BE A BOOSTER.

A booster—one who sees only the bright and praiseworthy side of his neighbor, his city or section of country, is indeed an ornament to society and an ever-ready aid and comfort to any community. Boosting, like charity, "covereth a multitude of sins." There is no live city that does not owe a fair share of its prominence to judicious boosting. The unconquerable boosting spirit of her people raised San Francisco from a wilderness of ruins and ashes; the boosting "Seattle Spirit" has made that city one of the foremost in the northwest. To boost does not necessarily imply that facts must be varnished, or unlovely truths concealed. Given such a subject as the Rogue River valley a bare statement of facts and figures should be a sufficient boost.

Be a booster. Forget factional feeling. Cut out petty jealousy. See the best and brightest side of our city and tell the outside world about it. Encourage industries and homeseekers to make their homes here. Consider no labor lost that advances the interests of your home town, and Jacksonville will soon occupy a proud position—her's by right--the best little old town in the valley.
