

-:JACKSONVILLE POST-:
Official Paper of the City of Jacksonville, Oregon

A weekly newspaper published every Saturday at the county seat of Jackson County, Oregon. D. W. BAGSHAW, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter June 22, 1907, at the post office at Jacksonville, Oregon, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1912

SUBSCRIPTION: One year by mail $1.50. Advertising rates furnished on application.

Advertising in a newspaper is the cheapest and best means of reaching the buying public. You cannot hope to be successful in business unless you advertise. It matters not how well one is acquainted in the community trade will go to the advertiser. If your business was built upon advertising could you afford to ruin it by lack of advertising? Or, if you are thinking of starting a new business do you think you could succeed without advertising? The business man who has mastered the art of systematic and, we may say, scientific advertising is on the highway to success.

A JAPANESE LEGEND.

It Tells a Pretty Story of the Origin of the Chrysanthemum.

The Japanese have an interesting legend in connection with the origin of the chrysanthemum. In a garden bathed in the soft moonlight a young girl plucked a flower and commenced to strip the petals to see if her fiancé loved her truly. Of a sudden a little god appeared before her and assured her that her fiancé loved her passionately. "Your husband will live," he added, "as many years as the flower which I will let you choose has petals." With these words he disappeared. The young girl hastened to search the garden for a flower which should have an abundance of petals, but each one appeared to promise but a brief future for her beloved.

At length she picked a Persian carnation, and, with the aid of a gold pin taken from her hair, she separated each one of the petals of the flower so as to increase the number of folioles and of the number of years accorded by the god to her fiancé. Soon under her deft fingers 100, 200, 300 petals, thin, pliant and beautifully curved, had been evolved, and the young girl cried for joy to think of the happy future which her ruse had assured her fiancé. So, runs the legend, was the chrysanthemum created one moonlight night in a Japanese garden, where silvery brooks murmured softly as they ran beneath the little bamboo bridges.—London Globe.

where Gannets Swarm.
 One of the most remarkable sights in the world is Bird Island, in South Africa, for the reason that during some months of the year it is literally covered with gannets. Not a foot of ground is to be seen anywhere. Day after day thousands of gannets strut around, and they are so close to each other that the whole island seems actually alive. Those who have seen this sight say that it is one which can never be forgotten.

Pleasant For Him.
 Blowe—But I asked you, my dear girl, to keep our little affair secret for the present. His intended—I couldn't help it. That hateful Miss Oldun said the reason I wasn't married was because no fool had asked me, so I up and told her you had.—London Telegraph.

A Case of Arbitration.
 A rat and a weasel found an egg. They arbitrated about it. A cat was the arbitrator. He promptly awarded the egg to the rat. The rat ate the egg. The cat then ate the rat. The cat believes in arbitration. The rat doesn't.—Japan Musashino.

A Practical Query.
 My little boy stood, open mouthed, while a friend elaborated the details of a sudden death. The patient had not been considered very seriously ill, and his nurse entered, bringing a baked potato for which the sick man had expressed a wish. "But," said my friend, "before he had tasted it he died." I deprecated the sadness of such recital before the child, but I need not have feared. His baby voice piped out, "And what became of the potato?"—Harper's Magazine.

Only Officers.
 Corporal (to soldier reporting sick)—What's the matter with you? Tom my pain in my abdomen. Corporal—Abdomen? Abdomen, indeed! You don't have no abdomen; you've a stomach. It's only the officers what has abdomens.—London Punch.

Carte Blanche.
 "I think," said Mrs. Cumrox, who was arranging a musical program, "that we will have a mezzo soprano."
 "All right," replied her indulgent husband. "Don't bother me about it. Go ahead and see an architect."
 Washington Star.

Not Surprised.
 "What's that you have in your hand?" asked Mrs. Gimlet of her husband as he brought home a roll of manuscript.
 "Brins, madam," retorted Mr. Gimlet pompously. "Are you surprised at the fact?"
 "Not in the least," she replied. "I knew you didn't carry them in your head."

Early Autograph Hunters.
 A certain Atossa in early Roman days seems to have been the mother of autograph collectors. Cicero had a collection, which must have been a fine one, for he speaks of it with particular pride. The fever, even in those far back days, was contagious. Pliny speaks of Pompeius Secundus, at whose house he had seen autographs of Cicero, Augustus, Vergil and the Gracchi, and his own collection was valued at $15,000 of our money. Then came the inrush of barbarians, and we do not again meet with the collector until the beginning of the sixteenth century, when he reappears in the person of a Bohemian squire, who kept a book to record his exploits in the chase and enriched it with the signatures of his great hunter friends.

His Vulgarity.
 Mrs. Finefeather—Are you taking your husband abroad this year? Mrs. Bonton—No. I decided last year when he insisted upon speaking of the Venetian gondolas as canalboats that the real charm of Europe is just upon him.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Women's Tears.
 Marks—So when you got home from the club last night your wife was weeping? Parks—I said nothing of the sort. I said she was crying. It's when a woman is sad she weeps; when she cries she's hopping mad.—Boston Transcript.
