

An Artist's Impromptu Solo.
 Pierre Garat, the singer and ex-quisite of Napoleonic France, was not merely a glass of fashion and a wonder-ful, self-instructed singer, but an artist devoted to his art. "But is the following," asks Bernard Mail in his biography, "an example of sincerity in art or of love of attracting attention?"
 Coupligny had supplied him with a "romance" to be set to music. When- ever the two met Garat replied, "I have not hit upon an idea as yet." One day Coupligny was walking down the Rue Neuve des Petits Champs. Hearing a sound of some one running up behind him, he turned. It was Garat, who seized him by the arm, dragged him up the stairs of a neigh- boring house and, halting on the first landing, exclaimed, "I've got it!" At once he began to sing the romance through at the top of his voice. The inhabitants of the house began to open their doors, heads were projected over the banisters, finally they began to approach. But Garat, having finished, tore down the stairs like a monkey, dragging the bewildered poet with him.

Thrive Without Sunshine.
 The doctrine that sunshine is neces- sarily helpful and beneficial to the health is not always true. The Turk- ish men and women upset this theory completely. Across every window in a Turkish home are lattices to keep out curiosity and sunlight. The Turkish women get as little sunlight outside of their homes as they do inside.
 At the age of twelve the Moslem woman takes the veil and she is never seen without it. The only chance she gets to let the wind blow on her face is when she is seated in the court- yard and within the walls of her own home.
 In spite of the fact that the men and women get so little exercise and fresh air they are strapping big and hardy people. Few Americans can match them in physique or powers of en- durance.—St. Louis Republic.

Horses on the Simplon Pass.
 The horses of the Simplon post diligence—the coach which carries mail and passengers to the villages on the Simplon pass between Italy and Swit- zerland—are particularly well cared for. The road to the top is a steady pull of fifteen miles over a macadam- ized track. The horses are driven at a fast walk. Five miles up they are watered. At the ten mile station they are fed about a peck of black bread (rye or barley) cut into mouthfuls; this makes a light lunch, sustaining but not as difficult of digestion as oats. At the top of the pass, at noon, the horses are given an hour and a half to rest and are well fed and watered. The return trip of fifteen miles is made with a brake on the wheels most of the way, so that the horses trot freely and without the strain of holding back.—Our Dumb Animals.

Knitting.
 Knitting is a Scotch invention of the fifteenth century. Soon after its inven- tion a guild of stocking knitters was formed, with St. Flaccus as its patron saint. Hand knitting was supplement- ed by machinery as early as 1589, when William Lee invented the knitting machine.
