To Simplify Court Procedure.

Salem, Feb. 16.—Representative J. H. Carlin of Jackson county has introduced a bill providing for simplified practice and procedure in the courts of Oregon. It provides that the supreme court of the state shall make its own rules of practice and procedure both for itself and for the circuit courts under it, modeled on the rules of the supreme court of the United States—promulgated November 4, 1912. This will greatly simplify court procedure, as the court will be able to change a rule for time to time to expediate its business while under the present system of making rules to govern the procedure in courts, the sections of the code have remained stationary for the last twenty-five or thirty years while everything else round about has been developing and advancing.

Congress was the forerunner in this movement when it passed an act two years ago requiring the supreme court to make its own rules in equity. Chief Justice White, and two of the associate justices, after a thorough investigation of the equity and criminal practice of England, made up a set of rules last November that have received the universal commendation of the Federal bench because of their simplicity and elasticity. Justices Brand and Wolcott of the Federal bench in Oregon, and the clerk of the supreme court, are understood to favor this move. With it, it will be possible to do away with technicalities, extra expense and many of the present delays in trials and it will make it possible, if the judges do not bring the law courts more in touch with the people, to place the blame where it belongs and not allow them to shift it upon others.

England for a long time has followed this system of allowing courts to make their own rules and holding them strictly responsible for results, and it is well recognized that the Canadian and English courts are far superior to the American in the sureness and swiftness with which they act, especially in criminal matters.

How to Buy the Doctor.

A prominent New York physician says: "If I were not for the thin stockings and their soles worn by women the doctor would probably be bankrupt." When you contract a cold do not wait for it to develop into pneumonia but treat it at once. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is intended especially for coughs and colds, and has won a wide reputation by its cures of these diseases. It is most effective and is pleasant and safe to take. ### Prospects Bright for Good Roads

Salem, Feb. 18.—Breaking the deadlock for good roads legislation, both senate and house last night concurred in the amendments to the Barrett county bonding bill (S. B. 12) reported by conference committee from both houses, and the measure is up to the governor for signature. The bill enables counties to issue bonds or warrants for the purpose of borrowing money to pay for the construction of roads.

Credit for the bill to do this is due to Representative C. L. Reames of Jackson, who is being showered with congratulations by the legislators. The bill as finally passed is practically the same as that introduced by Reames in the session, enables county courts to call special bond elections when petitioned by one-fourth of the voters, the petition to set forth the amount of bonds proposed, time they run and rate of interest. The county court in its order states what roads within the county are to be built and improved with the money.

The court can, if it desires, call a road bond election upon petition of one-twentieth of the voters, but it is not mandatory. Bond interest must not exceed 6 per cent, and bonds cannot be sold for less than par. Warrants may be issued in lieu of bonds. The building of highways is entirely under the jurisdiction of the county court.

Salem, Ore., Feb. 18.—By unanimous consent there was introduced Monday, by Representative Spencer on behalf of committee of roads and highways of both houses, a compromise highway state-aid bill, and the prediction is made that it will pass both houses.

The bill provides for a Board of Highway commissioners to consist of the governor, secretary of state and state treasurer, who in turn are to appoint a state highway engineer. Provision is made that the automobile fund shall be turned over to the commission and that a levy of one-half a mill shall be made. Two-thirds of the money is to be used by counties of the state in building permanent roads. The other third is to be used by the state. In the event that a county does not use the money allotted to it, the money reverts to the state highway fund and will be used by the state.

This bill together with the compromise bill authorizing counties to issue bonds to build roads will do much to solve the road problem in the state, it is said.

West's Prison Policy Endorsed.

Salem, Ore., Feb. 17.—Complete indorsement of Governor West's prison policy in every important respect will be contained in the report now in preparation of the joint house and senate committee appointed early in the session to investigate the penitentiary. This report probably will be made tomorrow.

The report will say that the parole system carried out by the governor has proved thoroughly satisfactory. The report may even go further and recommend that the parole policy be practiced to even greater extent.

In its visit to the penitentiary, the committee investigated with great thoroughness. Two meals were eaten with the prisoners, that the kind of food served might be tried. Then a member of the committee rose and announced that any prisoner who had a complaint might feel himself free to come before the committee.

Nearly sixty prisoners responded. For the most part, the complaints were over minor matters.

A pathetic feature, however, was that almost every one of these men pleaded with the committee to take some action to make it possible for them to get socks and underwear.

Some wear only old rags for underclothes that they had not changed for months except to wash, while others had mere remnants of worn-out socks on their feet and they begged for relief. Only those whose friends helped them, they said, were provided in this respect.

The committee will recommend an appropriation to provide the convicts with needed socks and underwear.

The joint committee consists of LeWelling, chairman, Smith and Laughlin of the house, and Senators Hollis and Ragsdale.

Basket Willow Cuttings.

The Department of Agriculture is getting ready to fill requests for the basket willow cuttings grown last year on its experimental farm at Arlington, Va. Distribution of these cuttings takes place early in March each spring to farmers and others who wish to make trials of basket willow on lands too wet for other crops. From 50 to 100 cuttings are given each person.

The distribution is not a mere giving away of Government material to persons who desire to get something free, because it is required that each recipient, upon receipt, shall make a report of the results of his trial and the results obtained. Several select varieties are included in each set that is distributed, and the aim is to secure information as to the best variety for each locality, since no one kind can be relied upon to yield maximum results over a wide range of territory.

In the basket willow investigations carried on at the Arlington Farm, Arlington, Va., and at Ames, Iowa, by the Forest Service, particular attention has been given to the development of American species for basket making purposes. The European species now commonly used have never proved themselves entirely adapted to American conditions and are as a rule less hardy than the native species. At present there is at Arlington a willow garden containing nearly 500 lots gathered from all parts of the country and representing practically every species and variety found in the United States and Canada.

A system of selection which has been carried on for several years is already indicating which strains show the best basket willow characteristics for American conditions.

How Hail is Formed.

Limiting the observations to such compound halitones as are the most destructive and are produced during a tornado or a violent thunderstorm, the following theory has been advanced as to how they are formed: When the winds gyrate rapidly round an axis more or less inclined to the earth the space at and about the axis is rarefied. When air charged with vapor is drawn into this rarefied space it may be condensed into cloud or rain or, at a greater elevation, into snow. Now, supposing the rain formed in the lower region to be drawn up by the ascending current into the snowy region and so held for a short space, the drops will be frozen and then, if propelled beyond the gyrations, will fall to the ground as a shower of ordinary hail. But if in the descent they are again drawn in by the inflowing current they will be again carried up into the cold region and so acquire another coating of ice. In this way the globule may make a number of ascents and descents and acquire a fresh coating each time.—Harper's.

Munchausen.

Many a reader of the fictitious adventures of the famous hero of the "Munchausenad" (which was first published in English at Oxford during the lifetime of this prince of all liars) has no conception that the hero was a real person. Baron Hieronymus Karl Friedrich von Munchausen was a Hanoverian nobleman, a subject of the first three Georges. He was born in 1720 and died in 1797. He took service in a Russian cavalry regiment, but retired in old age to his ancestral estate at Bodenwerder, in Hanover, where he became notorious for the magnificent lies about his military adventures with which he used to entertain his neighbors at his hospitable board. A collection of these stories, entitled "Vademecum für lustige Leute," was published at Berlin in 1781 without the baron's permission. The English work, "Baron Munchausen's Narrative of His Marvellous Travels and Campaigns in Russia," was an expansion and improvement of the Berlin collection.

Tact and Success.

Tact is a combination of good temper, ready wit, quickness of perception and ability to take in the exigency of the occasion instantly. It is never offensive, but is a balm allaying suspicion and soothing. It is appreciated. It is plausible without being dishonest, apparently consults the welfare of the second party and does not manifest any selfishness. It is never antagonistic, never opposes, never strokes the hair the wrong way and never irritates. Tact, like a fine manner, eschews the way, takes the jar out of the joints, oils the bearings, opens doors barred to others, sits in the drawing room when others must wait in the reception hall, gets into private offices when others are turned down. It admits you into exclusive circles, where wealth abounds, even though poor. It secures the position when merit is turned away. Tact is a great manager. It easily controls people, even when combined with small ability, when genius cannot get along.—Leslie's Weekly.

Contrary to Fact.

The phrenologist was examining the bumps on Sambo's head. "Curiously and acquisitiveness abnormally large." Sambo rolled his eyeballs and showed two rows of white ivory. "Imitiveness, causality and conscientiousness small, which with your weak mouth indicates"— "Don't you be so shu' 'bout me habbin' a weak mouf. I kin crack nuts in ma teef."—Satire.

A Pardonable Paradox.

"That young son-in-law of mine," said Mr. Cumrox, "says I'm unreasonably. And maybe he's right." "What's the trouble?" "Before their marriage I objected to his attentions to my daughter. Now I'm objecting to his inattention."—Washington Star.

Not a Monotonous Life.

Mrs. Hoyle—Don't you find married life monotonous? Mrs. Doyle—Not a bit of it. My husband is a most original man, and I am always looking forward to see what kind of a lie he will tell when he comes home at night.—New York Press.

Why He Liked Them.

Wife—Do you like those beautiful suspenders I embroidered for you, dear? Hubby—Yes, darling. They don't show when I am dressed.—Milwaukee News.
