

An Artist's Criticism.
Falgulere, the sculptor, told a capital story of Henner, the great artist, who although he lived in Paris all his life, never lost his Alsatian peasant accent or his country manners. But Henner was a very keen critic and had a clever way of showing his dislike of wordy enthusiasm. Falgulere, whose talent as a sculptor is known all the world over, was very fond of painting, but he did not paint particularly well. One day Henner was in his studio, and Falgulere showed him some of his pictures.
"What do you think of this one?" asked Falgulere.
"Superb!" said Henner, with his Alsatian accent. "Marfalous!"
"And this one?"
"Broditchous!"
"And this one?"
"Suplime!"
Then the old man picked up a little bust which his friend had just finished. "Ah!" he said. "Now, that's good!"
"I never painted after that," said Falgulere.

Wellington's Coolness.
The Duke of Wellington was one day sitting at his library table when the door opened and without any announcement in stalked a figure of singularly ill omen.
"Who are you?" asked the duke in his short and dry manner, looking up without the slightest change of countenance upon the intruder.
"I am Apollyon. I am sent here to kill you."
"Kill me? Very odd."
"I am Apollyon and must put you to death."
"Bliged to do it today?"
"I am not told the day or the hour, but I must do my mission."
"Very inconvenient; very busy; great many letters to write. Call again or write me word. I'll be ready for you."
The duke then went on with his correspondence. The man, appalled probably by the stern, immovable old gentleman, backed out of the room and in half an hour was in an asylum.

Story of a Bunch of Keys.
After Mary, queen of Scots, had succeeded in effecting her escape from the grim old fortress of Lochleven her deliverer, William Douglas, threw the keys which had brought her free down into the waters of the lake. There they lay till the parching summer of 1595, when a boy named William Honeyman, while strolling on its banks, picked up a bunch of five keys of antique workmanship fastened by an iron ring. These the boy carried to the parish schoolmaster, who forwarded them to the Earl of Morton, hereditary keeper of Lochleven castle, near Edinburgh, where they still remain. They are without doubt the old keys which William Douglas threw into the loch on the eventful night when the queen escaped, only to be taken again and consigned to life long captivity.

Trick of the Lemon Growers.
By an interesting yet simple method two crops of lemons are obtained in Sicily during the year, though the second is in every way inferior. The abnormal fact is known as the Verdelli lemon. It is marketed during the summer months. The Verdelli lemon, green in color, grows contemporaneously on the same trees with the ordinary or yellow lemon of commerce and is obtained by the following method: The lemon tree, which flowers in April, is kept without water from that period until July, when the roots are heavily flooded for a time. This results in a second set of blossoms, from which will come the Verdelli lemons. The ordinary lemon crop is picked in the month of December with October, but the Verdelli lemons do not mature until the next May.—Argonaut.

How He "Looked."
Two young men were standing in a hotel when they had gone to use the free coin and the free brush. One of them seemed to think he looked rather ugly. He had on a new suit of clothes and he turned and twisted as he admired himself in the glass. Finally he could not resist the temptation to hear the spoken word of commendation.
"How do you think I look?" he asked his companion.
The other looked at him and sniffed. "You look like an accident going out somewhere to happen," was his retort.—Indianapolis News.

Barcelona's Leather.
In the Barcelona district of Spain alone there are from 10,000 to 12,000 tanned and finished sheepskins produced daily and probably as many goatskins. The sheepskins in particular find their way into the shoe trade as well as the goatskins. Both kinds, converted into morocco leather, the goatskin being the genuine article and the sheepskin the imitation, are used extensively in the bootbinding trade.

Big Bells.
The world's greatest bells include the king of bells, Moscow, weight, 443,732 pounds; St. Ivan's, Moscow, 127,830; Peking, 120,000; Vienna, 40,200; St. Paul's, London, 38,470; "Big Ben," Westminster, 30,354; Montreal, 28,500, and St. Peter's, Rome, 18,000.
