OREGON LAWMAKERS' WORK AS REVIEWED

Tension Between Legislature and Governor Acute.

VETOED MEASURES PASSED

Talk of Organizing Two-Thirds Majority to Pass Possible Vetoes—Governor Will Draw Deadline on Appropriations—Liquor Bills Numerous—Widows' Pension Bill Passes House.

Salem.—The only important work accomplished during the second week's session of the legislature, aside from the election of Dr. Harry Lane to the United States senate, which was a mere perfunctory matter devoid of the old time political interest, was the passage of several vetoed bills of the last session over Governor West's head. The important bills introduced this session are mostly in the committee stage, or have only passed one house.

The vetoed bills passed included the Thompson bill, relative to land drainage, the bill relating to formation of new counties, leaving division to people in counties affected, salary increases for district attorneys in fourth and fifth districts and bill creating livestock sanitary board and appropriating $5,000 for eradication of contagious diseases.

The tension between the legislature and the governor became acute during the week and the indications pointed to a lively scrap between the executive and the lawmakers. The inception of the warfare was the action of the house in lining up with the senate in passing vetoed bills over his head. The governor was particularly irritated over the prospect of the passage of the Warner Lake bill, which he claimed was not for the interest of actual settlers but for land speculators. He gave notice that he would use the veto ax freely on bills. There was talk among members of organizing the two branches with a two-thirds majority to pass bills by the wholesale over his veto. It was also suggested that the session might be extended over the usual forty days, in order to override the governor's vetoes.

Deadline on Appropriations
The governor announced that he would draw a deadline on appropriations and that nothing above a certain amount would receive his approval. He explained that he will have a chart drawn, which will be placed in a conspicuous place in the state house, on which a line will be drawn at the top of the juvenile court. Provides Recall From Congress To make it possible to recall United States senators and representatives in congress from Oregon is the purpose of a bill introduced in the house by Representative Lawrence of Multnomah. The bill requires that any person who shall be a candidate for the United States Senate or for Congress shall, at the time of filing his declaration of intention to become a candidate, sign one of two statements. If he signs one he agrees that if at any election a majority of those voting on the question of recalling him shall vote for his recall, he will resign the office within 24 hours after he shall receive the official returns of the recall election. If he signs the other statement he plainly says that he will not resign in case a majority of the voters shall vote for his recall.

Marriage May Be Easier
Instead of having his operations confined to one county in the matter of uniting two souls with but a single thought, a regularly accredited preacher will be able to perform marriages in any county in the state, if a bill introduced by Representative Howard, of Douglas, himself a minister, becomes a law. The bill also provides that county clerks, on issuing a marriage license, are to obtain from the applicants certain information which preachers ordinarily desire before performing a marriage ceremony, which is to be attached to the license.

Legislative Brevities
A bill to create a state fire marshal, carrying with it an appropriation of $15,000, was presented in the house. The state senate adopted a memorial addressed to President-elect Wilson, asking him to appoint a man from the Pacific coast as secretary of the interior.

Bills to appropriate $371,000 for the University of Oregon and $317,833.73 for the Oregon Agricultural college were introduced in the house by the ways and means committee.

No more will the traveler by train or steamboat go thirsty for lack of a drinking cup, if a bill introduced in the house by Representative Belland is passed. He would compel steamship and railroad companies carrying passengers to furnish sanitary drinking cups free.

With the passage of Senator Wood's bill for the creation of new counties, which has become a law without the approval of the governor, the way has been opened to the formation of new counties without a vote by the people of the state, and without a fight in the legislature.

A bill that proposes every pound of meat offered for sale in the state of Oregon, and not subject to government inspection, shall be subjected to an inspection to determine its wholesomeness for food, was introduced in the house by Representative Westerlund, of Jackson county.

At the close of the second week the appropriation bills proposed amounted to $3,422,081. It says nothing of numerous minor demands for per diem and expenses which probably will figure an easy $100,000 more.

"THE LOST CHORD."
Sullivan Wrote the Music at His Dying Brother's Bedside.

Perhaps the most successful song of modern times is "The Lost Chord," whose sale in Great Britain has exceeded 250,000 copies. The story of its composition, as told by Mr. Willeby in his "Masters of English Music," illustrates that in art, as in statesmanship, success came to those—

Who knew the seasons when to take Occasion by the hand.
For nearly three weeks Arthur Seymour Sullivan had watched by the bedside of a dying brother. One night when the end was not far off and his brother was sleeping he chanced to come across some verse of Adelaide Procter's which five years before he had tried in vain to set to music.

In the absence of that night watch he read them over again, and almost instantly their musical expression was conceived. A stray sheet of music paper was at hand, and he began to write. The music grew, and he worked on, delighted to be helped while away the hours of watch-keeping. As he progressed he felt sure the music was what he had sought for and failed to find on the occasion of his first attempt to set the words. In a short time it was complete and not long after in the publisher's hands.

The Curious Grapple Plant.
Plants have varied and ingenious ways of scattering their seed. Some with wings like those of tiny aeroplanes are blown by the wind; some are thrown out of the seed pods by explosions; others, by means of hooks, attach themselves to passing animals and are carried long distances. Of this last class is the fruit of the gonolike grapple plant that grows in the deserts of the Transvaal and Orange river country. From the hard pod of this plant project clawlike runners that are armed with sharp pointed hooked thorns, and when a springbok or some other animal steps on them they pierce the hoof and start the animal galloping madly away. As the pod often sticks to the animal's foot for several days the seed of the plant is likely to be widely distributed. This contrivance of nature seems unusually cruel, for the animal that is so unfortunate as to tread on the grapple plant not only suffers intense pain, but often becomes an easy victim of its enemies.

Curious Scientific Prediction.

Every one is familiar with the story often told of the great naturalist Cuvier to the effect that, given a single bone, he could reconstruct the animal to which it belonged. That a somewhat similar law of organization runs through the various species that form families in the animal world is indicated by a quaint case of scientific prediction to which attention has again lately been called. It appears that Ehrenberg when engaged in a study of the minute animals called diatoms found that many species were distinguished by the number of rays they possessed. In the series of specimens that he had, however, he could find none having, respectively, twenty-seven, twenty-nine, thirty, thirty-one, thirty-two, forty-four, forty-five, forty-six, forty-eight and forty-nine rays. Still, he predicted that the missing species would some day turn up. This prediction has already been verified, for ten of them have since been discovered, leaving only three to be accounted for.—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Knowing One.

Miss Maude Annesley in her book, "My Parisian Year," tells an excellent story to illustrate the way French restaurant keepers try to "do" the traveling Englishman.

She once went to a very well known restaurant with an Englishman who had lived nearly all his life in France. He wished to give a dinner for eight. He studied the menu, decided on what he wanted and then asked the price per head.

"Forty-five francs, monsieur," said the maitre d'hotel.

Miss Annesley's friend looked steadily at him and remarked, "I am French!"

The maitre d'hotel pretended to make another addition, then said, "Well, monsieur, we will do it for 40 francs!"

The other replied calmly, "I am still French!"

"Thirty-five francs, then," said the maitre d'hotel.

"I have not changed my nationality," was the retort, and Miss Annesley says that the price finally paid was only 22 francs per head.

"A short time ago I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs and caused me a great deal of annoyance. I would have had coughing spells and my lungs were so sore and inflamed I began to be seriously alarmed. A friend recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, saying she had used it for years. I bought a bottle and it relieved my cough the first night, and in a week I was rid of the cold and soreness of my lungs," writes Miss Maria Gerber, Bayville, Cal.
