CHURCH DEDICATED

Talent Methodists Prepare for Big Event Next Sunday.

The Methodist church at Talent will be dedicated next Sunday. Dr. Holman, president of Willamette University will preach the dedicatory sermon at eleven o'clock. There will be a platform meeting at three o'clock, at which several short addresses will be given by neighboring pastors and Dr. Holman on the general theme,—"The Mission of the Church." In the evening there will be an Epworth League Rally in charge of District Superintendent Dunlap. A double quartet will lead the congregation in praise and will also render several choice selections. The public is cordially invited to attend these services.—Ashland Record.

THE ROAD FUND

County Treasurer Restrained From Use of Money.

The effect of the injunction filed by Benton Bowers and E. W. Carlton became evident yesterday when County Treasurer James Cronmiller received restraining orders from Judge F. M. Calkins at Portland restraining the treasurer of Jackson county from redeeming any of the outstanding warrants with money from the road fund until the injunction suit is settled.

Outstanding warrants can be called in with the money from the general fund, and the only effect that will be felt from this injunction should it be sustained is that the life of the now outstanding warrants will be lengthened.

In the past warrants have been honored with money from the road fund or the general fund, and it was to force the county to use the money in the road fund for road purpose only that the injunction was filed.—Sun.

BIGTREE SEEDLINGS

Being Raised by the Forest Service at a Point North of Any Existing Groves.

The Forest Service is raising several acres of Bigtree seedlings on the Tahoe National Forest in California, at a more northerly point than any natural Bigtree grove. While the giant sequoias are found in the forests of the Sierras at various points throughout a total range of some 250 miles, in the northern two-thirds of this range there is practically no natural reproduction. It has consequently been a question whether the species would not practically disappear from this region when the present mature trees die.

The most northern existing grove of Bigtrees is on the Tahoe Forest, but about 34 miles southeast of the site selected for planting. This site is on a moist flat not far from Nevada City, and is about 2,700 feet above sea level. The first seeding was done in the fall of 1910, with very successful results, and last fall and additional area was seeded.

The method used in planting the seed was that known to foresters as "the seed spot method." Spots about 6 feet apart each way were prepared by pulverizing the earth with a garden hoe. Seeds were then dropped on these spots and lightly pressed in the soil with the foot. The flourishing condition of the young seedlings gives good reason to expect a future growth of Bigtrees at this point. With protection of forests from fire there seems to be no reason why the Bigtrees should disappear, even though scientists regard them as survivals from a past age, botanically speaking.

The Satan of the Greeks.

The Greek conception of the evil one, whom they call Yama, makes that personage one of the most satanic of their whole evil tribe. According to their ideas of him, he is 240 miles high and the hairs on his body stand out like pain trees on a mountain side. He punishes the doomed beings submitted to his charge by putting them in beds of boiling oil, sawing their bodies in two, pouring molten lead in their ears and such other little pranks as putting out their tongues, toe and finger nails and gouging out their eyes. He is a heartless old fiend of the most fiendish type and has many other exquisite little tortures and up for the helpless wretch consigned to his "chamber of horrors."

Shakespeare's Tragedies.

Whenever "Macbeth" is put upon the stage very nearly a fourth of it has to be omitted, for, although it is the shortest of the tragedies, it would take fully three hours to read it out loud without gabbling. "Hamlet" thus runs would take nearly two hours more, and this seems to bear out the contention of Swinburne, among others, that much of the play, and, indeed, of other tragedies, was written by Shakespeare for the study and not for the stage. A six or seven hours performance must have been too much even for an audience of Elizabeth's spacious times.—London Graphic.

When He Went to the Front.

"Did you hear that George went to the front yesterday?" asked the brother of Ethel.

Ethel's face blanched. "Why, what do you mean, Jack? He never told me."

"Well, I saw him go," said the brother as he reached for his hat. "Don't you remember last evening, when he kissed you first on your right cheek and then on your left, and then didn't he go to the front?"—Ladies Home Journal.

STORY OF A CHURCH.

Curious History of an Unfinished Edifice in England.

There is a curious history regarding an unfinished church which stands at Hassall, near Sandbach, England. A former resident at the local hall, a Mr. Lowndes, painfully conscious of the lack of provision for the spiritual wants of the people in the neighborhood, determined to build a church at his own expense. After carefully choosing a site he gave instructions for the erection of a structure in the modern style capable of seating 400 or 500 persons.

Work on it was begun in the summer of 1836 and was pushed on steadily until the day on which Queen Victoria was crowned, by which time the building was well advanced. The crypts, about ten in number, had been put in, the walls and roofs were complete, and the scantlings for the floor were fixed. Indeed, partly in consequence of the national rejoicings and partly to celebrate the progress which had been made, the building was smothered in flags and decorations and was the center of local festivities.

Next day Mr. Lowndes was seized with an illness which quickly proved fatal, and with his passing all work on the church ceased. Though the building could have been finished at comparatively small cost, it was abandoned, and it has not been used since, except by tourists, whose names "hallow and adorn it," as Mark Twain said of those on the ruins of Cain's altar, by the thousand.—Wide World Magazine.

LOOSE SHOES.

Those Not Fastened Tight at the Instep Cause Foot Troubles.

Seven persons out of ten suffer excruciating pain at one time or another with their feet. A single corn no larger than a grain of sand can take all the "snap" and vitality right out of you.

Two-thirds of modern foot troubles are due to the fact that almost every one—man, woman and child—wears his shoe too loose. The shoe itself may be correct as to size and shape, but it is not fastened tight at the only point of control—namely, the instep.

When you set your foot upon the floor or pavement in the act of walking the shoe adheres, and if it be loosely fastened over the instep the foot pushes down into the toe of the shoe. At certain spots on the foot this slipping causes friction. These spots are the soles of the feet, the tops, ends and inner sides of the toes, the great and little toe joints and occasionally even the back of the heel.

When the friction thus caused is continued hour after hour and day after day one or more of these spots are almost sure to become inflamed and sore. A slight thickening, called a "callous," is formed. As the friction and pressure go on the resulting callous may thicken up unevenly; then it is called a "corn."—Woman's Home Companion.
