Why not have a general "cleanup day" to gather up the old tin cans and other rubbish which has accumulated during the winter? A few hours work for each householder and a day or two with a team would make the city look like a new place. Then there are a few old, unsightly board fences which would be better torn down and burned up. How about it?
The Mail-Tribune speaking of the telephone hearing Wednesday says that the company "presented a largely signed petition to this effect." As a matter of fact the petition referred to contained 39 signatures of Medford people, out of a total of 1893 phones, less than 2 per cent and many of these signed under a misleading impression that if the toll charges were not allowed the service between the two towns would be discontinued.
At a meeting of Medford's city council held Tuesday night the city attorney and a committee of lawyers were instructed to take up the Bullis proposition for extending the railroad to the Blue Ledge mines, and prepare the necessary papers for the submission to the voters of Medford the question of a bond issue of $300,000 for the purchase of the present line and its extension for 15 miles as set out in Mr. Bullis' proposal. Notice Of Sheriff's Sale Under Execution.

John K. Hoppin Plaintiff
-vs-
J. K. Johnson, Mary S. Johnson, George A. Hoover, et al. Defendants.
By virtue of an Execution and an Order of sale duly issued out of the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon and for the County of Jackson to me directed and dated the 4th day of April 1916, in a certain suit therein wherein the Plaintiff above named recovered a judgment against the defendants George A. Hoover and Louise W. Hoover, J. K. Johnson and Mary S. Johnson, for the sum of Seven Thousand Five Hundred ($7500.00) Dollars with interest thereon from 1st day of May 1915, at the rate of 8 per cent per annum and $750.00 attorney's fee, and the further sum of $13.00 costs, which judgment was entered and docketed in the Clerk's office of said Court in said County on the 29th day of March, 1916, and is of record in Volume 24 of the Circuit Court Journal at page 170 thereof.
PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that I will on Monday the 8th day of May, 1916, at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M. at the front door of the Court house in Jacksonville, Jackson County, State of Oregon, offer for sale and will sell all of the right title and interest that the defendants had on the date of the mortgage herein foreclosed or have since acquired or now have in and to the following described real property situated in Jackson County Oregon, to-wit:
Beginning at the center of section seven (7) in Township Thirty-eight (38) South of Range One (1) West of W. M. and running thence East on the center line of said section, six hundred and forty one and 5/10 feet, for a point of beginning, and from said point of beginning running thence east along said center line of said section seventeen, nine hundred eighty-six and 5/10 feet, thence South thirteen hundred and Twenty nine feet; thence North 89 degrees and 40 minutes West, nine Hundred Eighty six and 5/10 feet; thence North thirteen hundred twenty one and 25/100 feet, more or less, to the place of beginning, containing thirty acres; together with the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereto belonging.
All of the above described real property will be sold at said time and place in the manner provided by law for the sale of real property under execution, to satisfy the judgment, attorney's fees, costs and accruing costs of sale.
Dated this 5th day of April, 1916.
W. H. SINGLER, Sheriff,
By E. W. WILSON, Deputy.

The Power of Song
By F. A. MITCHELL

There was a girl of one of those states which now compose the Balkans whose ambition was to emulate men in athletics. Expert in throwing the discus, she won contests against those who were champions in this game. She was the best chariot driver in the kingdom and had won many races. But her most remarkable feats were in running. In this no one was found to beat her.
So proud was she of her swiftness on her legs that she made a vow she would marry no man who could not beat her on the slender path. Having many suitors, this only added to the rivalry among them. But since an ability to run fast does not argue that a man is otherwise attractive, those whose muscular development warranted their entering the list were not likely to win the girl even if they won the race. Several fleet runners came so near beating her that if she had chosen she might have thrown the race without appearing to do so.
One day a young man came to the village where this girl, Eudoxia, lived and announced that he would enter the list against her, only he made the provision that should he win the race she must marry him. He sent a challenge, and Eudoxia dispatched her brother to look the man over and report to her whether he would likely outrun her. The brother returned and reported that, while the challenger was shapely, he was not muscular, and his physique did not warrant the inference that he could beat an ordinary runner.
The slight risk of being beaten by one whom she would be pledged to marry and yet might dislike tempted Eudoxia to consent to the terms. So an agreement was drawn up between her and the stranger, who called himself Boris, to race, and if he beat her she was to marry him. This agreement was signed by Eudoxia without having seen her suitor.
The race was to take place on a track in the form of an ellipse, the length being half a mile and there being seven laps. A large concourse of people were gathered to see the race. The stranger stepped forth in a pair of short running pants such as are worn at the present day. One thing about him was noticeable—his manly beauty. It was evident that he was not built for feetness. But what astonished every one was that he held in his hand a harp. Eudoxia was attired in the same fashion, with the addition of a shift falling only to the thighs.
When the two confronted each other it was noticed that the stranger's manly beauty, which all agreed rivaled the statues of Apollo, made a marked impression on Eudoxia. When she saw the harp in his hand she was surprised, and when he did not lay it aside before taking his position for the race she wondered.
The signal was given. Eudoxia started off so fast that she did not know that Boris was walking slowly. She heard behind her sounds from the strings of the harp, soothing rather than inspiring. When she had made three-quarters of the first lap there, directly opposite her at the other end of the minor axis of the elliptic course, was Boris, walking and striking his harp. Then he began to sing.
Eudoxia, who had nothing to fear from such a tortoise, stopped to listen. Boris was singing her praises, the love he felt for her, pleading that she would not turn a deaf ear to him. She listened till he had gone out of hearing, and then she proceeded to the other end of the minor axis and waited till he had come around to the point where she had been listening to his song.
It seemed that in the meanwhile it had grown sweeter. He was walking very slowly, putting all his feeling into it. Again Eudoxia went on till she reached the point at which he had been singing, while he proceeded till he took her place. Here both stood still, the man singing of the beauty and the virtues of the peerless Eudoxia, she seeming to be spellbound. Then he went on singing, "Wait for me, fair one," repeating the words again and again till he came around to where she stood, and the two walked side by side.
In this way they proceeded, the girl rapt in the song, till they came within a few yards of the goal, when Boris, still singing, turned and walked backward, keeping his eyes fixed on Eudoxia, till he passed over the goal.
Then the spectators, who had appeared to be enthralled as well as the girl, drew a long breath and burst into a cheer.
And so Eudoxia was won, not by fleetness, but by the power of song. As soon as he had won the race Boris announced himself to be the son of a powerful noble of what is now Montenegro, and, without holding Eudoxia to her contract, appeared himself as a suitor for her hand, which, after a period of maidenly reserve, she gave him.
Many of the people who were not cognizant of what passed after the winning of the race believed that the stranger was Apollo, who had come down from heaven to win an earthly bride.
After the wedding Boris and his wife disappeared and when they reached his home were received with as much interest as had attended the race. For Boris had been in Greece and, hearing of the girl who must be won in a foot race, had stopped on his way back to see her. He resolved to win her by making love to her in song.

PLUG CHEWING A WHOLESOME HABIT

In No Other Way Can You Get All the Richness and Flavor of the Leaf

"SPEAR HEAD" BEST CHEW
Many prominent physicians declare chewing to be the most wholesome way of enjoying tobacco.
"I began chewing some years ago," said one, "and I soon found that it is the only way to get the benefit of all the rich juices stored up by nature in the tobacco leaf. I refer, of course, to the plug form of tobacco, which is the most natural and the cleanest form."
"Chewing good tobacco like Spear Head makes the salivary glands more active, which in turn has a beneficial effect on the whole system. Add to this the sweet, mellow, delicious flavor of a chew of Spear Head, and you have the highest possible degree of tobacco satisfaction."
"I mention Spear Head because I have found that this brand is exceptionally pure, being made in a factory that's run strictly according to pure-food rules."
Spear Head is made of sun-ripened Burley, which is acknowledged to be the richest, mildest, finest flavored tobacco leaf in the world. And it is produced by the latest processes, which develop the quality and luscious flavor of the choice Burley to the supreme degree.
A chew of Spear Head has a wholesome relish that is not found in any other chewing tobacco. In 10c cuts, wrapped in wax paper.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly. No Other Newspaper in the World Gives so Much at so Low a Price.

There has never been a time when a newspaper was more needed in the household. The great war in Europe has now entered its second year, with no promise of an end for a long time. These are world shaking events, in which the United States, willing or unwilling, has been compelled to take a part. No intelligent person can ignore such issues.
The Presidential contest also will soon be at hand. Already candidates for the nomination are in the field, and the campaign, owing to the extraordinary character of the times, will be of supreme interest. No other newspaper will inform you with the promptness and cheapness of the Thrice-A-Week edition of the New York World.
THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and together for one year for $2.00 cash only.
The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.50.
