HELD TO THE GRAND JURY

Harry Foster Arrested at Medford by Officer Hartman, Charged with Burglary is Committed to Jail.

Harry Foster, a stranger who had been hanging around town for several weeks, was arrested at Medford by Constable Hartman, Monday and escorted to this city where he was given a hearing before Justice Dox, Wednesday afternoon. A number of larcenies have been reported here in the last few weeks, the missing articles being mostly jewelry and Foster being suspected, a search warrant was issued and an examination of his effects revealed a number of the missing articles which were identified by owners. As result of the preliminary examination, Foster was bound over to the grand jury, his bond being fixed in the sum of $1000. Not being able to secure a bond, Foster was committed to the county jail. In the meantime, officers are investigating his career.

Prote, Expensive Steak. The highest known price ever paid for beef steak was at Circle City Alaska a town that springs up almost in the night during the Klondike gold excitement. The first steak to reach there sold for $48 a pound. It was a ten pound steak and was sent from a point fifty miles away. It was placed on exhibition and was such a curiosity that all the miners turned out in a body to see it. Of course every one wanted a piece of the precious meat, and the prices offered might have resulted in a general mining camp quarrel had not some one thought of raffling the steak for the benefit of a hospital which a bishop at Circle City. Bids started at $5 a pound and rose quickly to $35. At last, in order to avoid possible trouble, it was decided to sell tickets at prices ranging from 50 cents to $2.50 for the privilege of drawing a slice. After $480 worth of tickets had been sold the drawing began, and to the relief of those in charge of the enterprise no serious consequences resulted—Detroit Free Press.

Read Your Books Again. Let me implore any reader who has a fairly large library of his own and is honestly anxious to know what his books contain to devote some period of leisure to go through these volumes, shelf by shelf, as they stand, to learn which of them he can remember well, which are half read or unread. What pleasure and profit he would find in recalling the poetry he once so enjoyed or in turning to such essays as he had hitherto overlooked. He would find I am sure, that the very things he long wanted to know, the poetry that had almost faded from his memory, the bursts of eloquence and prophecy that had stirred his youth now crown him in his mind as "an ancient tale, although the words were strong." All this had stood silent and unnoticed on his walls for years and years, while he had been stuffing himself with the last short story, the lives of royal maundy women or it may be an article in a magazine. Frederic Harrison.

Germ and All. A Louisville woman who is somewhat of a crank on hygiene and who brings up her small daughter according to the latest methods took the child on a day train to a nearby little town. The mother sighed as she glanced at the dusty velvet seat and cloudy windows. The youngster, however, folded her maidened fingers in her white plique lap and apparently tried to absorb as little dirt as possible. Looking up from her magazine the immaculate parent was horrified to find the small daughter's jaws working violently. "What have you in your mouth?" she demanded at once. "Gum," said the girl. "Where did you get it?" gasped the mother. The child pointed to a clean round spot on the grimy window-sill. "There," she said. Louisville Times.

No Late Hours There. Guest—What possessed you to move away off here to the extreme edge of the city? Host—The trolley cars stop running at 10 p. m. "What of that?" "Wait till you see my pretty daughter."—New York Weekly. Skeptical. Not one man in a thousand who rolls down to the bottom of the hill can make the world believe he did it for exercise.—Atlanta Constitution.

LIKE all red-blooded men, you have a natural desire for stimulants. I'm fifty-five years young and all my life I've drunk beer—temperately. That fact is largely responsible for my present rugged constitution. I want you to pattern after me. Walk into a beer saloon whenever you feel the need of a mild stimulant and get your glass of beer. It's the drink of real temperance. Those people you meet up with in life who tell you total abstinence is Temperance are deceiving themselves. They're the kind that close the decent tax-paying saloons and foster the speak-easy and blind pig. Steer clear of those dives, my boy, and you'll never cultivate an appetite for strong drinks. You've got a perfect right to drink beer moderately, but do it above-board, son—in the beer saloon, where decent men are ashamed to drink to excess. I won't fear the caliber of the companions you meet there. —Advertisement
