The case of Joe Johnston, charged with robbing Antone Rose of this city on the night of September 30th; was heard in the circuit court Thursday, Prosecuting Attorney Kelly representing the State and Geo. W. Cherry of Medford appearing for Johnston. The evidence for the State consisted in Mr. Rose's account of the holdup which he related in a very positive manner. The attorney for the defense made a number of attempts to impeach this witness but not being very well versed in the rules of evidence did not succeed to any great extent. The accounts of the holdup as told to different persons by Mr. Rose on the morning following the occurrence were given in court by Mike Broad, J M. Williams, Frank Tungate, J. M. Rock, Sheriff Singler and others and varied somewhat from the story told on the stand by Mr. Rose, particularly in regard to whether the robber's face was masked or not. The whole forenoon was taken up with the trial and the end was not in sight, but upon the opening of court after the noon recess, Mr. Kelly surprised the spectators by arising and in a neat address asked the court to take the case from the jury and dismiss it for lack of evidence to convict, at the same time stating that he (Kelly) did not believe that the jury would find the prisoner guilty and that he himself had grave doubts of his guilt. No objections were made by the defense and the Court in a few well chosen remarks dismissed the case.

Aged Pioneer Takes Own Life

Seattle, Oash., Oct. 26—Judge Thomas H. Cann, 82 years old, widely known as a pioneer successfully of California, Idaho, Oregon and Washington, was found dead 200 feet from his home last night. Two letters indicating that he had been despondent because of ill-health and a bottle of poison were found by his side.

Judge Cann was born at Bellville, Ill., and crossed the plains to California id 1854. He engaged in mining and served as sheriff of Siskiyou county. He next moved to Idaho and then to Portland, Or., where he took up the study of law in 1864. While in Oregon he served on the board of land commissioners and also as assistant secretary of state. Thirty-five years ago he came to Seattle and served as police judge of Seattle during the Klondike and Nome gold rushes, occupying that position for ten years.

All Measures are Defeated

San Francisco, Oct. 27—The resumption today of the compiletion of returns of the election held throughout the state yesterday offered no hope to the advocates of nonpartisanship in the election of all state officers. The additional returns that came in made no change in the general result. The two propositions placed before the voters of California by referendum were overwhelmingly rejected. And with them there went down to defeat the nine initiative propositions.
