Making Montenegro.

The peasants of Montenegro have a quaint legend to account for the rock strewn appearance of their country. They will tell you that when the world was being created the Creator and the angel of creation were flying over chaos. The angel was carrying in a sack the mountains of the world when suddenly the sack burst, the rocks fell down, and that is Montenegro!

Not Strange at All.

Mrs. Wheeler's family, and the new baby were being freely discussed by their next door neighbor. "Isn't it strange they didn't name the baby after her rich uncle?" said one. "No; he looked at it and said he'd give them $15,000 not to."—Lippincott's.

Needed Airing.

"What's the matter with you?" demanded Borom-hoty. "I've got a right to air my opinions, haven't I?" "Oh, of course," replied Brightly. "They're so stale and musty they certainly need something of that sort."—Philadelphia Press.

Quite a Difference.

Ethel Jack told me that she never loved any one before. Marie Well, excuse me for saying so, dear, but he and I once were engaged. Ethel Oh I didn't ask him about engagements I only asked him about love. Boston Transcript.

The Gusher.

"What is a gusher in an oil field?" "The man who writes the prospectus," replied he who had been stung.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The advantage of riches remains with him who procured them, not with the heir.—Emerson.

The Principal's Jest. Schoolteacher—This new little boy who's crying so hard says his name is Moses. Principal—Evidently an abbreviation of inchoy-mose.—Judge.

Finality. Thomas Nelson Page, describing in Washington the devotion of the old time Virginia slave, said: "They tell a story about a certain Chandler Moulton and his servant, Tom.

"It was in the days of dueling, and young Marse Chan had reached the age when he should learn to handle a dueling pistol. Accordingly every morning old Tom would load up a pair of pistols, and crouching behind a stone wall, he would spring up suddenly, shout, 'Now, then, Marse Chan, one, two, free, fire!' and he'd bob down again before the youth could hit him.

"But Marse Chan improved rapidly. After a week's practice he could put a hole through old Tom's hat at every shot. This hugely delighted the faithful body servant.

"Keep on, Marse Chan! Keep on! he chuckled. 'And if ye kin git de hand up a little mite quicker, in another week ye'll be hittin' me in the shoulder, mahk my words!'"—New York Tribune.

How He Broke Into Literature.

Frederic Harrison was a close friend of George Eliot, and she often asked his advice in regard to points of law that came up in the course of her stories. She particularly needed legal advice in a vital part of "Felix Holt," for, conscientious worker as she was and as all really great artists are, she was not content to make a guess.

Mr Harrison listened as gravely to the presentation of her problem as if it concerned real individuals. The next day he sent her a carefully and concisely worded opinion, which she used in her book just as he wrote it. In the story it is ascribed to "the attorney general" and is referred to as "final authority."

Mr Harrison was both surprised and pleased to see his own words used. He expected that the novelist would wish to express his legal opinion in her own language. "Thanks to George Eliot," he said, with a smile, "I have written something that will live forever in English literature."

Pleasures.

The objects of pleasure are two in number. First, to kill time, and second, to keep us from doing something else which would make us more miserable. The pleasures of the American people, roughly speaking, are likewise twofold—namely, making money and spending it. Some people derive all their pleasure from making money, and others all their pleasure from spending it. Others combine the two.

Being an inventive people, the Americans have created many ways of spending money. Being too busy making it to spend any time on the drugery of running their country they spend a large portion of it in supporting the politicians. This, indeed, is one of their chief pleasures. And their sardonic sense of humor enables them to enjoy intensely the accounts of what all the politicians are doing, which enterprising papers publish from day to day.

The Americans have other pleasures, but compared with this one they are mostly trivial.—Life.

Secret of a Sign Painter.

Sign painters do not usually achieve fame, but there was one in the last century who did achieve a curiously long lived bit of work. This was the man who painted a station sign at Harpers Ferry, shortly after the completion of the railway line to that point. The sign, in possession of a western society of engineers.

"For a long time the society endeavored to ascertain who mixed the paint and applied it to the sign, which was placed in position at the Harpers Ferry station about forty years ago. Summer's heat and winter's storms in no way dimmed the luster of the paint used to make the words "Harpers Ferry." They stand out as boldly as the day they were formed by the painter's brush. The wood around the letters has been worn about a sixteenth of an inch by sand beaten against it by fierce winds, but the letters have withstood the elements. It is asserted that no paint manufactured nowadays is equal in durability to that which was applied to the old sign.

For a long time, but without success, the society tried to learn the identity of this humble artist.—Boston Post.

Bill's Terrible Condition.

There was only a thin partition between the bar parlor and the taproom of the suburban hostelry, writes "H." in the Manchester Guardian, so that I could not help hearing what was perhaps a confidence about a certain Bill's terrible condition the previous afternoon. "Well, to cut a long story short," said the voice, which was husky, probably with emotion, "I had to set 'im on a doorstep and leave 'im there. 'E must 'a' fell asleep, and 'is 'at dropped on to 'is' footpath, an', would yer believe it, when 'e woke up there was 11 pence in it!"

Bark of the Dog.

Wild dogs do not bark—that is to say, the explosive sound so familiar to us in the "bark" of our dogs is never heard from any species of wild dog. Wild dogs growl, snarl, howl, but they never give a real bark. The true bark of the domesticated dog is the result of his long association with man and of his attempt to "speak" in answer to his master's voice.—New York American.

The Verdict.

Prisoner—I didn't steal the horse, I only took him from the fellow what stole him. "Share!" I phoned that to the vigilance committee, but it's no go. They phoned me to hang up the receiver."—Life.
