

JACKSONVILLE POST

Official Paper of the City of Jacksonville, Oregon

A weekly newspaper published every Saturday at the county seat of Jackson County, Oregon. D. W. BAGSHAW, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter June 22, 1907, at the post office at Jacksonville, Oregon, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

SATURDAY, APRIL 19, 1913

SUBSCRIPTION: One year by mail $1.50. Advertising rates furnished on application.

Portland papers announce that certain politicians in that city are opposing the confirmation of the appointment of Clarence Reames as U. S. District Attorney, alleging for the cause of opposition that Mr. Reames had been in the employ of the Southern Pacific Ry. and if appointed to the position he would be likely to favor the railroad interests as against those of the people. This is all bosh; because an attorney was at one time employed by an individual or a corporation is no indication that he will be forever bound to look out for the interests of his former client. When Mr. Reames resigned from service as attorney for the S. P. the relation of attorney and client which had existed between him and the company terminated and it is folly to suppose that the fact of such former employment would influence in any way his actions as U. S. District Attorney. The whole thing in a nut shell is this: Portland is jealous of Southern Oregon, it is not a question of the man but of the locality that is at stake, according to Portland spirit no man who lives south of Marion county is fit for appointment or election to any public office. Mr. Reames is a native son of this city and the people of Jackson county were pleased to hear of his appointment and expect his confirmation as a matter of course, a few knockers of Portland to the contrary notwithstanding.

Electric Sparks.

After all, there are a few sounds so inspiring as the crack of the new bat against the first ball of the season.

If the President adheres to the policy of not discussing patronage at the White House, those statesmen will be willing to give him a whole suite of rooms at the Capitol.

For the new "Kent Professor" of law at Yale the country wishes wealth, happiness and prosperity.

Meanwhile it is a sad sight here to be the country's most amiable ex-president.

Express companies in the West have been caught sending their packages by the Parcel Post, which shows that these corporations know a cheap and efficient service when they see it.

The New York courts haven't been able to decide whether a turtle is an animal or a reptile. It depends entirely whether you see one in the soup or in the old swimming hole.

Bills have been introduced in the Colorado Legislature calling for appropriations amounting to five times the state's revenues. Every Colorado politician is of national caliber.

It is now becoming apparent, even to the professional liberty gushers,

Notice of Sheriff's Sale Under Execution.

Moors and Morocco.

Moors and Morocco are words unknown to the people of that troubled land. These people know themselves as Arabs and descendants of those valiant upholders of the prophet's green standard who swept like a flood across north Africa at the time of the begira. The Morocco of the present day they found possessed by a sturdy race who claimed descent from the people who were cast out of Canaan by Joshua, the son of Nun. Their country, so far as its plains were concerned, was taken from them by the Arabs, and their fighting strength was made to serve the Arab cause in the conquest of Spain. They themselves gradually took to the mountains, to the great Atlas. Here they have remained ever since, speaking their own language, maintaining their own customs and racial attributes and obstinately refusing to be absorbed by the Arab dwellers on the plains. These people are the Berbers. Their tongue is called Shillab. Literature they have none, in the ordinary sense of the word, but they have a rich store of oral tradition, myth, legend and folklore.

Fees of the Lecture Platform.

"The palmy days of the lecture platform"—when were they? Most folks would guess before the war, when Ralph Waldo Emerson demanded $5 a night and a tip of four quarters of cents for his horse, or a little later, when Eli Perkins used to say all he asked for was F. A. M. E. fifty and my expenses. Wiser ones will point to the time between 1872, when Henry Ward Beecher got his first $1,000 fee, and 1890, when Major Pond paid Henry M. Stanley $100,000 for 100 lectures. They will cite Mark Twain, John B. Gough, F. T. Barnum and a long list of old timers that got from $500 to $1,000 a night in that period, and they will tell you that those times have gone.

Maybe they have, but the lecture platform hasn't. Individual fees are not so high, but the business never offered better chances to the would be entertainer than right now.—Detroit Free Press.

Of Course Not.

Mrs. Roby, the distinguished lady traveler and explorer, told some interesting stories of her experiences in central Africa.

In one of the villages through which Mrs. Roby passed a leopard which had killed several children was captured and appropriated by the chief, who kept it in his bed for several days. Mrs. Roby visited the chief and was shown the dead body of the leopard.

"Why do you keep it?" she asked.

"Because it is a king leopard," was the reply.

"What will you do with it?" was Mrs. Roby's next question.

To which the chief replied tersely, "Eat it."

"But it smells most horribly," Mrs. Roby objected.

"I shall not eat the smell," the chief assured her.

A Perilous Business.

Taking young geese on the island of Rona, in the outermost Hebrides, is a most perilous business, though large captures are occasionally made. A crew recently returned with a bag of 2,200 birds, which found ready sale at Ness. The men were lowered over the face of the cliffs, which are 400 to 600 feet sheer to the sea. They then lassoed the birds out of their nests by means of a fishing rod with a noosed string at the end.

Straight at It.

There is no use of our "beating around the bush." We might as well with it as at last. We want you to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the next time you have a cough or cold. There is no reason so far as we can see why you should not do so. This preparation by its remarkable cures has gained a world wide reputation, and people everywhere speak of it in the highest terms of praise. It is for sale by all dealers.—Advertisement.

Pronouncing London Names.

It is by his pronunciation of the place names of London that a stranger may be detected. If he says "Holborn" instead of "Hoborn," Mary-le-bone with the full pronunciation of each syllable or South-wark instead of "Suthark," we know at once that he is not of the town. And there is a pronunciation that is peculiar to cabmen and bus conductors, such as West-min-ister for Westminster, High park for Hyde park and, most peculiar of all, which the taxi driver has inherited from the old hansom cabman, the custom of calling the well known piazzas in Covent Garden the "peea-ches." And this reminds us that the garden, as salesmen and actors call it, is invariably styled by the market porters "Common Garden."—London Standard.

History of the Horse.

The horse has been employed in the service of mankind, both in peace and war, since earliest times. Indeed, his origin is traditional, antedating history many years. They were kept in Syria, for in Genesis it speaks of Joseph giving his brethren bread in exchange for horses. They were also very plentiful in ancient Egypt, as there were "horsemen" and "chariots" in Pharaoh's army when he chased the children of Israel into the Red sea. In Kings we read of "Solomon, who had 40,000 stalls of horses," so Palestine was well supplied. As to color, horses were of various colors in ancient times, the same as now, for in Zechariah 1, 8, and vi. 2, we find "white horses, black horses, red horses, bay horses and speckled horses" are mentioned. In James iii. 3, is this: "Behold, we put bits in the horses' mouths that they may obey us." The native habitation of the horse is supposed to have been Tartary, and from those herds have spread the horses of the world.—Gleaner.

Mr. Shaw and a Poet.

Mr. Bernard Shaw was to speak at the dinner of the Society of Authors, and a place had been set apart for him next to Mrs. Tweedie. But Shaw, being a vegetarian, did not put in an appearance until the meat course was over. Meanwhile his place was taken by another author. A gushing lady who sat opposite poured out praise upon this gentleman all through the meal, telling him how greatly she admired his writings. Finally she begged for his autograph and asked him to write under his name, "Man and Superman." "Don't you love it the best?" she asked. "Never read it in my life." "What! You do not mean to say that you are not Bernard Shaw?" "No," was the disconsolate admission. "I'm only Lewis Morris, the poet." The lady was disposed to be generously forgiving. "Never mind," she said; "you had better sign your autograph all the same."—From Mrs. Alec Tweedie's "Book of Reminiscences."

A Comparison.

"Nothing it seems to me, looks as unimportant as a bridegroom at a wedding."

"Have you ever noticed a governor who he was surrounded by the noblest members of his staff?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Look to Your Plumbing.

You know what happens in a house in which the plumbing is in poor condition—everybody in the house is liable to contract typhoid or some other fever. The digestive organs perform the same functions in the human body as the plumbing does for the house, and they should be kept in first class condition all the time. If you have any trouble with your digestion take Chamberlain's Tablets and you are certain to get quick relief. For sale by all dealers.—Advertisement.

How to check up on the doctor.
A prominent New York physician says: "If it were not for the thin stockings and thin soled shoes worn by women the doctors would probably be bankrupt." When you contract a cold do not wait for it to develop into pneumonia but treat it at once. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is intended especially for coughs and colds, and has won a wide reputation by its cures of these diseases. It is most effective and is pleasant and safe to take. California Woman Seriously Alarmed
"A short time ago I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs and caused me a great deal of annoyance. I would have had coughing spells and my lungs were so sore and inflamed I began to be seriously alarmed. A friend recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, saying she had used it for years. I bought a bottle and it relieved my cough the first night, and in a week I was rid of the cold and soreness of my lungs," writes Miss Marie Gerber, Sausalito, Cal.
