Electric Sparks

Another confession has been brought out in the case of Charles Becker. The supply appears to be practically inexhaustible.

"Embarrassing the administration" is one of the most effective political boomerangs that have been devised in recent years.

Office men receiving postcards from absentees on vacation may be sustained and soothed by the thought that electric fans are scarce in this country.

Not only everybody is willing to concede that the sun revolves around the sun, but when the astronomers insist the sun is farther from the earth in summer than in winter they pursue a perspiring populace too far.

Having given Bulgaria an overdose of trouble, Dr. Danoff has thrown up the case.

Not His Death Warrant.

A police magistrate in Paris had a queer experience not long ago which began with an interview with an hysterical woman. She rushed into his office, past the attendant and, interrupting a conversation, threw a crumpled letter on the officer's desk and with pathetic gesture wailed: "Save him! Save him!"

The official thought he had an insane person before him, but picked up the paper, which looked like a letter. It began in letters larger than the body of the document: "You must die! Nothing will save you! You must die!" "He has always been a good man, and the little we owe we can pay at any time," the woman said between sobs, "and now there is a conspiracy against him."

While she was protesting the magistrate read the letter and, handing it back, said: "Go home to your family—read the rest of this letter. It is a life insurance advertisement."

The woman then told the magistrate she could not read, that a neighbor had read for her, and so many people were being killed, and she was so happy.

Glass Cutting.

The layman who is introduced to the mysteries of cutting glass for the first time is amazed at the amount of work that the workman does entirely by his eye. The first stage of the bowl which is to be cut finds it in a perfectly plain condition, not a scratch upon it and only a half dozen or more marks in red chalk, which mean absolutely nothing to the unpracticed eye. But to the workman they mean the whole pattern. Perhaps the dish is a salad bowl. The marks in chalk will run from the edge, five intervals apart, down to the center of the bowl at the bottom. In one of the divisions of the bowl thus marked there may be a little further marking in the shape perhaps of a diamond. This indicates the pattern into which the bowl is to be cut, and it will be repeated in each of the five divisions. All the intricacies of the design the workman has in his head, and they develop on the glass in a way which seems to the looker on absolutely marvelous.—New York Times.

A Fair Compromise.

A partner in one of the theatrical producing firms of the city of New York had occasion to hire an actor to play a small part in a drama he was putting out. A rather well known actor, who values himself and his art with a proper appreciation, applied for the place.

"You play a full blood Sioux Indian," explained the manager. "The salary is $50 a week."

"My dear boy," said the actor in a pained tone, "I've never worked for less than $100. A hundred dollars is my regular price."

"Fifty dollars!" said the manager calmly. "Take it or leave it." The actor thought it over a minute.

"I'll take it," he said, "but I can't play a full blood Indian for $50. I'll play him as a half breed"—Saturday Evening Post.

Find Something New.

In 1644 the possibilities of the submarine were first propounded, while from the very earliest times men have conceived the idea of flying with wings like birds. There is no reason what ever to doubt the fact that Archytas of Tarentum, about 300 years before the Christian era, constructed an automaton person that would fly. Turning to other latter day inventions, as they are generally regarded, it might be mentioned that switchback railways were constructed more than a hundred years ago, and looping the loop was a sensation in Paris in 1828, while roller skating, which came up as a new invention about forty years ago, was being indulged in by our forefathers as far back as 1829.

The Yolk of an Egg.

After the first of Lent medieval custom insisted that an egg should be eaten on Easter day. According to the London Lancet, this rule was based on sound medical principles, for the only substance in the yolk is lecithin, and lecithin is a favorite drug with doctors who have patients suffering from nervous disorders. The quantity of the drug administered at a time corresponds almost exactly with the quantity found in a normal new laid egg.

Very Particular.

What She Wanted to Know.

"You are going to marry a rich widow who has three children," said the fortune teller.

"Oh, I know that," replied the beautiful girl, "but I'd like to find out what we are going to do with the children, for, as he says, they certainly need a mother's care."—St. Louis Republic.

A Rebuff.

"I told father I loved you more than any girl I've ever met."

Dancing Birds.

One of the many strange sights on the plains of southern Africa is a party of waiting ostriches. Their queer antics have been described thus:

"When there are a number of them they will start off in the morning and after running a few hundred yards will stop and with raised wings will whirl rapidly round till they are stupefied or perhaps break a leg. The males pose also before fighting and to make their court. They kneel on their ankles opening their wings and balancing themselves alternately forward and backward or to one side or the other, while the neck is stretched on a level with the back and the head strikes the sides, now on the right, now on the left, while the feathers are bristling. The birds appear at this time so absorbed in their occupation as to forget all that is going on around them and can be approached and caught. The male alone utters a cry, which sounds much like an effort to speak with the mouth shut tight."

Either I will find a way or I will make one.—Sir Philip Sidney.

Gladstone on Disraeli.
 G. A. Storey, A. R. A., recorded a touching incident he witnessed at the academy banquet of 1881 when a portrait for which Gladstone had sat for Millais shortly before his death was among the exhibits. "This unfinished work, pale and even ghastly, was in one of the side galleries. Gladstone, catching sight of the picture, went and stood long in front of it. * * * No one disturbed him. At the end of the feast Gladstone rose and in the finest and most feeling tone delivered a panegyric on the great man who had passed away. In a voice clear and sympathetic and full of emotion he told us of his admiration for the sterling qualities of the man who, though opposed to him in politics, was in no other sense an opponent. He spoke as only one generous in heart and of a broad and great mind could speak of another great man who had passed away. The speech surpassed anything I ever heard."—London Chronicle.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh of the Eustachian Tube, which is entirely curable, if treated by Hall's Catarrh Cure.
