Notice for Publication.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, U. S. Land Office at Roseburg, Oregon, December 31, 1915.

Notice is hereby given that Lynn Rumley of Jacksonville, Oregon, who, on October 29, 1912, made Homestead entry serial, No. 98403, for Lots 3, 4, SE 1/4 SW 1/4, E 1/2 SW 1/4 SW 1/4, SW 1/4 SW 1/4 SW 1/4, Section 12, Township 34 S., Range 3 West, Willamette Meridian, has filed notice of intention to make final five year Proof, to establish claim to the land above described, before W. H. Canon, U. S. Commissioner, at his office, at Medford, Oregon, on the 16th day of February, 1916.

Claimant names as witnesses: James Buckley, of Ruch, Oregon; Daniel Pearce, of Jacksonville, Oregon; Wesley R. Sparks, of Jacksonville, Oregon.

J. M. UPTON, Register.

Life in New York.

In consulting on the "spenders" of the Great White Way a writer in the American Magazine asks if the improvident habits of the average metropolitan are due to a shorter life.

"The answer on the corner told my wife that he didn't try to save anything because 'we all die before we are sixty, anyway.' ... What's the use? he said. 'You never see many old people around. I won't live to be old, and neither will you.'"

"That last statement stuck in my mind. It is a fact that in the streets of New York you see few people past sixty. The actual dangers connected with street traffic must keep the old fellows to a certain extent, or else it drives them away to the little towns. Anyway, I am sure you see a smaller proportion of old people in great cities than you see in small towns.

"Does this fact influence a good many, like the grocer, to spend all and to save nothing because of an unconsciously formed opinion that almost everybody works along and dies in the harness before sixty? Is this one reason why city people are more improvident and extravagant than country people?"

Changed His Mind.

When Charles B. Towns, author of "Habit That Handicap," first began his practice in curing drug victims he had great difficulty in securing patients in order to prove the efficacy of his cure. His claim to have discovered a cure for drugs was reverberating through the New York underworld, but, though speculation was lively, volunteers were thin. Finally, not knowing what else to do, Towns actually kidnapped a race track tout and put him through the treatment against his will. "When I got out of here and tell the boys what you've been doing to me," threatened the tout, "your life won't be worth 20 cents. They'll croak you in a minute." But five days later the tout told his friends quite another story. He sent not run men to kill, but confidence men to be healed, four of them. Towns had squared himself with the underworld as much by his courage as by his skill.

To Erect a Tent in the Rain.

Instead of using a new ridge tent, should be set in a line with a pole between two trees or supported on forked sticks, and the ropes along the ridge should be tied to this pole, says All Outdoors. If the tent has no ropes run the pole through the tent from end to end, and support it at each extremity with a forked pole. Better still are two forked poles at each end, the hot tops of which are spread far apart. When the tent is set it can be tightened by drawing the bottom edge together and thus raising the ridge. Poles spread apart in this way also add much to the stability of the tent in a wind. While this one method requires five poles instead of three, it is by far the best way to erect an A tent. It will be difficult to drive stakes in winter, but logs, to which the ropes may be tied, will serve nearly as well.
