INDIAN TROPHY SHOW IS BEST

HISTORICAL COLLECTION, MADE BY WOMAN AMONG EIGHTEEN TRIBES, AT COLISEUM, CHICAGO

The land show at the Coliseum, Chicago had the greatest individual collection of beaded-buckskin wearing apparel in the world. This included historical war dress worn by Old Si-Yeh, Little Plume, distinguished warriors of the Blackfeet Tribe in Glacier National Park.
 The exhibit, which formed a picturesque part of the Glacier National park booth, is the property of Mrs. Margaret Carberry of Blackfoot, Mont.
 Mrs. Carberry devoted twelve years of her life in the United States Indian service as a school teacher. She has been twenty-two years gathering the 2,344 articles of Indian wearing apparel, every piece of which has been worn by an Indian.
 Trading Woman, as she is known among the Indians, made her collection among eighteen tribes in New Mexico, Arizona, Nebraska, Wyoming and Montana. She has the gala and ordinary attire which were worn by the tribes of the Sioux, Piegans, Chipewas, Modoc, Commanche, Shoshone, Arapaho, Moki and Cheyenne nations.

 One of the most prized things in her collection is the complete "full dress suit" of the late Little Plume, a noted warrior, which was worn for the last time by Little Plume in the Roosevelt inaugural parade in Washington. Little Plume was proudest in this attire on that occasion when President Roosevelt saluted him as the Indian chief passed the reviewing stand before the Great White Chief of the nation.
 This is the first time Mrs. Carberry's exhibit ever was displayed. The Smithsonian institution has endeavored to get possession of the collection, but Trading Woman would not sell a single moccasin. She does not even attempt to fix a financial value on it. In fact, she is so solicitous about the safety of the collection that she insured it for $15,000 against fire and Louis W. Hill, chairman of the Great Northern railway, who induced her to bring it to Chicago, agreed to hire two night watchmen to guard it before she would even consent to ship the stuff to the Chicago show.

 The seven Blackfoot Indians who were guests at the land show took turns staying in the booth to keep an eye upon the passing throngs during show hours.
 There is one string of 150 elk teeth in the collection.

COLORADO MARBLE
 Centennial State Sends Memorial to Washington
 Masons have just finished setting in the Washington monument Colorado's contribution to the shaft in memory of the first president. It is a beautiful specimen of the Colorado Yule marble the same material which has been selected for the two million dollar Lincoln memorial to be placed on the bank of the Potomac just west of the monument.
 This marble comes from within the Sprois national forest, which furnishes a large part of the timber used in the quarrying operations. The maintenance of timber supplies for this and for other quarries and mines is, according to forestry officials, an important part of their work. It will always be their aim, they say, to maintain a supply of timber for this local demand as an aid in the development of one of Colorado's great resources, of which Governor Ammons, who came to Washington to arrange for the placing of the stone, is very proud.
 The stone itself will present a rectangular face 2 by 4 feet, upon which the name and seal of the state are inscribed together with the year in which the state was admitted. It is on the 290-foot landing inside the monument in the middle of the east wall and is thus one of the highest of the many tributes which line the lower part of the historic obelisk. It is now draped from the gaze of the public awaiting a date to be set by Senator Shafroth for simple unveiling ceremonies.

Beef Prices Discussed.
 Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Ore., Nov. 20—That the prices of beef are unduly high in comparison with other articles of food, is not believed by Professor E. L. Potter, head of the Animal Husbandry department, Oregon Agricultural College, who has made a careful study of the range of prices extending over several years. He does not consider that beef prices have increased more than is justified by the increased cost of production.
 "Of course present prices seem high in comparison with prices which prevailed a few years ago," said Professor Potter, "but it must be borne in mind that five-cent cattle were a losing proposition, and when we consider that the cost of production has been constantly increasing nothing could be expected other than a gradual closing out of the large herds, and a final increase in price. In addition to diminishing ranges and higher priced land the cattleman had to pay for labor, supplies and other factors, the high prices which prevail throughout the country. For this reason it is not fair to expect him to furnish us with beef at the old prices.
 "At the present prices, beef making is reasonably profitable, and if they are maintained the supply will doubtless increase somewhat. But should prices go down cattlemen will again curtail their beef making operations. Educational campaigns and legislation to increase beef production are of doubtful value. It is the maintenance of present prices that will do most to encourage beef production. Lower prices will discourage it.
 "The cost of raising beef is about 50 per cent higher than it was a few years ago, and stockmen will not raise cattle without adequate returns. Beef prices will fluctuate, but they cannot be kept below the cost of production.
 "The new tariff will probably have no great effect on beef prices, since the surplus from the great meat producing countries is already being consumed in Europe at prices approximately the same as our own."

Clean-up Orchard Campaign.
 At an adjourned meeting of the county court held Wednesday, a delegation consisting of J. A. Perry and F. H. Madden, representing the fruit growers of the valley, presented the recommendations submitted by the committee appointed at the Medford mass meeting recently held, praying for the inauguration of a thorough clean-up campaign of the orchards of the valley and requesting the appointment of additional inspectors during the clean-up campaign.
 The county court authorized the temporary increase of the inspection force to nine, who will be appointed by County Inspector J. W. Myers, to serve such time as is found necessary to clean up the orchards and authorized a vigorous campaign. All orchards will be inspected, owners notified of infection, and failure to clean up in a reasonable time will be followed by condemnation and cutting down of infected trees and the placing of a lien on the orchard to pay for the work.

Surprising Cure of Stomach Trouble.
 When you have trouble with your stomach or chronic constipation, don't imagine that your case is beyond help but become our doctor's patient. You will be cured. Mrs. A. B. Smith, of Medford, writes, "For several months I have been troubled with stomach trouble. I tried all sorts of medicine, but nothing helped. After reading a few lines in your paper, I decided to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I decided to try it, and after taking only three bottles, I was cured. I feel like a new woman. I can eat and sleep like I want." For sale by all druggists.—Advertisement.
