Building a Reputation

WHEN the first IHC tractor was planned, the idea was to have the new tractor fit into its work just as one well-cut gear meshes into another. All conditions of farm work were taken into consideration—dusty fields, gritty sand, tough clay, and tougher sod. There must be protection from flying dirt. The power of the engine must not be wasted. The machine must be so simple that anyone could manage it. The need of repairs should be infrequent, and repairs easily made. This was the plan behind the building of

IHC Kerosene-Gasoline Tractors

How well the plan worked out is shown by the reputation that IHC tractors enjoy: a reputation built upon a steadily growing knowledge among farmers of the good work done by IHC tractors. The engine has no rapidly moving parts or delicate adjustments to be affected by dust, dirt, and grit. The simple gearing transmits a large percentage of engine power to the drawbar. IHC tractors are in use everywhere, in the hands of many men who are in no way "machine wise."

The value of an IHC tractor to a busy farmer lies in its many uses and its reasonable cost. It furnishes power for plowing, seeding, harvesting, threshing, hauling and for many kinds of belt and drawbar work. IHC tractors are now made in 12, 15, 20, 25, and 45-horse power sizes, to suit conditions everywhere. IHC general purpose engines for use in shop, mill, and factory, and on the farm, are made in sizes from 1 to 50-horse power.

Ask the IHC dealer for catalogues and full information, or write
