 In his address here last evening, Mr. Maris quoted facts and figures pertaining to agricultural matters and explained the object of the movement he represents and told of the splendid results obtained through it in other states and the excellent start made in Oregon last year.
 He said our educational system was responsible in a large degree for present conditions, the tendency of which has been to teach young men and young women to earn their living by their wits instead of by the labor of their hands.
 The Commercial Club, Ladies' Civic Club and Parents-Teachers Association are taking an active interest in a school fair planned to be held in this city next fall and are doing all in their power to further the undertaking.

Dick Posey Entertains at Court House Next Wednesday Evening.

We are to have an unusual treat for a town the size of Jacksonville. The Hon. "Dick Posey" "The Poet of the Rogue" will give us an evening of entertainment and fun, next Wednesday evening, April 23, at 8 P. M. at the court house.
 "Dick Posey" (Mr. R. P. Campbell of Ashland) is our own home poet and it will not be many years till "Dick Posey," "The Poet of the Rogue" will be as famous as was Joaquin Miller, "The Poet of the Sierras."
 Come out and hear him and see if this prediction is not true. You will get far more than your money's worth of enjoyment beside hearing a great chautauqua speaker.
 "Professor Dick Posey, Ashland's popular entertainer, appeared in Phoenix Friday evening, January 17, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church of this place. The Phoenix people were well pleased with the Rogue River poet. Professor Posey is an able entertainer and the ladies expect to arrange for another of his entertainments in the near future.—J. K. Bailey, Phoenix, Ore."

Boy's Story Stays Law.

A boy's story of hunger so acute that it led him to steal for the first time in his life was so dramatically told in the office of Juvenile Judge Tou Velle Wednesday afternoon that the judge stayed the law, and allowed the boy to go home and a job.
 The youngster hailed from Portland and gives his name as Frederick Walter Scaife. He left home after he had lost his watch and feared he would be censured at home. He is between 15 and 16 years of age.
 Young Scaife beat his way south from Portland, but being inexperienced he failed to secure food by the hand-out route. After two days of hunger the boy entered a bakery at Ashland and stole seven or eight pies; two cans of milk, a can of salmon, a can of peas three boxes of marshmallows, a cake, a half box of chewing gum and some tobacco.

Tariff Bill Comment.

A study of the free list in the new Democratic tariff act leads to the inevitable conclusion that the party in power aims to fulfill its pledge to give the tariff schedules a genuine downward revision. The other provisions granting broad reductions on the necessities of life carry out this constructive program to lessen the high cost of living.
 It is in strong contrast with the Payne-Aldrich act which was the last straw that broke the back of the Republican elephant. Whatever one may think of it, it evidently is an attempt to proclaim that the people are entitled to relief. It also represents intelligent study of economic conditions in the United States.
 New England is hard hit by the free list provisions. So is the rest of the country. The farmers of the west may be pleased to think that boots and shoes are on the free list, but they are not happy over free flour, free bread, free corn and cornmeal, free swine, and free meats, and we are. The free wool provision likewise will be viewed with mixed emotion.
 A striking feature of the bill is the fact that practically every trust that could be reached is dealt a blow by this bill. The following free articles hit well-known trusts: Coal, lumber, meats, steel rails and agricultural implements, while a further study of the list shows that other industrial combinations, less known but powerful have been taken into camp. The sugar trust is given special treatment with a moderate reduction at once and a total removal of duty three years hence.—Ex.

Oregon Sidelights.

Baseball is the great democratic, people's game.
 Marshfield has in immediate prospect as street improvements, paving and plankings that will cost well nigh $30,000.
 From early indications the Herald thinks more cement sidewalks will be laid at Baker this year than in many previous seasons.
 Thomas Drake has resigned the city attorneyship of Klamath Falls, and is succeeded by J. C. Rutenic, appointed by Mayor Nicholas.
 A mass meeting at Enterprise has asked the council to call an election to raise the bonding limit, so that a sewer system may be put in.
 A pair of native Oregon quails have been seen near Gateway. The Madras Pioneer says they are the first seen in that section for many years.
 Redmond has in process of organization a paid fire department, G. W. Wells is chief, M. A. Lynch first assistant and Z. Taliaferro second assistant.
 The Pendleton East Oregonian reports for last Friday afternoon a temperature of 89 degrees in the shade, and asks, "Is summer really here?"
 It is objected that the commission charter gives the mayor too much power. Thought that was one thing we were after—to definitely locate and centralize authority and responsibility.
 Some Democrats in congress objected to the oral instead of the written message merely because the early Federalists presidents used the former method, and Jefferson changed to the latter. Which method is better was not considered.—Journal.

New Express Co. in Willamette.

The Oregon Electric Lines will not renew the contract with the Wells-Fargo people when it expires, August 1, but thereafter the two affiliated Hill express systems, the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific will operate over these lines, and there will be for the first time in more than 40 years, active and aggressive competition in the Willamette valley and Southern Oregon.—Eugene Guard.

Canine Habits.

Dogs when watching things keep one of their fore paws doubled up because in their wild state they were used to approaching their prey step by step and kept one paw doubled up to be ready to advance it with all possible caution at the next opportune moment. This habit of crawling to ward their prey, advancing cautiously while preparing to rush or spring, may be observed in the meeting of two dogs, strangers to each other, any day, particularly in the country. The dog who sees the other first, after giving him a cautious look, invariably lowers his head and tries to conceal himself by, crouching, a maneuver necessary in the wild state. It's continued nowadays either in play or as a matter of expedient. Either the dog is preparing for an attack or by lying down gives notice to the other dog that he is friendly and doesn't care to fight.—Boston Herald.

Walking and Muscular Work.

The muscular work performed in the simple act of walking is much greater than most of us have any idea of. Walking at the moderate rate of three miles an hour is equivalent to lifting the body perpendicularly through one-twentieth of the distance walked. If the person walk one mile at the rate mentioned the amount of work done would be equivalent to lifting the body perpendicularly through a distance of 264 feet. Supposing a person weighing 150 pounds walks five miles, he is doing work which equals the lifting of nearly eighty-eight tons one foot high. Yet all the movements of walking are, in the case of a healthy person, performed quite subconsciously, so that all the muscles employed in the act are actually exercising and developing themselves.

Life Passion of an Artist.

"I do not believe in any real enjoyment outside of work, or interest belonging to it." G. F. Watts said.
 When he was young he used to forsake his bed, because sleeping in comfort robbed him of the first daylight hours, and he preferred to lie wrapped in rugs on the hard floor, so as to waken early and begin work. When he was old and frail—for he lived to be eighty-seven and painted to the end—the same spirit made him impatient of the dark winter mornings.
 "How I wish it was time to begin work again!" he would sigh.—Molra O'Neill in Blackwood's Magazine.
