Musical Plagiarist.

Victor Horriat, the composer, once said of a musician whose work he disliked:

"The prophecy that was made about this chap in his boyhood has come true. In his boyhood his mother said of him:

"Oh, he's such a remarkable child—a perfect prodigy. In fact, he remembers every tune he hears."

"Well, well!" said a pianist who was present

"Isn't that a very rare and valuable faculty?" his mother asked.

"It isn't rare," said the pianist, "but it's certainly valuable. It will probably enable him to become in after years a successful composer."

A Question of Degree.

On a writ of error to the supreme court of one of the states counsel for plaintiff in error sharply criticized the rulings of the trial judge. When the counsel for the defendant began his reply the following took place:

"May I please your honors, before I finish my argument, I think I can show you that the trial judge was not as crazy as counsel on the other side would make him out to be."

By a member of the court: "Let me understand you—you admit the fact of insanity of the trial judge, but deny its degree?"—Case and Comment.

Perilous Mining.

Quicksilver miners follow the most unhealthful trade in the world. The fumes of the mercury produce constant salivation and the system becomes permeated with the metal; the teeth of the unfortunate men drop out, they lose their appetite, become emaciated and as a rule seldom live longer than two years.
