Officia. Paper of the City of Jacksonville, Oregon

A weekly newspaper published every Saturday at the county seat of Jackson County, Oregon. D. W. BAGSHAW, Editor.

Entered as second-class matter June 22, 1907, at the post office at Jacksonville, Oregon, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

SATURDAY, MARCH 14, 1914

SUBSCRIPTION: One year by mail $1.50. Advertising rates furnished on application.

In another column appears the announcement of W. H. Singler as a candidate for sheriff. Sheriff Singler was appointed by the county court to fill out the unexpired term of his brother who was killed while making an arrest near this city, and he has filled the office with credit to himself and satisfaction to the taxpayers; he has "made good" in the office and is entitled to your support at the primary.

President Wilson has signed the bill appropriating $35,000,000 for the construction of a railroad in Alaska and this marks the beginning of a new policy in the industrial life of our country, that of government ownership of public utilities: a policy which is likely to be followed until every railroad in the country will be operated by the government for the benefit of the people.

Report on Echo Project

Salem, Or., March 11—Representatives of the Paradise Irrigation District Co., near Echo, conferred with State Engineer Lewis yesterday afternoon with relation to the final approval of its plans and specifications. The company has submitted a preliminary report but it will be necessary for it to file another report before the State Engineer can reach a decision as to the approval of the project. It contains 47,000 acres and the plans call for the building of a canal 30 miles in length.

May Open Oregon Lands.

Washington, March 11—Representative Sincott has been advised by Commissioner Tamm that he has recommended the date for the opening of 60,000 acres of land eliminated from the Paulina and Deschutes National forests of Oregon, subject to the approval of Secretary Lane and President Wilson. If this approval is secured the lands will be open to entry May 3 and to entry June 8.

Alaska Bill Passed

Washington, March 10—The senate passed this afternoon the Alaska railroad bill as amended by the conference committee. The bill is now ready for President Wilson's signature. The vote on the bill stood 42 for to 27 against.

Analyzing a Raindrop.

Rain water as it leaves the clouds is pure. As it passes through the atmosphere it absorbs more or less carbonic acid gas and air, which it carries with it into the ground. As it seeps through the upper soil it will generally absorb still more carbonic acid gas from the decaying animal and vegetable matter almost always present. Should the water fall on insoluble rocks, such as granite or marble, it will remain fairly pure. But if it passes through a layer of limestone the carbonic acid gas which it carries will cause it to dissolve away this rock, and as a result bicarbonate of lime will be present in the water. Should it pass through a layer of sulphate of lime or gypsum, the water will contain a large amount of this material.

It is generally known that the bicarbonates of lime and magnesia when present in the water form a comparatively soft scale; the chlorides and nitrates are apt to cause corrosion, and the salts of soda and potash present, while not scale forming, are apt to cause foaming when sufficiently concentrated.—Power.

Sunlight and Fresh Air.

The word disinfectant has become a household term, and almost every one knows that it means something that destroys germs, though comparatively few know what our best and cheapest disinfectants are.

The most useful and efficient all round disinfectant that we have is the sun, and the air is his worthy ally. Fresh air dilutes germs as water dilutes filth, and the lustiest germ will quickly curl up its toes and die if exposed to the sunlight. But fresh air and sunlight are abundant and cheap, so of course we usually prefer to use some disinfectant that smells bad and can be bought at the drug store.

Open windows and rolled up shades would save many lives, but what do we have windows and shades for if not to keep them down? Besides, if we left them up it would let in the flies and fade the carpets, so we pamper the germs and employ the doctor.—Rural New Yorker.

The Thrifty Spirit.

It seems easier to be a deacon or elder nowadays than it was in our fathers' time. The portentious solemnity of countenance has gone out with the "blacks" that used to be essential for the duty of standing at "the plate." Only last Sunday, says a correspondent in the Glasgow News, I laid down my wife under the gaze of quite a sprightly deacon wearing a soft gray hat and a suit of light tweeds! When daddy finds at the plate a certain small boy stands it difficult to observe decorum as he passes in to worship. In fact, he shows a desire to take his parent's hand and stand at the receipt of collection too. On Sunday, as I sat waiting for the service to begin, listening to the chink of the coin in the "plate" in the vestibule, I heard a young voice uplifted in argument with a fond mamma: "But, mummy, it's daddy! He'll let us in for nothing. Can't I keep my penny for another time?"

The Dark and Bloody Ground.

Before the white man began to explore Kentucky, about the middle of the eighteenth century, the region was a vast hunting ground for many large tribes of the south, north and east, and between these tribes there was continuous conflict for the possession of the rich game privileges. Later on, when the white people settled in the territory, their struggle with the red men was more bitter and persistent than in almost any other section of the continent; hence the sanguinary name that was given to the territory, "The Dark and Bloody Ground."

The Reform He Advocated.

The editor of a British weekly journal, wishing to know what reforms well known men desired to see effected during the year, once applied to Sir W. S. Gilbert, among others. The author of "The Mikado" answered: "Dear Sir—A reform which I am particularly anxious to see carried into effect is that editors would cease to trouble busy people for gratuitous contributions."

Bankruptcy.

"Pa, what's bankruptcy?" a little boy once asked.
"And pa, who had been "bit" that week, answered bitterly:
"Bankruptcy, my son, is where you put your money in your hip pocket and let your creditors take your wallet and coat."

Whist.

An acquaintance of Talleyrand once remarked to him that he did not think it worth his while to learn the game of whist. Talleyrand's reply has been remembered until this day: "Not know whist, young man? What a dismal old age you are preparing for yourself!"

Very Restive.

The Caller—You say that your son dislikes the country and wants to go to the city. Does he seem very restive at home? Mrs. Tungtwist—Yes; he's awful restive. He ain't done nothin' but rest since he graduated from college.—Princeton Tiger.

Tale of Two Lakes.

Lake Baikal, in central Asia, and Lake Tanganyika, in central Africa, furnish similar problems for scientists, as both are fresh water, removed from oceans, yet both contain deep sea fish.

A weak mind is like a microscope, which magnifies trifling things, but cannot receive great ones.—Chesterfield.

Curious Ball Play.

A ball club in a regular game made six hits in one inning, one of them a triple, and yet not a single run crossed the plate. This terrific bombardment with froekish result was pulled off in the first inning of the game. The first man to face the pitcher smashed the ball to the corner of the lot for a triple and was thrown out at the plate trying to stretch his hit into a home run. The second batsman swatted a single and, like his predecessor, tried to make an extra base and was headed out at second. The third batsman and the fourth and fifth also singled, filling the bases. The sixth man at the plate hit the ball between first and second base, and the runner who had been on first was hit by the batted ball, retiring the side without a run scoring.—Chicago Tribune.

Her Game Blocked.

The timid looking little woman on the car noticed that her purse was not in her bag, where she had placed it. Instead it was hanging from her arm on a chain hanging in full view where it would tempt the nimble fingers of the pickpockets assigned to that beat. With great forethought she picked up the purse and started to put it in the bag. But the purse didn't go in, because it was attached to the arm of the persimmony faced woman standing next to her. Of course the woman with the bag stopped right there and dropped the stranger's purse.
"You'd better let that alone," spoke up the persimmony faced woman. "I've been watching you ever since you got on, and you needn't think I didn't see what you were trying to do."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Fresh Air.

There is throughout the civilized world an increasing knowledge of the value of sunlight and of fresh air. Benjamin Franklin in 1754 wrote: "Physicians have discovered that fresh air is beneficial to those who are ill. Perhaps in 100 years they will find it does not hurt those who are well." It has taken over the century prophesied by Franklin, but at last boards of health, bureaus of charity, trustees of schools, commissions on housing, in telligent bodies in all phases of civilization urge the need of securing all possible sunlight and fresh air.—Exchange.
