties have been attended to I go out to make my purchases of the day's supplies. I pass a little brick house in a window of which sits, sewing, a woman whose expression I have often studied, but always failed to interpret. It may be best described as the expression of one who has been disappointed, but has accepted the disappointment philosophically. The most surprising thing on the premises is a doorplate on which are the words, "Matrimonial Agency."

Now, I am a happily married woman and in no need of a husband, for mine is the best man in the world, and I am the mother of seven dear children. In short, our family is a loving one. But, having passed the little woman at the window many times, my curiosity at last got the better of me, and I went in. I thought the best way to gain information would be to personate a client. So I invited the woman to explain her methods.

"To begin with," she said, "I don't recommend matrimony to nobody. I'm willing to introduce them as 'hankers' after it, but I'm honest enough to tell 'em that it's a good deal like disipation—it's followed by a headache."

"I should think that would injure your business," I remarked.

"Not a bit. My opinion is when people get the matrimonial fever they get to go through it just like any other fever, only it's wuss, because most people git over other fevers within a few weeks or months at most, but the matrimonial fever usually lasts a lifetime. Most times it attacks some feller and some girl to once. Such cases can't be stopped. The cases that I put through are those where a man or a woman plies for a mate.

"Now, you're a likely lookin' woman, and I don't want to do you no harm, but I advise you to let matrimony alone. You'll only jump from the frying pan into the fire. You're used as a single person to doin' a hundred different things a day, none of 'em, mebbe, of any importance. Just as soon as you're married you got to stop and think whether your husband will approve of your doin' any one of 'em the way that suggests itself to you. Or if he's with you he'll tell you that your way is not the best. If you think it really is the best, you got to argue about it. When you've had a scrap over ninety-nine of these little matters during the day, about the time the hundredth comes up you'll be mighty tired o' the argyment. What kind of a man do you want?"

She asked the last question apparently well satisfied that she did not consider her warning would be heeded, and having eased her conscience she was ready for business.

"Well," I said, "I think I'd like a man who would always give me my own way about everything. When I'm feeling cross, I would like him to pet me, and if I receive his caresses coldly or snap at him, I'd wish him to still be as pleasant to me as a May morning."

"Look a-hera," she interrupted, "I ain't in this business to sell a million dollars' worth o' stuff for 75 cents. If you want that kind of a man you'd better go to a heavenly matrimonial exchange and get an introduction to an angel. What kind of a woman be you?"

"So far as human nature will permit, I'm the kind of a woman as the man I've described. I have seven children and sometimes I tire meeting their requirements, but I rub my tiredness with the salve of love and it takes it right out of me. My husband comes home disappointed at some failure he has made during the day; ten to one our boy Jim has fallen into some dirty hole and ruined a suit of clothes, so you see I'm ready to slap at his father, and his father to slap back at me, but before he gets home I get out my love salve and take a good rubbing, and when he appears I am ready to cheer him up."

The woman followed me with a curious glance while I was saying this and when I stopped said:

"What kind of a fancy picture are you givin' me, anyway?"

"It isn't a fancy picture; it's a true one. I'm really married and the mother of seven children. In our medicine closet we keep a big pot of the ointment of love, and my husband and I use it continually. As for the children, they don't need to use it. They are born with love in their hearts for their parents and each other. Perhaps when they grow older a good rubbing with the salve will save them much trouble, but while they are young their irritations are self healing. From what you have told me I think it possible that you may have tried to keep house without a pot of this ointment in your house. Get your family together and use the love salve freely."

Without any further remark or apology for calling I withdrew. A few days later, when I passed the matrimonial exchange, it was closed. I neither saw nor heard anything from the agent for a year, when I was surprised to receive a call from her.

"I came to thank you for that ointment you give me," she said. "After you left me I give myself a good rubbin' with it, then went to see my old man. He's with me, and our younger children are together again. That's powerful good medicine. We use it in our family all the while now."

YOU CAN ORDER your COAL by TELEPHONE?

THE TELEPHONE is the coal man's best salesman.

Many of his customers he never sees, for their orders come by wire and their checks by mail.

If you move into a new house or have an unexpected need of fuel, you can often save a day's time by telephoning your order.

In the mining and shipping of coal the Bell Telephone has become an important factor. The wholesale markets and sources of supply are kept in constant touch with the Bell Long Distance Service and the danger of a coal famine greatly reduced.
