

BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY.

Medford man held by Justice for assault Sunday night.

Ed Glover, general foreman of stock for Twoby Brothers was bound over to the grand jury Monday afternoon by Justice of the Peace G. O. Taylor, to the sum of $500, for an alleged assault with a piece of scantling upon Chris Natwick and Peter Swiler, Sunday night during the progress of a combat at a livery stable on Riverside avenue. Messrs Natwick and Swiler appeared in court with their eyes bound up, and Glover acted as his own attorney.

The testimony in the case was conflicting and replete with unusual features. Manager Barber testified that Twoby Brothers expected their men to fight to protect the interests of the company, in fact they were the kind of men the company liked best, the reply being brought out by spirited questions by Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Cherry as to his interest in the case. Practically all the witnesses for the state were contradicted by the defense, and vice versa. The court in passing sentence said it was a muddled affair. Policeman Crawford, called to quell the fight said that "Natwick had come from somewhere and been hit by something."—Sun

Course Increases 55 per cent

Corvallis, Ore., Jan. 5.—An increase of over 50 per cent in the number enrolled in the registration at the Oregon Agricultural College over the registration at the same time last year is reported by Dean A. B. Cordley, and the prediction of Dr. James Withycome, director of the experiment station, that the number would reach 1,000 by the end of the farmers' week looks to be well within probability.

This is the fifteenth year the special winter course has been offered, and the added facilities in the new building and laboratories, additional faculty and equipment, will aid in making it by far the most interesting and most useful in the history of the institution.

Many of the lectures are to be summarized in mimeographed or typewritten form for the students to take home with them, so that they may have them in permanent form to refer to. Five times as many have enrolled from Hermiston as last year and two men have come all the way from Omaha Neb. A number of others have come from British Columbia, and the state of Washington is well represented. Large delegations have come from the Hood River and Rogue River districts, also, as well as from almost every part of Oregon.

More enquiries as to the animal husbandry were received by Prof. E. L. Potter this year than ever before, and dairying has reawakened the interest of many. The new dairy building is being rushed to completion for the use of the short course, and the new horticulture building is already occupied, as are also the farm mechanic arts, and stock judging buildings. The latter pavilion is a great improvement over the previous quarters in the college barns where demonstration and judging work were done. The new building is heated and free from drafts, and the big room, 90 x 38 feet is divided by a canvas curtain at times so that two classes may be held at once.

PORTLAND LETTER

Oregon Products Attracts Settlers. Merchants Convention January 17-18.

Portland, Or., Jan. 9(Special)—Land shows and exhibits of Oregon products in the East during the winter have had a widespread effect according to those in close touch with the exhibits; and as a result, it is said the movement of colonists to Oregon next Spring during the one-way low rate period will be greater than ever before.

The Great Northern has done a splendid work this season, as it did last, in operating exhibit cars through the middle West taking a collection of Oregon products to the farmers so they might see what is grown here and learn of the state's agricultural opportunities at first hand.

Retail merchants in the state meet at Medford January 17-18, for the 6th. annual convention. The program has been made up and is filled with discussions of subjects of vital interest to the merchant. Competent speakers are secured to deliver addresses of value to the retailer.

The Forest Service is mapping the forests of the state, and will show the ownership of each piece of standing timber of any account in Oregon. By this means it is expected to increase the efficiency of the present system of fire protection during the dry periods of the year when the annual loss reaches a big sum.

The Southern Pacific Traffic department will encourage farmers in the Willamette Valley and Western Oregon to grow barley as a feed for dairy stock and to fatten hogs and cattle. To farmers who will plant an acre or two experimentally, the railroad company offers to supply the seed. The Agricultural College recommends barley as a stock feed, believing that when grown extensively, it will become as valuable for that purpose here as corn is in the Middle West.

Progress is being made in the campaign to interest children in agricultural education in Oregon. State Superintendent Alderman is sending out letters to breeders and producers of the state asking for prizes to be awarded to school pupils who shall make the best exhibits of farm products at the fairs next Fall. C. D. Nairn, of Amity, has been the first to respond and he will give a thoroughbred Scotch collie as a first prize for an exhibit of vegetables, corn etc., at the State Fair.

Mayor Henderson of Astoria is encouraging a public market for the city by the sea, emphasizing the need for such an institution in the annual message to the council. He believes it will reduce the cost of living by bringing the producer and consumer together.

Oregon editors will visit the Pendleton Roundup next Fall in a body. The plan is to take the scribes by special train from Portland, where the annual convention will be held, to Pendleton for the two final days of the Roundup. On the Sunday following the editors will probably be guests at Hot Lake.

Milton will hold a big poultry show on January 29-31. The country surrounding that point will send prize fowls for the exhibition and a splendid shooting is expected.

GOVERNOR VISITS CAMP

At "Westville". States that Oregon is known for Apples and Reform

Governor West visited the camp of "Honor men" who are working on the Crater Lake road Saturday evening and was welcomed with cheering and a chicken dinner.

The governor delivered an address in which he thanked the men for keeping faith with him and not attempting to get away.

He referred to his recent tour of the east with the western governors stating that Oregon is known for two things—apples and reform and that people in the east wanted to know all about the prison reform and that many of the eastern states are preparing to follow Oregon's lead in the treatment accorded prisoners.

One of the men responded to the governor's remarks, thanking him in behalf of the men and promising their co-operation in making the camp a success.

MINISTER PLEADS GUILTY

Sentenced to be electrocuted in May. Governor's council favors clemency.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 9.—Pleading guilty to the murder by poison of his discarded sweetheart, Avis Linnel of Hyannis, the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson was today sentenced by Judge Sanderson to be electrocuted during the week of May 19.

Summoned to court Richeson appeared on the verge of collapse. He was arraigned and at once withdrew his former plea of not guilty, pleading "guilty as charged."

While Richeson was sentenced to death, he will in all probability escape paying with his life for the crime. Statements from members of the governor's council indicate that Richeson's sentence will be commuted and that the vote stands six to three in favor of clemency with four of the ballots unalterably opposed to capital punishment and only three absolutely in favor of the death penalty.

PRIVACY FOR WOMEN

Seattle Judge Rules, Over Protest, to place Screen before Her Couch.

Seattle, Jan. 10.—Mrs. Rita Doddridge, the only woman on the jury that is hearing a manslaughter case will sleep behind a screen in the same room with the 11 men of the jury under a ruling made by Judge J. T. Ronald yesterday. Mrs. Doddridge will have the attendance of a woman bailiff, who will occupy an adjoining couch. This arrangement was made when counsel for Joseph Blanche, a city detective, on trial for killing a prisoner who attempted to escape, objected to the jurors being separated.

The attorney insisted that the law prohibiting the separation of jurors in a murder case be complied with to the letter and objected to the idea of a screen dividing the jury room. Judge Ronald said the law must be applied to the 20th century conditions and allowances must be made for conventionality. He held that the use of the screen to provide privacy for a woman juror did not constitute a separation of the jury, and this arrangement was made.

AIM ONE AT THE OTHER

Think Rifles Empty. Norris Boyd Shot Through Heart.

Ashland, Ore., Jan. 8.—Raymond Badger, 13 years old, accidentally shot and killed Norris Boyd, aged 14, late yesterday afternoon in this city. The two boys who were boon companions were returning from a hunting trip across Bear creek, and when on the outskirts of the town, emptied their rifles, as they supposed, and playfully pointed them at each other, according to the report. It turned out that a shell had been left in the Badger boy's gun and it exploded, the bullet entering the Boyd boy's heart, killing him instantly. The unfortunate survivor is overcome with anguish.

The boys are both of exemplary habits and come from two of Ashland's foremost families. Both attended the Seventh grade and their records stand high.
