Portugal Has New President

Lisbon, Portugal, Oct. 6, 5 a. m. via Paris, 11:15 a. m.—Dr. Bernardino Machado took the oath as president of the republic today, succeeding Theophile Braga.

In an address Dr. Machado pledged administration to devote itself to internal and external defense. He assumed office on the fifth anniversary of the proclamation of the republic.

Canal Closed Until Nov. 1

Washington, Oct. 4.—The Panama canal probably will not be reopened until traffic there to November 1, according to cable advices to the war department. Earth slides from the crest of the Gole Hill, which began Sept. 26, have continued steadily despite efforts to keep the canal open with dredges.

Jackson county has brought suit against Fred L. Colvig, ex-county recorder, to recover about $800, which it is alleged that Mr. Colvig received from making copies of the records for private parties and which he failed to turn over to the county. It is said that Mr. Colvig admitted receiving the money, but contends that it belonged to him as the maker of these copies were no part of his official duty and that the question of compensation therefore was simply a matter between himself and the parties for whom they were made.

THE POSSUM PARTY

By M. QUAD

[Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.]

Last month the following colored gentlemen and politicians met at Paradise hall in response to a circular letter from Brother Gardner:

Judge Persimmon Longbody of Tennessee, who held the office of constable once for thirty days and knows how good it is.

Colonel Cabiff Rocky of Kentucky, who sweeps out the postoffice in Louisville, but had far rather be postmaster.

Brassbound Johnson of Maryland, who has led his cohorts against many a melon patch and will again, by thunder!

Major Blaker of Ohio, who says that taking a chicken off the roost without a squawk is an art.

Several other delegates were to be on hand, but the constable rallied in force and drove them back.

Brother Gardner stated that the meeting was for the purpose of putting a presidential ticket in the field at an early date and the party would be called "the Possum party." The matter was thoroughly discussed and settled, and there was an adjournment to a later date.

There was a mighty gathering at Paradise hall Saturday evening, and, acting on the suggestion of Brother Gardner, about fifty members had brought their wives with them. It had been announced on the bulletin board that the Hon. Crabtree Jones of Alabama would deliver a political speech, and the audience was ready to give him an enthusiastic greeting. He appeared promptly at the hour named and was introduced by the president amid vociferous applause.

"Respectable fellow citizens," began the orator as he got his feet planted on the proper spot, "two weeks ago dar was a-bornin' in dis famous hall which has made talk for 10,000,000 people. It was de bornin' of a new political party.

"My fren's, I had bin waitin' thirty y'ars fur de dawn of freedom. I hev bin waitin' thirty y'ars fur de birth of de Possum party.

"Frenen of free land, patriots who ar' takin' yo'r rust breath of liberty I'm lookin' at dat stiff possum which we have adopted as our sacred emblem an' arter which we hev taken our name. [Tyrphonic yells.] Dar has eb in a bond of sympathy between de cull' bian an' de possum. Dey haven't had a show wid de biz game. Dey has had to keep still till folks look ed upon 'em as dead. [Sings of brooms and repressed ambition.] However it's gwine to astound a hull continent de way dat possum will let go an' deep down into de row an' demand a fight fur his sheer of de spiles. [Whirl winds of applause, during which the stove fell over whined.]

"Yo' jest git out yo'r penells an' flagey a minit. Dere's ober 3,000,000 black men in dis kentry who an' entitled to walk to de polls on 'e lshun day an' cast a vote. If dey bin lishun gether yo' can't count 'em out nor keep 'em back. Dem 3,000,000 votes an' gwine to be cast for principle, but don't make no mistake 'bout principle. We want to think dat it meant votin on sartin' lines an' dat George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, de constant stars of de United States an' sober older thins was mixed up wid it. an' we walked up an' put in our votes as if each an' every one was gwine to save de honary. But we farned it from de white man. [Yells of 'Yo' hev we hev!'] We hev farned dat he sot out on a political campaign wid a cartload of principles to giv away free credit an' punctuate his speech, but when de ballots an' counted up he lay-down his principles to pick up his of 'er."

"We an' gwine to take a flyleaf from de white man's book. We'll stick to 'em till dey will look out fur de spiles as well."

"My fren's daylight has cum at last fur us. We's got our binicles packed an' hev started on de road. We's got headed right an' west only to keep on to find de best tree an' be on hand when de honey an' diviled up. [Yells for honey.] Keep yo'r eye on de possum an' yo'r hands in yo'r heads an' yo'll win a victory dat Bunker Hill couldn't hold a candle to. [General hoarsest, but prodigious applause.] I want a word mo' befo' I close. Dis an' to be a plain, ainest campaign on one part. We ain't gwine to say much, but what we do say will hit de barn door like a load of buckshot. Doan't git de idea dat biz words an' gwine to help yo' wh' what belongs to yo'. Befo' dis meetin' observed tonight I heard Waydown Delee opine dat de malignant intendo of de torrid affluashun would intendo de generality of de pomposity. He probably meant well, an' maybe his observation has helped us to get started, but I hope he won't do it ag'in. Doan nobody do it. Dis an' no dictionary campaign. [No, no!] It will be plain puddin' an' milk at home an' plain English when yo' an' walkin' up and down wid a possum badge on yo'r breast an' a flag of liberty in yo'r hand. Nuffin counts quicker nor hard er dan to call a man a liar, an' de longuleze an' so simple dat a child kin understand it. I will now return yo' my thanks an' bow my gratitude fur de welcome handed out to me."

The orator sat down amid applause that broke windows and put out lights, and it was continued until the police came up the alley stairs and dropped three women and four men down upon the sand pile below. The Possum party may be said to have got hold of its nursing bottle with a good grip.

The Entrance Hall.
In planning for the entrance hall, an aim for plenty of light. Have at least one window of ample size. Do not depend upon the light admitted through a small pane of glass placed in the top of an ugly so-called "partition" door. The entrance hall may be made a very important factor in carrying out the general character of the home, and it needs the light equality with any other room in the house. Another mistake often made is in depriving the entrance of heat. Certainly the impression conveyed by a cold entrance hall in winter is not a pleasing one and does not suggest the spirit of rest that we have laid so much stress upon. Not only this, but in winter weather cold drafts of air are certain to enter the room through the opening of doors and through the cracks around the door. It will mean much to the comfort of the living rooms if this air has the chill removed from it before entering the general circulation.—Good Health.

When Jackson Dined.
When Colonel Invy Crockett was a member of congress and was at his home in Tennessee some one asked him about the dinner hour in Washington. He said the common people ate dinner at 12 the next above them at 1, the merchants at 2, the representatives at 3, the senators at 4, members of the cabinet at 5 and the vice-president at 6.
"What? Old Hickory?" said Crockett, anxious to fix a time that would suit his idea of Jackson's greatness. "Well, he doesn't eat till next day!"

Dumas' Last Jest.
Dumas the elder was the son of a general of Napoleon Bonaparte, who would take his soldiers by the breeches and fling them over the parapets to an assault.
Dumas inherited much of that same spirit. It is said that Dumas left Paris for the last time taking with him a single gold piece, which he solemnly laid on the mantelpiece of his room at Pnyx. Toward the end his eye wandered across the sickroom to this coin, and, pointing to it, he said to his son:
"See there! Fifty years ago when I came to Paris I had one lonk in my possession. Why am I accused of being a prodigal? I have preserved and possess it still. See! There it is!"
This was Dumas' last jest.

Serfdom.
Serfdom was abolished in Russia in 1861, in England in 1026, in France not wholly until the French revolution, in Prussia in 1762, in the rest of Germany 1781, in Denmark 1793 and in Brazil 1867-88. There is now practically no legalized serfdom anywhere on earth.

An Exception.
"No man would approve of the recall as applied to himself."
"Oh, yes; an actor would!"—Baltimore American.

Portable Hospitality.
"When I landed I took the car for a hotel."
"What a singular mistake!"—Boston Transcript.

Thought and action are inseparable. As is the thought, so is the life.
