EXPERT FILES REPORT
Showing Shortage in Sheriff's Office. Does not State Who Got the Money.

Expert Wann who has spent several months going over the books in the sheriff's office made what he terms a report of "a mechanical audit" of the books Thursday, stating that a final report will be made later on.
In his report, the expert states that the shortage began in 1909 when a shortage of $3119.19 existed, in 1910 the shortage increased to $6656.76 the next year 1911, there was a big jump in the deficiency, the books showing a shortage of $16120.50, this was increased last year to $20893.50.
The report indicates that someone in the office knew of the shortage and probably manipulated the books so that the shortage would not appear when the audit was made by Mr. Wilson. A check from the S. P. Ry. Co. for $24,227.86 was received March 23, 1912 and the money deposited but the tax receipts for which the check was given were not entered in the tax ledger, hence when Mr. Wilson went over the books and checked the tax receipts with the cash he found a balance on the right side.
Mr. Wann does not state in his report who is responsible for the shortage or where the money went and his further and final report will be watched for with interest.

His Unusual Life

To The Oregon pioneer has been given a measure of life fuller than that poured out to any other people. The first settler of other new lands witnessed growth and development in the natural order, but only to him of Oregon has been accorded the opportunity of seeing in a short stretch of time a moving film, reaching from the simple and individual life of wood and stream to the complex and cooperative life of farm and populous city.
In what other country than the Oregon country are there living middle-aged men and women who have seen log cabin and puncheon floor grow into high structure of steel and floor of mosaic; who have seen the ox and the horse disappear before the engine of gas; who have read the recorded story of the race in the pale light of the tail-dip and in the glare of the electric candle.
The Oregon pioneer has seen a marvelous growth in material things and he has also seen the fields of science and politics yield a golden harvest. In epitome he has seen in the brief span of his existence the progress of an entire world, the crystallization of centuries of human endeavor, a sight that has been seen by no other pioneer.
The Oregon pioneer has seen the death of old political methods, the old convention system and control of the few and out of this death he has seen the birth of the sentiment that is bringing political control of the many and regard to the rights of the few; a sentiment of truly representative government.

FREIGHT RATES REDUCED

Railroad Commission Authorize new Rates from Gold Hill and Greens to Portland.

Salem, Ore., June 18.—A freight rate of $2 a ton on cement shipped from Gold Hill, in Jackson county, to Portland, and of $1.75 a ton on the same product shipped from Greens, in Douglas county, to Portland, were authorized by the state railroad commission yesterday afternoon, following a hearing with railroad officials and representatives of the proposed cement factories.
The application for a $2 rate from Gold Hill to Portland was made by the Southern Pacific company for the benefit of the Beaver Portland Cement company, which proposes to put up a large cement plant at Gold Hill.
At the same time C. S. Jackson of Roseburg, representing Roseburg and Douglas county interests in general and the interests of D. W. Reidle in particular, appeared at the hearing and made a request for a freight rate of $1.70 from Greens to Portland. The commission authorized a rate of $1.75 upon a substantial showing being made by Mr. Reidle that he is prepared to install a cement plant so he can use the rate.
The $2 rate from Gold Hill was conditioned on the $1.75 rate also being put into effect.

Railways to Safeguard Disease.

Aside from the customary disinfection of passenger coaches the medical department of the Great Northern railway has gone several steps further in joining the country-wide movement to safeguard public health. It has been the custom for several years to compel all applicants for positions on dining and sleeping cars to undergo the strictest physical examination before entering the employ of the Hill system. The latest order draws the line even finer, making it imperative that every employe who even takes a short leave of absence to undergo a physical examination by company physicians before returning to the service. In this way, the medical corps declares, it will be impossible for any employe to continue in the public service if he is suffering from tuberculosis or any other infectious or contagious disease. Further precaution is taken by the company in barring undesirable employes from employment where food is stored and linens or tableware are kept.
The Great Northern railway is one of the few systems that owns its own sleeping cars, and thus it is enabled to carry out the innovation advocated in the leading medical journals, of placing an absolute barrier against the spreading of disease, by having its medical corps guard every possible avenue of danger.
The American Medical Association, which will convene in Minneapolis in July, is expected to launch a far-reaching public health campaign along these lines, urging every railway in the United States to join in the movement.
