A weekly newspaper published every Saturday at the county seat of Jackson County, Oregon. D. W. BAGSHAW, Editor.

SUBSCRIPTION: One year by mail $1.50. Advertising rates furnished on application.

THE PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY

It is authoritatively stated that petitions are being circulated asking that the following names, viz: Taft, Roosevelt and LaFollette, be placed on the ticket to be voted at the primary election in April. In addition to these candidates for republican nomination, there will doubtless be a number seeking a similar honor from the democratic side of the house.

That there will be plenty of timber from which to select goes without saying. Under the "Oregon System" all that is necessary is petition with the requisite number of signatures attached to it to entitle the aspirant to have his name printed upon the ballot.

Of the three mentioned above it is hard to predict at this time which will run ahead in this state. President Taft appeals most to the conservative element of the party, holding fast to the traditions and precedents of the government and constitution, sticking to the old and proven methods rather than adopting new and untried (sometimes doubtful) ones. Mr LaFollette, on the other hand is a so-called "Insurgent" and one of the foremost leaders of that element. Of course he may expect the support of a large proportion of those who believe in the new methods. In Col. Roosevelt we have still another type, in some respects a combination of both the other two, a man who as president did not always confine his activities within the bounds laid down by the constitution as strictly interpreted but who nevertheless "done" things which his friends and enemies alike pronounced good: a man who filled the position of chief magistrate of the greatest nation on earth in a manner satisfactory to a large majority of the people whom he served.

Primary elections for naming candidates for the presidency are as yet a new and untried matter and the result will be eagerly looked for by the voter in other states; what the effect will be in those states without the presidential primary remains to be seen.

FRENCH AND GERMAN COLORS

Supposed Origin of the Tricolor and the Teuton Flag.

For five centuries black and white have been the Hohenzollern colors, and the first verse of the German war song, "Ich bin ein Preusse" is: "I am a Prussian! Know ye not my banner? Before me floats my flag of black and white! My fathers died for freedom; 'twas their manner—So say these colors floating in your sight!"

The mercantile marine tricolor of black, white and red is emblematic of the joining of the Hohenzollern black and white with the red and white, which was the ensign of the Hanseatic League. This flag came into being when the North German Confederacy was established, Nov. 25, 1867, at the close of the Austro-Prussian war. The red and white represent the commercial prosperity of the nation; while the black and white symbolize the strong arm of the state prepared to protest and foster it.

Nowhere have historical events caused so much change in the standards and national ensigns of a country as in France. The oriflamme and the chape de St. Martin were succeeded at the end of the sixteenth century, when Henry III, the last of the house of Valois, came to the throne, by the white standard powdered fleur-de-lis. That in turn gave place to the famous tricolor which was introduced at the time of the revolution, but the origin of that flag and its colors is a disputed question. Some maintain that the intention was to combine in the flag the blue of the chape de St. Martin, the red of the oriflamme and the white flag of the Bourbons. By others the colors are said to be those of the city of Paris. Yet again other authorities assert that the flag is copied from the shield of the Orleans family as it appeared after Philippe Egalite had knocked off the fleur-de-lis.—Kansas City Star.

VAGARIES OF THE TIDE.

Mysterious Currents, the Secrets of Which No One Has Solved.

There are as many vagaries in the waters as in the winds. Why, for instance, should great ocean currents send their warm waters across the wide Pacific and Atlantic? Other and equally mysterious currents exist in well nigh all parts of the world.

It is on record that the sea has run for weeks out of the Java sea, through the strait of Sunda and thence back again for a like period without any perceptible rise and fall during those times.

Then there is the equatorial current that flows into the Caribbean sea, the ever flowing current to the eastward around Cape Horn, the cold stream flowing from the icy regions of the north past Newfoundland and Nova Scotia and along the American coast to the extreme end of Florida, the continual current running with a velocity of from four to five knots an hour through the strait of Gibraltar into the Mediterranean sea, the swift current running across the rocks and shoals off the end of Billiton Island, which apparently starts from nowhere and ends somewhere in the vicinity of the same place, and the current which, starting halfway up the China sea, runs from two to three knots an hour to the northeast and finally ends abruptly off the north end of Luzon.

Then we have those tidal vagaries known the world over as bores. Those that run up the Huzil and Iravadi rivers, from side to side, till they fetch their limit, often tearing the ships from their anchorage, originate nobody knows where or why. At Singapore it has been observed for days at a time that there has been but one rise and fall in the twenty-four hours.—Boston Globe.

The Seckel Pear.

The Seckel pear is one of the sweetest and daintiest fruits that grow. As another describes it, "The flesh is melting, juicy and most exquisitely and delicately flavored." That is just what it is. And the tree on which this pear grows is beautiful and vigorous, which indicates that nature has a great fondness for it. The pear is named after a Mr. Seckel of Philadelphia, on whose estate in 1817 the Seckel pear started on its happy career. Some one writing in 1847 said, "The parent tree still lives about three miles from Philadelphia."—Pittsburgh Press.

Too Suggestive.

"The health officer advised me to ask every man with whom we had domestic dealings if he was careful to boil the water he used in his business."

"Yes."

"Well, I asked the milkman first. And what do you think? He got mad and wanted to lick me."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

No Previous Employment.

"You say, Rastus, that you want work for your wife," said Gunbuss, eyeing the husky dork before him from head to foot. "Was she ever employed before?"

"No, sir," replied the negro nonchalantly; "dis am her first marriage."—New York Times.

The Sleep of Life.

We talk about the sleep of death. How much deeper, how much sadder, is the sleep of life—the unresponsive heart, the unawakened mind, the hand palsied by lack of will to do!

She Will Change Then.

Mrs. Crawford—Although my daughter is such a big girl, she's still afraid of the dark. Mrs. Crawford—Don't worry about that, my dear. She'll soon be in love.—Judge.

A Story of a Scholar.

Theodor Mommsen, the famous historian, had not only the appearance, but the manner, of a scholar. Once during the half hour's drive from Berlin to Charlottenburg the car in which the professor rode went badly off the track. The rest of the passengers alighted, the horses were removed, and the stranded car left until help could be found. Mommsen remained, reading his book. An hour passed, and the sound of levers and jacks and the plinging of horses' hoofs aroused him from his reverie. With no sign of discomposure he arose from his seat and went to the door. "Ah," said he, "we seem to have come to a standstill!"

Lacked Capacity.

Little Willis, a cherub of seven or eight years, returned home glumly one evening from a party.

"Well, did you have a good time?" his uncle asked.

"No," Willis snarled.

"But? Why not?" said the uncle.

"Because," grumbled Willis, "mother told me to eat as much as I wanted—and—and I couldn't!"

Couldn't Keep It Quiet.

Being called to his feet unexpectedly at the gathering and asked to respond informally to the toast "The Ladies," Mr. Gilfers hemmed and hawed and began:

"My friends, all that I am, all that I have in the world, I owe to a woman—my wife."

Here he was interrupted by that lady herself, who arose and said:

"I told you when you put the property in my name you'd give it away the first time you opened your mouth."—Judge's Library.

Paradise Fish.

There flourishes in Chinese rivers and lakes a small fish remarkable for its brilliant coloring of crimson and blue. It is called the paradise fish. In the sunlight it shows in rainbow tints. The dorsal fin extends from near the back of the head to the tail. The paradise fish was first brought to France from China by M. Simon in 1809, having been found in a brook near Canton. The most interesting thing about this little fish is the nest made by the male of glutinous bubbles below the surface of the water and measuring up to six inches across. Here it places the eggs, some 200 in number, and mounts guard over them during incubation.

A Monkey and a Knot.

The monkey's intelligence has never been able to arrive at a point which enables that animal to achieve the untying of a knot. You may tie a monkey with a cord fastened with the simplest form of common knot, and unless the beast can break the string or gnaw it in two he will never get loose. To untie the knot requires observation and reasoning power, and, though a monkey may possess both, he has neither in a sufficient degree to enable him to overcome the difficulty.

Moderation in Praise.

The young man was about to be married.

"Praise your wife's grace and beauty constantly," advised one friend.

"But don't overdo it," counseled another. "She may conclude that she has thrown herself away on you and want to go on the stage."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Hair's Breadth.

Measurement by less than a hair's breadth now has a definite meaning in machine shops. In all of the large shops there are instruments that will measure the thickness of a cigarette paper, much thinner than a hair. An inch can be divided into 10,000 parts, and seventeen of these parts will make a "hair's breadth." Some of the most delicate measurements are made at the government gun factory at Washington, where many of the great guns for the army and navy are manufactured.

Dangerous.

Maid—Shall I dust the bric-a-brac, mum? Mistress—Not today, Nora. I don't think we can afford it.

HOPEFULNESS.

One of the means of avoiding unnecessary misery and wretchedness is to cultivate on all occasions the spirit of hopefulness until it becomes a characteristic, a habit, the cast of mind. Tenacity, courage, a cheerful and hopeful spirit, even in the dark days, distinguish the men of high hearts and character. Try, then, to be hopeful under all circumstances, for he who abandons hope and gives way to despair loses the ability to master the difficulties that beset him.

Origin of the Cat.

In Arabian legends the cat is traced back as far as Noah and the ark. It is one of the animals that came off the ark, but did not go on. Puss' origin is accounted for in this way:

During the time the ark was floating about over the tall mountains mice and rats became an intolerable nuisance to the people on the great vessel, and they complained to Noah that everything was being literally devoured by the pesky vermin. That august personage forthwith called the male lion to his side and began to stroke his back, whereupon the great beast sneezed, and, lo, a full sized cat was blown from his nostrils!

Fame Dickens Gave Bath.

Bath is a city for which the Dickens lover ought to have a peculiar affection. Dickens stayed frequently in Bath in his early days, when engaged on reporting work, and his tobacco jar and beer mug are still proudly preserved at the Saracen's Head. About six miles from Bath is the village of Pickwick, through which Dickens often passed, and he bestowed the name upon his most famous creation. Many of the scenes in "Pickwick" are, it will be remembered, laid in Bath. There is at the present moment—or was until quite recently—a tradesman in Bath of the name of Snodgrass.—London Chronicle.

The Lion's Share.

Benham—I always do the lion's share of the work. Mrs. Benham—Yes; the lion's share is to roar.—Town Topics.
