TEACHERS IN OPPOSITION.

If any one class of persons might be expected to favor Single Tax, it would be teachers and those who have studied Henry George's "Progress and Poverty." Yet the instructors of Oregon revolt at the scheme. They realize that Single Tax spells state ownership, and while personally they might be a little the gainer—for a time—they know that ultimately the taxes will be just as high or higher, for precisely the same sum as before will have to be raised. Willard W. Austen, County School Superintendent of Grant County, who lives at Hamilton, Oregon, is but one of the many teachers who boldly expresses himself on the subject. "I am now and have always been strongly opposed to the Single Tax idea," comments County School Superintendent Austen.

ACTION PLEASES NEWSPAPER.

The Grants Pass Observer recently had this to say, following the action of the Josephine County Grange in condemning the proposed Single Tax measure: "The action of the State Grange in condemning the proposed Single Tax bill will go a long way to putting an end to that fake measure in Oregon. No landowner who understands the Single Tax scheme will be foolish enough to vote for a measure, the real purpose of which is to destroy all private ownership in land."

If you are a housewife you cannot reasonably hope to be healthy or beautiful by washing dishes, sweeping and doing housework all day, and crawling into bed dead tired at night. You must get out into the open air and sunlight. If you do this every day and keep your stomach and bowels in good order by taking Chamberlain's Tablets when needed, you should become both healthy and beautiful. For sale by all dealers.

U'REN CRIES OUT TO FELS FOR CASH

Single Taxers Make Claim for Funds to keep Army of Paid Workers Going—Farmers and Businessmen in Fight

Indications have been furnished in Portland of the tremendous sum of money that is to be expended to force down the throat of the state the Single Tax doctrines of Henry George.

Because there seems to be a temporary financial stringency, W. S. U'Ren is sending back an earnest call to Joseph Fels and the other millionaire subscribers to the Single Tax Fels Fund. He is using a club, too.

U'Ren Asks for Books.

Mr. U'Ren's club is proof of the work being done by the Oregon Equal Taxation League, the organization of farmers and business men that is combatting Single Tax.

U'Ren called up Charles H. Shields, secretary of the league, and asked for 50 copies of "Single Tax Exposed" the work that is being distributed by the league.

"Why," said Mr. Shields, "I know what you want them for. You intend to send them back to the subscribers of your fund and get more money, don't you?"

"Er—Er—" Says U'Ren.

"Er—er—er—" began Mr. U'Ren, but he ended by admitting the truth.

"Sure you can have the books," said Shields, "and I trust that they prevent you from getting a single other subscription by converting all the men whom you intend to reach.

"You know and I know, that Single Tax is just a trick and a snare."

But Mr. U'Ren did not answer.

MONARCHS AND COINS.

Napoleon In a Temper and Louis Philippe on a Hunt.

The great Napoleon was not great at the whist table, and a characteristic story is told of him at St. Helena. At a private party of whist he took out four napoleons to use as markers and one of the young ladies took up one of the coins and asked him what it was. The polite hero snatched it rather roughly from her and, pointing to the impression, exclaimed, "C'est moi."

The annoyance caused by this incident ruffled him so much that he made a misdeal. The party begged him to try again, and he did so with the same result. His countenance then displayed the rages of convulsive fury, and his anger was not appeased until the house had been searched for old cards which could be more easily dealt. Meantime the unhappy Count Las Cases, his only attendant, was ordered to sit down at a spare table to play the cards alone until they should run smoothly.

Louis Philippe showed equal regard for the coin that bore his name. He dropped a louis on the carpet while playing whist and arrested the progress of the game to look for it, whereupon a foreign ambassador who was one of the party set fire to a billet of 1,000 francs to give light to the king under the table.

Shakespeare's Tragedies.

Whenever "Macbeth" is put upon the stage very nearly a fourth of it has to be omitted, for, although it is the shortest of the tragedies, it would take fully three hours to read it out loud without gabbling. "Hamlet" thus read would take nearly two hours more and this seems to bear out the contention of Swinburne, among others that much of the play, and, indeed, of other tragedies, was written by Shakespeare for the study and not for the stage. A six or seven hours performance must have been too much even for an audience of Elizabeth's spacious times.—London Graphic.
