PRESIDENT UNSHAKEN

Formulates Policy Entirely Friendly, but Without Recognition.

Washington, July 31.—Strong intimation came from the White House late today that nothing in the recent conference with Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson had changed the judgment of President Wilson as to the course he ought to pursue with respect to Mexico. It became known that the President was formulating a policy entirely friendly in character toward Mexico, and that it did not contemplate recognition of Huerta under any circumstances.

Fruits of Mexico.
Mexico is the fruit paradise. Fruits never heard of by the hundreds of millions who live in the temperate zones grow there in profusion, and Acapulco, on the Pacific slope, is perhaps the garden spot of it all. It is noted for the great quantity of indigenous varieties which grow spontaneously. With the exception of some indifferent cultivation of coconuts and bananas everything else grows wild and in luxuriance.

Of the fruits known in the United States this district alone produces bananas, oranges, pineapples, mangoes, limes and lemons. And here are a few more of other varieties never seen above the border line: Toronjas, a species of grapefruit; the aguacate, papaya, guayabo, chico, zapote, mamey, llama, anone, granada, calmita, cartajena, meson, wamuche, ficame, tamarrindo, nanche, bulcon, leacos, almendra (almonds), ciruela (plum), and undoubtedly many others.

But so indifferent are the natives to their possibilities that nothing is exported except the lime and its products.—Exchange.

Made Two Foes With One Sketch.

Scutari in Albania is needlessly confused with its namesake on the Bosphorus in Asia Minor because one place is always spelled and pronounced Skodra, except in western Europe. Edward Lear, the painter who invented "Limericks," had a quaint adventure here. He had made a drawing of his host in Skodra costume when a younger brother of the model came in and wanted to be sketched. Lear for lack of paper was obliged to make a smaller portrait of him on the same page. Thereupon the younger exclaimed in a fury of indignation: "It is true I am younger, but I am not smaller than my brother. Why do you act so insultingly?" Before the amazed artist could apologize the elder brother added, "If you think to win my esteem by a compliment paid me at the expense of my brother you are greatly mistaken." Lear adds, "I had made two enemies by one sketch, the injured brothers bowing me out with looks of thunder."—London Standard.

How to Get Rugs Cleaned.

She told the agent for the vacuum cleaner that she really did intend to buy one, but could not decide which to choose. It was at this time that another agent, for another vacuum cleaner, came around the corner of the north side home. An argument ensued. "This cleaner is nickel plated; it is light and compact, the rubber is the best vulcanized!"

"My machine, lady," interrupted the second agent, "is the lightest and most durable machine on the market. It is—"

"Excuse me," said the woman of the house. She was absent a moment, then reappeared with a rug.

"We shall see now which is the better," she said.

Ten minutes later she excused herself again and entered the house with a spotted rug. Two agents shook hands and swore they would "never tell."—Indianapolis News.

Hair High in the Air.

Women's hair used to be dressed to an amazing height in days of old. Formerly doorways had to be heightened to accommodate the eighteenth century woman of fashion. Marie Antoinette's hairdresser had to mount a stool in order to get above his work. Women of that time had to kneel in their coaches to get their head covering inside or drive with their heads out of window. Mme. de Genlis was caught by her hair while hastening to greet Voltaire at Ferney, but escaped Absalom's fate, her hair remaining on the bough. And the Duchesse de Chartres had room on her hair one evening for a miniature man-of-war in full sail, on another for a representation of her little son, Louis Philippe, sleeping in the lap of his nurse.

Gaelic.

Gaelic is the language of the highlanders of Scotland. The name belongs also to the sister languages of Ireland and the Isle of Man, but these have other names more commonly applied to them—Irish and Manx, and the term Gaelic is usually reserved for that spoken in Scotland. The three languages were originally one and now stand in much the same relation to each other that broad Scotch does to king's English.

Misplaced Sympathy.

"You don't mean to say that Dugeon is dead?"
"Yes, sir; and I married his widow."
"Dear me! You don't say! Poor fellow!"
"Don't be at all sorry for him, old man. He has the laugh on me all right."—Life

A Little Mixed.

Sportsman—I wonder what's become of Mike? I told him to meet me here. Driver—Ach, tis no use tellin' him anything! Sure, sorr, at jist goes in at wan ear and out at the other, like water off a duck's back!—London Tit-Bits.

Same Thing.

Wife (bitterly)—How can you talk that way? You know that I never pester you for money. Hub—No, but the people you buy things from do.—Boston Transcript.

Conservation.

Mrs. Knicker—I thought you promised to stay on the water wagon while I was away? Knicker—I did, but the plants used it all up.—New York Sun.

The mole would live beneath the ground, and nature closed his eyes.—Henry Drummond.

Surprising Cure of Stomach Trouble.

When you have trouble with your stomach or chronic constipation, don't imagine that your case is beyond help just because your doctor fails to give you relief. Mrs. G. Stoney, Plainfield, N. J., writes, "For over a month just I have been troubled with my stomach. Everything I ate upset it terribly. One of Chamberlain's advertising solicitations came to me. After reading a few of the letters from people who had been cured by Chamberlain's Tablets, I decided to try them. I have taken nearly three fourths of a box of Chamberlain's Tablets and can now eat almost anything that I want." For sale by all dealers.

Dysentery is a ways serious and often a dangerous disease, but it can be cured. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has cured it even when malignant and fatal. For sale by all dealers.
