New Railroad Company Incorporated.

Grants Pass parties have incorporated a company with $100,000 capital, to undertake the building of a railroad to Crescent City, Cal. How they will make that amount cover the expense of constructing one hundred miles of track mostly through a mountainous region is not stated; competent engineers estimate the cost at an average of $40,000 per mile, exclusive of bridges which will perhaps cost half a million dollars more, making a total of about four and one-half million dollars. The incorporators hope to interest outside capitalists by obtaining right of way and laying a few miles of the track. Railroad companies are as a rule slow to undertake the construction of branch lines—in fact the profit from such construction must be apparent and when it is the corporation will move on its own initiative regardless of whether private individuals have begun operations and invested a few thousands or not. Let us wish our friends at Grants Pass success and hope they may force one of the transcontinental roads to take up the matter of building a road to the coast and push it to an early completion.

Seriously speaking, the construction of a railroad and maintaining of service until upon a paying basis is a stupendous undertaking and should never be entered into unless ample financial backing is assured, else what should be a benefit to the region traversed becomes a detriment in this: that it keeps out other concerns able to carry the project through to a successful end.

M. E. Church

A Union service of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches was held at Presbyterian church, last Sunday evening. Very interesting sermons were preached by both pastors.

A meeting of the Sunday School Board was held after the morning service last Sunday, to discuss the plans for the Christmas exercises. The following committees were chosen: Committee on recitations, chairman, Mrs. J. C. F. Harrington, Mrs. H. W. Rummel and Mrs. W. Lash. Committee on music, chairman Mrs. T. W. Fulton, Mrs. M. E. A. Holt and Miss Edith H. G.

Monday afternoon the music and recitation committee for the Christmas program met at the home of Mrs. J. C. F. Harrington. As soon as the supplies arrive the work on the Christmas program will begin.

A Union Thanksgiving service was held at this church Thursday morning. The church was prettily decorated and the music was in charge of the Presbyterian and Methodist choirs. Mr. Bandy preached a very interesting sermon on "What to be Thankful For."

The Women's Home Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. J. C. F. Harrington's last Friday, about 14 ladies being present. After the meeting a social hour followed and delicious refreshments of sandwiches, tea and tarts were served by the hostess.

A Gift With a Thought in It.

There's one very simple way out of the Christmas shopping problem; don't shop, but sit quietly at home and subscribe for The Youth's Companion. The chances are, too, that no present you could buy for the young friend or the family you delight to honor could confer so much pleasure as this gift of The Youth's Companion for a whole round year—fifty-two weeks' issues, and the fifty-second as keenly anticipated and enjoyed as the very first.

There will be stories for readers of every age; sound advice as to athletics; suggestions for the girl at college or making her own way in the world; good things for every member of the family—all for $2.00—less than four cents a week.

The one to whom you give the subscription will receive free all the remaining issues of 1912, as well as The Companion Window Transparency and Calendar for 1913, in rich, translucent colors. It is to be hung in the window or over the lamp-shade. You, too, as giver of the present will receive a copy of it.

A MASTER OF DETAIL.

Paintings to Suit Abbey Had to Be Historically Correct.

One of the strongest characteristics of Abbey was his terror of anachronism. No detail of a great canvas was small enough to escape his infinite precaution in this regard, no research too exhausting that yielded the correct answer to some archaic matter of dress or armor. Because of this scrupulous care his studio at Morgan hall, itself an ancient building, more than 300 years old, became a veritable museum of heraldic shields, coifs and casques. Whenever he wished to paint a certain detail of complicated armor he purchased or borrowed a whole suit as a model. Once, so the story is told, when Abbey had completed a large painting depicting an ancient court scene he discovered that the quarterings in the heraldic shield woven in a woman's skirt were incorrect. He painted out the skirt and corrected his error.

His masterpiece in oils, the "Quest of the Holy Grail," which he did for the Boston library, has been pronounced perfect in every detail of architecture, of dress and heraldry. His "Coronation of Edward VII." has been praised by antiquarians because of its perfection and accuracy of detail. It was this painting which won Abbey his greatest fame in England.

Though Abbey spent nearly all of his working years in England and on the continent, he did not consider himself an expatriate, and he was always keenly American in his sentiments. Baseball was with him a consuming passion. When he discovered that there was none to play his favorite game in England he took up cricket as the next best thing, and cricket was his favorite pastime.—New York Sun.

FEMININE AUTOCRATS.

Women of Sahara Rule the Men With Rods of Iron.

The Tuaregs, found in the vllayet of Tripoli, are descended from the Aurochian of old, who in the fourth century took Leptis from the Romans after eight days' siege.

Among the Tuaregs, writes Hanns Vischer in "Across the Sahara," it is man, the brute, who by all the laws of the country has to obey the women. Descent is traced through the mother. Woman shows her proud face to all the world, while the man goes veiled in the presence of a woman of noble birth men cover their faces and heads altogether. The women give the children what little instruction they have and train them to respect and obey them.

The stick he carries and the great wooden box into which he puts what his wife suffers him to have are all the man possesses and all he retains if for some reason his wife chooses to divorce him.

In Ghât when a man goes out after sunset he is usually followed by a negro servant, sent by his wife to dog his steps, and woe to him if he forgets himself or comes home too late! He will find the door shut and must count himself lucky if he is not put on to the street altogether.

The young man who in spite of all this wants to marry must pay a heavy sum for the bride, to obtain which he is obliged to look for other means than his usual work for the Arab trader. Thus he is forced into taking part in one of the annual razzias.

The women decide when the right moment has come, and the men sally forth against some luckless caravan or to the rich highlands of Tibesti.—Detroit Free Press.

Three Essentials For Success.

He who would succeed must arm himself with three vital and most necessary weapons—first, he must have ceaseless industry; second, he must have limitless ambition of purpose; third, he must possess unquenchable enthusiasm, coupled with a determination to succeed. Given these three and something else besides—the gift of imagination—and it matters not, I believe, whether the life of a man begins in a cobbler's shop or a grocery store or whether it begins in such an illuminating joyfulness in beautiful things as that which brightened my early childhood. With any beginning success will, of a surety, be his who makes himself truly deserving of it.—Howard Pyle in Woman's Home Companion.

Tower of Hercules.

Travelers may still see on the coast of the English channel at Dover the ruins of a Roman lighthouse that was built at the time of the Roman conquest of Britain. Another ancient lighthouse, built less than a century after the tower at Dover, is still serving its original purpose. It was partly rebuilt and some alterations were made in it, but in the main it is the Roman galley as they skirted the coasts of the bay of Biscay, making their way to the Roman port of Brigantium. This is the modern harbor of La Coruna, and the lighthouse is the most ancient thing about it. The Romans called it the tower of Hercules, and the moderns have perpetuated the name. The exact date of its erection is not known, but inscriptions and other evidence show that it was built in the time of Trajan, between 88 and 117 A. D.—Exchange.

A Complication. "Don't you think that mechanics sometimes mix up natural facts?"

"How?" "Don't they talk of the horsepower of donkey engines?"—Baltimore American.

If hero mean sincere men, why may not every one of us be a hero.—Caryle.
