Chris Swanson, who with his brother owns and cultivates a tract of 700 acres of land adjoining the 401 Ranch, lies at his home today at the verge of death, following the explosion of a half stick of dynamite in the breast pocket of his coat Thursday morning. His entire left side was driven in, his lungs and other internal organs being injured. He was treated by Dr. E. R. Seeley, who reports that Swanson's injuries are very nearly fatal. Swanson left the house early today to dynamite squirrels. He was alone when the explosion occurred and was only able to state that the dynamite exploded in the pocket of his coat. Whether he ignited a dynamite cap accidentally or whether he jolted the explosive with enough force to set it off will never be known unless he recovers. Charles Stanley heard the explosion and saw Swanson fall. He rushed to his aid and carried the wounded man home. Swanson's entire left side is raw and bleeding, while his lungs were seriously injured.—Tribune.

Eig Hunt in the Hills.

A big game hunting party is now being organized to follow the noted bear pack belonging to Jacob Fry into the Rogue river hills. The party will include State Treasurer Kay, W. D. DeVarney of Portland and William Darsie and L. Gamble of Sunford university, and will be under the guidance of Lee Emerson, well known as a successful hunter of bear and cougar and authority on all matters pertaining to the Rogue hills. Mr. Emerson is now in this city making arrangements for the hunt, the party to leave West Fork on the 27th of the present month.—Grants Pass Courier.

Water Spout at Tillamook.

Portland, Ore., March 25.—Officers of the steamer Rose City, in port today, report having seen a waterspout at least a mile in height off Tillamook Head early yesterday morning. The waterspout was 15 miles inshore from the Rose City's course and was visible for some time finally disappearing in the direction of Cape Meares. This phenomenon is very unusual in northern Pacific waters.

Oregon Sidelights.

Albany Democrat: An early solution of the city extension problem is desired. Albany needs more room, that's all. More than that, the people outside need city privileges.
Grass Valley Journal: Very substantial improvements continue to be made in the city park, which is now enclosed with a neat fence, and holes are now being dug for about 200 shade trees.
Toledo Sentinel: There is every prospect of a house famine in Toledo this spring. There is scarcely an empty house in town and there are numerous inquiries for houses to rent.
Hermiston Herald: F. B. Pennek has 600 pounds of alfalfa seed grown on his own farm, from about three acres. In addition to the seed he also secured one cutting of hay, which went two tons to the acre.
Joseph Herald: Another elk that had been injured before arriving at St. Anthony died within the last week, making the second death out of the 15 head since arriving here. Walter Doak skinned both of them and found several of the ribs had been crushed.

Hilbert A. Brown of below Central station thinks he has the world beaten on a cultivated Oregon grape. It is 15 feet in height and growing right along. An Oregon grape over six or seven feet is the exception Mr. Brown is going to see what cultivation will do for the vine.
Eugene Register. Manager Gano of the Eugene Coffee club is very well pleased with the interest taken in the club generally and the patronage at the lunch counter and dining room is increasing every day. He also says he has in the first week secured employment for 43 men and four women. The reading room is crowded almost all the time and the men seem to enjoy it very much.
Woodburn Independent: Tenderfeet in Oregon have to learn that here in the Willamette valley it is 'down north" and "up south," and time and again our speech betrayeth us as newcomers when we speak, without stopping to think, of going "down to Salem" and "up to Portland." But the former expression really has some justification, as Salem is actually 20 feet lower than Woodburn, being located on the river, while we are miles away from it.—Journal.

THE BEST PROOF

Jacksonville Citizens Cannot Doubt It.

Doan's Kidney Pills were used—they cured. The story was told to Jacksonville residents. Time has strengthened the evidence. Has proven the cure permanent. The testimony is from this locality. The proof is convincing. Mrs. J. H. Baussum, Central Ave., Medford, Ore., says: "I was so bad with kidney trouble that I could not do my housework. My back was weak and painful and in the morning when I got up, I was lame and sore. The kidney secretions were unnatural and my health steadily ran down until I was hardly able to get about. While in that condition, I read about Doan's Kidney Pills and got a box. I felt better from the time I commenced their use and it was not long until I was cured. I am in a position to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to any one afflicted with kidney complaint." (Statement given Sept. 14, 1907.)

RE-ENDORSEMENT. When Mrs. Baussum was interviewed on October 26, 1909 she said: "My former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills still holds good. Since this remedy cured me I have had no further attacks of kidney complaint and I have enjoyed good health. I do not hesitate to say that Doan's Kidney Pills are beneficial for all difficulties, caused by weak kidneys."

THE Bad Man

Did He Deserve the Name? By CLARISSA MACKIE

(Concluded from last week.)

"Fire! See it coming? I've come to help you ditch it around the house or else get the women away. What do you want to do?" He asked the question impatiently, and indeed there was little time to be lost, for the long red wall of flame was approaching rapidly. The ranch house was of adobe and would stand the fierce encircling flames if they could manage the ditch.

They could turn the contents of the water tank into the ditch. Dick was thinking while he rapidly dressed and ordered his family from their beds.

Loo Sing had quite disappeared, and the three Mexicans, who were all the help Dick had on the farm at this season, were doubtless gambling down at Gunning's saloon, eight miles away. There was nobody here but the bad man and Dick Fancher.

First they drove the frightened horses to the shed near the house. Then they turned loose the restless cattle and saw them flee instinctively to the refuge of the hills to the east. It would take days to gather them in again. The two men fell to work with shovels and made a wide ditch all around the little lonely adobe house, waiting there in the middle of the crisp, parched plain to know what hot fate would be. Would the heat of the flames crack her walls beyond endurance of the women within, or would the two be able to complete the ditch and fill it with water, thus frustrating the cruel tongues of devastating fire?

The ditch was finished while the hot breath of flame fanned their cheeks. They turned the water, an all too slender stream, into the ditch, saw the earth drink it up, drink and drink, and then when it could absorb no more saw the ditch slowly fill to half its depth. Then Gay Ransom, barefooted, singed by flame and scorched beyond recognition, threw pail after pail of water against the walls of the house, even while the heated surface hissed under the contact and the steam rose in a white drift. Dick Fancher was everywhere at once, beating back little incursions of flame, tossing a bucket of water on a flaming shrub chasing bewildered chickens into the house, sobbing first his family and then his horses until the morning dawned and found them safe.

Black and grimy beyond recognition they stared at each other while the smoke clouds billowed away to the northeast. Then it was that Loo Sing emerged from the adobe chicken house wild with fright and dragging after him the evidences of his own guilt in the shape of a bag of muffled chickens. "I owe you the sincerest apology Ransom," said Dick Fancher frankly as he grasped the other's hand, "and I owe you more than I can say for the help you've given me tonight."

"I think you've made a mistake Dick, dear," said Nan's soft voice, with a hint of laughter in its tone. "This is not Gay Ransom, the desperado. I am sure it is Mr. Bleck himself, for I met him last summer at the Tetteley's."

"Of course, of course!" cried Bleck excitedly. "I knew I'd seen you before. I took you in to dinner, you know."

"Please explain," said Dick with what patience he could muster. "Why are you not Gay Ransom? Why are you Mr. Bleck? Why are you posing as a bad man and a sheep herder?"

Bleck laughed heartily. "I'm Bleck because I can't help it. I came out here to learn the business on my ranch from the bottom up, and the bottom seems to be herding. I told my foreman I'd be in for awhile, and the ranch planted on me the name and reputation of a well known bad man herdsman. I've just discovered the fact, and I marvel that I've not been lynched before this."

This is the story of how the bad man came to be Dick Fancher's warmest friend and finally his brother-in-law and how Nan became her brother's nearest neighbor and yet lived in the next county.

I would have had a long illness and my lungs were so sore and inflamed I began to be seriously alarmed. A friend recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, saying she had used it for years.
