FOR SALE—TIMBER LAND.—I have for sale at a bargain, four tracts of timber, totalling 600 acres, all in the same region, for sale at a bargain if taken at once. Land is located in Douglas county and is worth double the price asked. Apply to D. W. Bagshaw, Jacksonville, Oregon. Wm. Hanley of Harney county who ran for U. S. Senator on the Bull Moose ticket at the last election, was held to be in contempt of court at Portland, Monday on account of violations of a former court order limiting his right to erect dams and use water of the Silves river in Harney county. A school meeting will likely be called soon to vote on the question whether sanitary closets, lavatories, etc. shall be installed at the public school house. As the contemplated improvement will cost some eight or nine hundred dollars the directors prefer that an expression of the wishes of the taxpayers be had. The proposed improvement is necessary and there is no good reason why it should not receive the support of a majority of the school voters. Many of our voters have installed sanitary toilet fixtures in their homes and why deny like conveniences to the children at school?

It is reported that commissioners Loeber and Madden had agreed to abandon the route they had decided on for the Pacific Highway between Central Point and Tolo, and will agree to building the road on the route advocated by Judge TouVelle, Engineer Cantine and others, thus eliminating several railroad crossings and five or six short curves. Mr. Mahoney gave a social dance in Orth's hall, Friday night. The music was furnished by the "Jacksonville Orchestra," an organization composed of young men of the town who have been under the instruction of Mrs. Mahoney for the past several months. This was the first appearance of the orchestra in public and it is said the boys acquitted themselves very creditably. The performers last night were: piano, Mrs. Mahoney; violin, Will Ensele; clarinet, Jim Francis; cornet, Dave Cronmiller; trombone, Dan Bagshaw and drums, Norman Cronmiller. Mrs. Mahoney is entitled to much credit for the interest she has manifested in these boys and for her patient labor in their instruction.

The true philosopher makes a considerable do over his love of and his search for knowledge. But if he is a truly wise philosopher and if he values his reputation he will stop safely short of ever acquiring exact information. Exact information is fatal to the philosophical temperament. A philosopher is a man who can make solemn and profound remarks about any matter whatsoever without knowing anything about it. As soon as he learns something about a matter he is to that extent excluded from philosophizing about it. He is no longer a pure philosopher; he is now part scientist. This explains why there are so few prominent and prosperous philosophers these days. With the vast development of our means of communication, the multiplication of books and newspapers and the obstinateness of reformers, it is almost impossible to get through the world without picking up a great deal of correct information, and consequently it is well nigh impossible to be a philosopher.—Life. That "Dead Man's Chest." The rendering of the first line of Stevenson's immortal song as "Fifteen men on a dead man's chest" spoils the significance of the phrase, writes a correspondent. License is permitted to poets, but no fifteen men could ever find room on the chest of any man, dead or alive, unless they were Lilliputians on the top of a Gulliver. The actual phrase is "The Dead Man's Chest," which is the name of one of the Virgin Islands, lying to the east of Porto Rico. It is said that when Columbus discovered the group he named them after St. Ursula and some of her mythical virgins, but the English buccanniers christened them in honor of famous men, such as "Dutchman's Cap," "Broken Jerusalem," "Rum Island" and "The Dead Man's Chest." Kingsley refers to the matter in the first volume of "At Last," and Stevenson acknowledged, in his account of "Treasure Island," that he had lifted the phrase from the older novelist's pages.—Manchester Guardian. How to Sharpen Your Knives. In the Woman's Home Companion a contributor gives boys the following advice as to how to keep their knives sharpened: "Few boys who undertake to sharpen a knife have any great difficulty in getting a sufficiently keen edge. It is in keeping this edge that the trouble arises. This is due to holding the knife blade too flat when sharpening. By holding the knife blade very flat a sharp edge can be readily produced, but is so very thin that it is easily broken and the blade is marred by jagged nicks. "The men who are employed in factories to sharpen the best grade of knives hold the blade at an angle of about 45 degrees and really sharpen only the cutting edge itself. This method leaves the blade behind the immediate point of contact sufficiently thick and strong to stand any ordinary usage."

Protest of Austria to Munitions is Made Independently.

Washington, July 15—Austria's diplomatic representations that American exports of war munitions to the allies have attained dimensions endangering the neutrality of the United States have been under consideration at the state department since July 1, but the reply has not yet been determined. The Austrian note delivered to Ambassador Penfield on June 29 is substantially reported, however, in last night's news dispatches from Vienna via Amsterdam and London. The Austrian note contends that war exports as "a proceeding of the present war are not in consonance with the definition of neutrality." It adds that it would be quite sufficient to advise the enemies of Austria-Hungary and Germany that supply of foodstuffs and war materials would be suspended if legitimate trade in these articles between Americans and neutral countries was not permitted. German officials have recently declared the United States fully within its rights as a neutral in selling war exports to the allies. State department officials do not regard the Austrian communication in the nature of a protest and are not yet certain that it requires an answer. Nothing was made public here about the communication, officials said, because of its origination in Austria. They regarded it as apparently one emanating solely the Vienna foreign offices without collaboration with Berlin.

Bell to Cover 8400 Miles

This trip of the Liberty Bell will cover 8400 miles. The farthest west the bell had been previously was to St. Louis, in 1904, when over diverse routes it traveled about 2000 miles. The first of the patriotic pilgrimages made by the bell was in 1885 when it was taken from Philadelphia to the World's Industrial Cotton exposition at New Orleans. Next it was taken to the World's Columbian exposition at Chicago in 1893; to Atlanta in 1895; to Charleston in 1902; to Boston in 1903, in celebration of the 125th anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill, and in 1904 to the exposition at St. Louis.
