

LOCAL NEWS

It will pay you to get our prices on flour, bran, shorts rolled oats, barley, sced wheat and oats. Taylor Williams Co.

C. D. Reis was a Medford visitor Monday. Robert W. Telfer of Medford was in town Thursday.

Frank Cameron of Uniontown was in this city Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Luy visited friends in Medford Sunday.

G. F. Trefren, Esq. of Ashland was a visitor in this city Tuesday. L. H. Hanna left Sunday for a visit with his brother Will at Seattle, Wash.

Several of the "younger set" attended the ball at Central Point Wednesday. Clarence Reames of Medford was transacting business at the court house Wednesday.

Why ask your friends to go on your bond? I can furnish you a security bond. D. W. BAGSHAW.

Gus Newbury of Medford was transacting business at the court house Friday. J. A. E. Percival of Medford was circulating among his friends here Saturday.

W. J. Butterly of the Medford Mining & Milling Co., was in town Monday. Fred H. Williams, a prominent attorney of Grants Pass, attended court this week.

Miss Emma Wendt who is teaching school on the Applegate was in town Sunday. The county court was in session Wednesday for the transaction of county business.

H. L. DeArmond Esq. of Medford was transacting business at the court house Monday. E. J. Kaiser, formerly editor of the Ashland Record, was a visitor in this city Wednesday.

J. S. Howard the wellknown civil engineer of Medford, was in town Saturday afternoon. Rev. Horace N. Aldrich, of Central Point, preached in the M. E. church, Sunday afternoon.

Dr. T. T. Shaw has leased his store room on California street to a couple of men from Kansas. S. S. Smith, business manager of the Medford Sun was at the court house Wednesday morning.

T. W. Fulton, Cliff Dunnington and Joe Johnson were at Little Applegate on a fishing excursion Sunday. W. J. Moore, a prominent attorney of Ashland, was transacting business in the county court Saturday.

The American Bonding Co. of Baltimore will go on your bond and write burglary insurance. D. W. BAGSHAW, Agent.

D. W. Stone and John Sixty of Willow Springs were in attendance at the session of the county court Wednesday. The circuit court was in session this week. A number of equity cases were tried and numerous orders made and signed.

Fred Hoffman of the Applegate valley, a former clerk of the Numan-Taylor Co. of this place was visiting his friends in this city. Miss Stella Levy who had been house keeper for the late W. C. Kitto, returned Monday to her own residence west of the court house.

John H. Carlin of Medford, one of the republican candidates for representative in the state legislature was in town Wednesday. E. E. Kelley of Medford, the democratic candidate for prosecuting attorney, was transacting business in this city Monday morning.

Miss Stella Levy who had been house keeper for the late W. C. Kitto, returned Monday to her own residence west of the court house. Until further notice is given, the Rev. H. N. Aldrich of Central Point will hold services in the M. E. Church every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

William Kitto who had been called from his home in Montana on account of the death of his father the late W. C. Kitto, left for his home Saturday. On account of the recent rains having made the ground too soft, work on the distribution system of the water-works has been temporarily discontinued.

The recent rains were of immense benefit to this valley and will doubtless insure a bumper crop of fruit, hay and grain, as well as of all kinds of farm produce. A ball game between the Gold Hill team and a nine picked up in this city was played on the Hartman block Sunday afternoon. The score was 15 to 3 in favor of the visitors.

A ball game between Jacksonville and Palmer Creek is scheduled for Sunday at Swayne's. The following will be the lineup for Jacksonville: Bally 35, M. 100, P. 100, D. 100, E. Coleman, M. 100, I. B., E. M. S. Wilson, I., C. 100, T. 35. Batter turn out and witness a good game.

Among those from this city who attended the I. O. O. F. celebration at Ashland Friday were: W. H. Miller, S. Walsh, W. R. Byron, A. S. Gail, Lewis Ulrich, W. H. Johnston, Chris Ulrich, J. R. Nelson, Mrs. S. Walsh, Mrs. Marie Ulrich, Mrs. Alice Ulrich and Mrs. M. Nelson.

MARRIED VINING-CALDWELL—At the M. E. church in Central Point, Oregon, Sunday, April 23, 1912, by Rev. Horace N. Aldrich; Jefferson T. Vining and Helen Caldwell.

No. 145 REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF THE BEEKMAN'S BANKING HOUSE at Jacksonville in the State of Oregon at the close of business, April 18th, 1912.

RESOURCES. Bonds, and warrants... $111,000.00 Due from banks (not reserve banks)... 3,152.06 Due from approved reserve banks and cash on hand 133,351.91 Total... 247,503.97

LIABILITIES. Capital stock paid in... $50,000.00 Surplus fund... 23,913.09 Individual deposits subject to check... 169,090.88 Demand certificates of deposit... 4,500.00 Total... 247,503.97

STATE OF OREGON, ss: County of Jackson, ss: I, Henry G. Dox, cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

HENRY G. DOX. Subscribed and sworn to before me this 3rd day of May, 1912. D. W. Bagshaw, Notary Public.

OUR WORLD AS A MOON. Fine Display a Full Earth Would Give to the Selenites. Were we transported to the planet Venus a peculiar set of views could be obtained of our earth, enabling us to see ourselves, to some extent at least, as others see us.

So the only chance Miss Verne had for a cure was the doctor's bread tablets, and his constant visits. He called regularly, intending with each call to devote the time spent in her company to finding out what ailed her by what she would tell him of her symptoms.

Had it not been for that bit of paper on which the great Dr. Robinson, whose patients lay exclusively among millionaires, he would have been inclined to suspect that amorcordis was a sham disease. As it was, he believed implicitly that it was genuine, and after a number of visits to his patient, remembering that the doctor had told her that it was sometimes fatal, he feared it might be so in this case.

All this so absorbed the doctor that he failed to pay that attention to friends and associates required for building up a practice. His mind was continually upon one patient to the exclusion of others and on one disease. Smallpox, measles, typhoid fever—in fact, all the diseases he had studied in the medical college—were as nothing compared to amorcordis. He thought of it all day and all night and never thought of it without associating with it Edna Verne.

One day Miss Verne fell really ill. She sent for the doctor and told him that while her present trouble was not her chronic disease it was intimately connected with that trouble. The doctor turned pale. He spoke to her in a comforting tone that he did not feel himself. The thought that she might die suddenly loomed up before him as a terror. Telling her that he would himself bring from the druggist's the remedy he would prescribe, he left her and, running as fast as he could to Dr. Robinson, asked an audience.

The half hour he was obliged to wait seemed an age. Then when he was admitted to the doctor's consulting room he blurted out: "For heaven sake, doctor, what is amorcordis?" "Amorcordis? I never heard of such disease."

"What—never hear of it? You told Miss Edna Verne that she had it." The doctor's lips parted in a smile. "Ah, I remember! Are you engaged to her?" "No, but I am dying to be."

"Well, amorcordis means love." "What?" "Love, Good morning, Next!" The following morning Dr. Robinson received a call from Miss Verne, and she said to him: "Doctor, I asked you for the name of a mythical disease with which to induce a young physician to fix his mind upon me. My ruse has been successful. We are engaged."

The tricks of theater audiences have been remarkably similar in all ages. Alephron, who wrote of the later Attic comedy, shows that the claque was known then and also "young men of the town" who took a malicious delight in hissing a play off the stage. Theophrastus, who died in 288 B. C., sketches among his "Characters" the man of superior taste, whose pride it was to hiss when everybody else applauded and to clap when the rest were silent, and the annoying person who would hum or whistle an accompaniment to every tune that pleased him. And Aristotle himself refers to spectators who brought out provisions during the dull parts of the performance.

Temptation rarely comes in working hours. It is in their leisure time that men are made or marred.

Amorcordis By NATHAN BAKER

Young Dr. Philbrick was called in to see Miss Edna Verne. She handed him a bit of paper on which was written a single word, "Amorcordis," and said: "Dr. Robinson gave me that paper. He says that it bears the name of a disease from which I am suffering and that it has proved fatal in a large number of cases. He says he is too busy to give me the attention I require. I must be under the care of some physician who will keep me under close observation."

Miss Verne was an attractive young lady. She was the picture of health, and Dr. Philbrick was puzzled both as to her not showing any symptoms of disease and as to the disease itself, of which he had never heard. He was a recent graduate in his profession and knew that there was a great deal he had yet to learn, but he did not care to reveal his ignorance to Miss Verne. He felt of her wrist, and a current, electrical or otherwise, entered the tips of his fingers and ran up through his arm. Miss Verne lowered her eyes. He asked her if she had headaches, and she replied in the negative. He inquired as to warm flushes—he had noticed one in her cheeks when he felt her pulse—and she was not sure but that she did feel something of the kind occasionally. He placed his ear against her heart, listened to its beating and thought it a trifle faster than normal. The doctor carried bread tablets in his medicine case and before going away left a few of them with the patient to be taken three times a day at mealtimes. As soon as he had gone Miss Verne dumped the tablets into a wastebasket, then threw herself on a couch with a novel and—thought of Dr. Philbrick.

Now Dr. Philbrick, had he been longer in the profession, would have taken some short cut to discover the nature of amorcordis. As it was, fearful of betraying that he didn't know as much as physicians of thirty or forty years' standing, he went through a medical library for the purpose without finding mention of such an ailment. He tried hard to screw up his courage to go to Dr. Robinson, confess his ignorance and ask him where he could find a treatise on it. This he shrank from doing. Had Miss Verne been closely related to him he might have succeeded, impelled by a fear that she would die of the disease while he was trying to find out what it was, but she, being a young lady who expected him to know about all bodily troubles, would never do to run any risk of her finding out his ignorance.

So the only chance Miss Verne had for a cure was the doctor's bread tablets, and his constant visits. He called regularly, intending with each call to devote the time spent in her company to finding out what ailed her by what she would tell him of her symptoms. But the young lady was prone to chaff upon other subjects, and when the doctor attempted a thorough questioning upon what he needed to know she invariably found some method of evading him.

Had it not been for that bit of paper on which the great Dr. Robinson, whose patients lay exclusively among millionaires, he would have been inclined to suspect that amorcordis was a sham disease. As it was, he believed implicitly that it was genuine, and after a number of visits to his patient, remembering that the doctor had told her that it was sometimes fatal, he feared it might be so in this case.

All this so absorbed the doctor that he failed to pay that attention to friends and associates required for building up a practice. His mind was continually upon one patient to the exclusion of others and on one disease. Smallpox, measles, typhoid fever—in fact, all the diseases he had studied in the medical college—were as nothing compared to amorcordis. He thought of it all day and all night and never thought of it without associating with it Edna Verne. One day Miss Verne fell really ill. She sent for the doctor and told him that while her present trouble was not her chronic disease it was intimately connected with that trouble. The doctor turned pale. He spoke to her in a comforting tone that he did not feel himself. The thought that she might die suddenly loomed up before him as a terror. Telling her that he would himself bring from the druggist's the remedy he would prescribe, he left her and, running as fast as he could to Dr. Robinson, asked an audience. The half hour he was obliged to wait seemed an age. Then when he was admitted to the doctor's consulting room he blurted out: "For heaven sake, doctor, what is amorcordis?" "Amorcordis? I never heard of such disease."

"What—never hear of it? You told Miss Edna Verne that she had it." The doctor's lips parted in a smile. "Ah, I remember! Are you engaged to her?" "No, but I am dying to be."

"Well, amorcordis means love." "What?" "Love, Good morning, Next!" The following morning Dr. Robinson received a call from Miss Verne, and she said to him: "Doctor, I asked you for the name of a mythical disease with which to induce a young physician to fix his mind upon me. My ruse has been successful. We are engaged."

An Aristocratic Cook. All the cooks at Counts bank in London, where the king and members of the royal family have accounts, must be clean shaven and wear frock coats during banking hours. No bank in the world has so many aristocratic customers as Counts. Practically every member of the house of lords banks at the famous house in the Strand, and no other English bank has so many foreign aristocrats on its books.

Not Trained. Recruiting Officer—You understand the first duty of a soldier is strict obedience to orders. You haven't been used to that, have you? Awkward Nape—that is, no, sir. You see I never married.—Philadelphia Record

A keen, warm sympathy that makes your brother's need your own—nothing short of that is really charity.—Phillips Brooks.

Buy a Gasoline Engine You Can Depend Upon

TWO engines may look equally good, may even work equally well for a time. In the end one proves satisfactory, the other becomes a nuisance. Why? The satisfactory engine is one that is carefully built, and thoroughly tested. Thorough testing takes time and costs money. It means careful adjustment under trying conditions. It is an expensive process, but a necessary one if the finished engine is to be dependable.

IHC Gasoline Engines Are Thoroughly Tested

No engine leaves the factory until it has proved itself thoroughly dependable. That is reason enough for buying an IHC engine. It is a good buy because it is dependable—it is thoroughly tested. If you want engine satisfaction for years to come go to the local dealer and buy an IHC gasoline engine. It is the safe way and by far the cheapest in the long run. International Harvester Company of America (Incorporated) Chicago U.S.A. IHC Service Bureau The purpose of this Bureau is to furnish free of charge to all, the best information obtainable on better farming. If you have any worthy questions concerning soils, crops, land drainage, irrigation, fertilizer, etc., make your inquiries specific and send them to IHC Service Bureau, Harvester Building, Chicago, U.S.A.

MOORE'S POISON OAK REMEDY 30 YEARS THE STANDARD NEVER FAILS CHILBLAINS, FLEAS, BURNS, ETC. A VALUABLE HOUSEHOLD SALVE. ALL DRUGGISTS HAVE IT OR WILL OBTAIN ON REQUEST. ACCEPTED AS SUBSTITUTES. Price 25 Cents. LANGLEY LAMICHTS CO. SAN FRANCISCO

Information on Poultry. Authoritative and valuable information about breeding, husbandry, raising, feeding and housing poultry is contained in the latest edition of Langley's Poultry Book—just pointed. Send for copy, free. The Chas. H. Lilly Co., Seattle

Don't let your health be an attack of rheumatism this spring. Just rub the affected parts freely with Chamberlain's Liniment and it will soon disappear. Sold by all dealers.

D. W. BAGSHAW Attorney at Law

NOTARY PUBLIC AND CONVEYANCER Office Hours: (Forenoon 9 to 12 (Afternoon 1:30 to 5)

Bank of Jacksonville Building. JACKSONVILLE, - - OREGON

LEGAL BLANKS We have on hand for sale the following blanks viz:

Lease, Mortgages, Bill of Sale, Agreements, Warranty Deeds, Quit claim Deeds, Chattel Mortgage, Acknowledgements, Real Estate contract, Location Notice—Placer, Location Notice—Quartz, Satisfaction of Mortgage, Real Estate Agents contract, Notice Application for Liquor License

At reasonable prices. We intend adding other blanks as fast as possible until the line is complete. Blanks of special form printed to order at short notice

JACKSONVILLE POST, JACKSONVILLE, OREGON

Advertise in The Post NOW

Sell Your Property By listing it with us

We are revising our lists ready for the spring trade. If you have real estate to dispose of at a fair price, place it in our hands for sale, we have a number of prospective buyers who expect value for their money.

We can sell your property at a price equal to its full value but do not want any listed at fictitious or "boom" price.

Rogue River Realty Co. R. R. R. Jacksonville, Ore.

OFFICE: Bank of Jacksonville Bldg. Upstairs

Change in Southern Pacific Time Table. Effective January 1st, 1910.

Table with columns for North Bound Trains and South Bound Trains, listing routes and times.

BUSINESS CARDS. GUS NEWBURY Attorney-at-Law

Will Practise in All Courts in the State MEDFORD, OREGON.

I. R. T. T. STAW Dentist. Office in Ryan Building, California St. Upstairs JACKSONVILLE OREGON

H. K. HANNA Lawyer Office in Bank of Jacksonville Building JACKSONVILLE, OREGON

Advertisement for Rogue River Realty Co.

Advertisement for Moore's Poison Oak Remedy.

Advertisement for Information on Poultry.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.

Advertisement for a product, possibly a medicine or food.