The home team was picked up for the occasion, most of last year's players being away from home at work. The Table Rock boys are husky lads and with a little more practice will be hard to beat.
Medford newspapers are digging into County Clerk Gardner on account of his attempt to obey the law regulating the registration of voters. The fault if any there is, is in the law itself and not in the county clerk. The parties cited as "voters disenfranchised by Clerk Gardner," have submitted no evidence to show that they had ever registered as "fully naturalized citizens" as required by law. The clerk had no discretion in the matter: if the voter can show former registration in conformity with the requirements of the Act, he is entitled to register otherwise not.
I was born and raised on the farm in the state of Iowa, and have had a great deal of experience in land values. In 1886 I took up Contracting, Building and Architectural Drawing, and followed this business for 29 years; this qualifies me for taking the values of Farm Improvements and also of Town and City property. In 1907, I came west and settled on a ranch near Jacksonville. I have very thoroughly studied the different soil formations of the county. Being familiar with all kinds of lumber, I am competent to pass on timber values. I am not a politician, but I came out for a Square Deal for all taxpayers. George Leunspach. (Paid Adv.)
The county court is arranging to spread the so called "bucksnot gravel" on the road between this city and Medford. This will be another case of money wasted for nothing, the gravel will last about as long as a snowball in hades. Why not pave this road at once instead of these makeshifts? This road is travelled by more taxpayers of Jackson county than any road of like length in the county. Why not make it one of the best? We spent $500,000 to build a road upon which dudes (called tourists) can slide through the county so fast that even a "speed cop" can scarcely catch them, while the road connecting that road with the county seat is full of holes that make an auto pitch and roll like a ship in a gale at sea. Give the taxpayers and people of the county at least an even break with the outsider who pays no taxes and very seldom spends a dollar in the county.

COUNCIL MEETING
Adjourned Session Held Friday Night.
An adjourned meeting of the city council was held Friday night. Present—Mayor Britt, Councilmen Bagshaw, Florey, Hartman and Neil, Recorder Stansell.
The referendum petitions heretofore filed were called for when it appeared that as no petitions for amending the charter had been filed, the parties who were agitating the referendum matters did not desire to proceed further, the petitions were withdrawn.
The Ordinance regulating transportation and storage of explosives within the city was passed its final reading. Bill of John Lyden for bed and springs and bill of M. E. Abbott for supplies for water superintendent were presented and ordered paid.
An order segregating some $900. now erroneously in general fund, for redemption of warrants called under refunding ordinance, was made. Ordinance fixing bond of treasurer at $6000 and providing for payment of premium by city was introduced and under suspension of the rules, passed. An ordinance fixing bond of sexton at $100, and providing compensation of sexton was introduced and under suspension of rules passed final reading.
A motion was made, seconded and adopted that city recorder be placed on a flat salary of $15.00 per month in lieu of the fees heretofore paid for his services and recorder was instructed to prepare ordinance to that effect.

Ashland People Vote Against Bond Issue

Ashland, Or., April 12—The people of Ashland rejected the proposition to issue refunding bonds by a majority of over ten to one at a special election held yesterday. The council proposed to issue $41,000 in refunding bonds, to be sold to the Lumbermens Trust company, of Portland, after receiving an agreement from the trust company to take the bonds at 5 per cent interest. The city is now paying 6 per cent. Lack of sufficient information on the issue, it is claimed, caused the people to vote down the bond issue. Only about one fifth of the citizens voted.

Roseburg to Vote Upon Railroad Bonds.

Roseburg, Or., April 12—The city council today decided to call a special election next month on a date to be set later, when a vote of the people will be taken on a proposed charter amendment to authorize a bond issue of $300,000 to build a railroad from this city to the Rock Creek timber district. A $500,000 saw mill project backed by eastern capital depends upon the success of the proposed railroad project. A bond issue for the railroad was authorized at an election several months ago, but was held invalid by the supreme court. It is now proposed so to amend the charter as to make the issue valid.

Salem Said to Hold 8000 Acres of Federal Land.

Salem, Or., April 11—According to advices received by the state land board from the interior department at Washington the state has received an excess of 8000 acres in indemnity land. The lands have already been patented to the state, and if the government is to be reimbursed it must be through the surrender, by the state, of indemnity rights which it has not yet exercised. The government claims that the state did not lose the case in consideration of which the indemnity lands were given. G. G. Brown, clerk of the board, is making an investigation of the matter.

Triplets Arrive in Clatskanie Family.

Clatskanie, Or., April 11—Mrs. William Howard, of Beaver Falls camp, gave birth to triplets on Saturday afternoon, two boys weighing five pounds each, and a girl of 4½ pounds. There were already six children in the family one of them aged under 1 year. Mr. Howard, the father, is a saw filer at the saw mill in the camp.

A DOUBLE MISTAKE
By ELINOR MARSH

"Ah, Mr. Edmonds! Happy to see you. But I confess that I am surprised."
"At what, may I ask?"
"Mother wrote me that you were very young looking for your age, but I did not expect to see a man who cannot have reached middle age."
"And I have been told that you, too, do not look your age."
"I? Why, how old do you think me?"
"A man has no right to think at all about a lady's age. I was given to understand that you do not look forty."
"Forty?"
"That's what I was told. To me you don't look over twenty. But perhaps there are two of you about twenty each."
"You speak in riddles."
"Did you never hear of the man who said that a woman of forty should be like a bank bill that may be changed for two twenties? Ha, ha!"
Mr. Edmonds was the only one who said that a woman of forty should be like a bank bill that may be changed for two twenties? Ha, ha!"
Miss Fielding looked at him, wondering if he were not a trifle daft. Her mother, who was a widow, had written her that she was engaged to be married to a Mr. Edmonds, who would call upon her; that he was of suitable age for the mother and she hoped Gwen would be pleased with him. Was her mother to marry a man who appeared to be fifteen or twenty years younger than herself, who cracked jokes about changing the woman he was to marry for two girls? What did it all mean?
As for Edmonds, his father had written him of his engagement and had asked him to call on his fiancée, who would be at home after a certain date. He supposed he was calling on his future stepmother, and Gwen supposed she was receiving her future stepfather.
"I must confess, Mr. Edmonds," said Gwen coldly, "that you are quite a different man from the one I expected to see."
"And I confess," was the smiling reply, "that I am very agreeably disappointed in you."
Gwen looked at him with a blank stare. "What kind of a person did you expect to meet?" she asked.
"A woman twice your age."
"And I expected to find in you a man from fifty to sixty."
"My father in that case would be from eighty to a hundred."
"I am not considering your father. I am speaking of a man of suitable age."
"But would you consider a man three-quarters of a century old a suitable match for a girl?"
"Gee! Do you consider my mother a girl?"
It was now Mr. Edmonds' turn to be astonished. "I was given to understand that both your parents were dead," he said.
"My father is dead, but I assure you that if you are to talk as nonsensically to my mother as you have been talking to me you'll find her very much alive. I assure you she will not brook a proposal to change her for two young girls."
"All I have to say," rejoined Mr. Edmonds, with a puzzled look on his face, "is that, while I know nothing what ever of the prospective mother-in-law the bride to be is very charming."
"What mother-in-law?"
"My father's. I fear that if she is disposed to be cranky there will be trouble in the family. My father is a well disposed man and I am sure will be able to get on with his bride, but as for a mother-in-law, if she is like the most of them it will be a monkey and a parrot business between them."
Miss Fielding stood looking at Mr. Edmonds with amazement and growing anger for a few moments, then swept out of the room, saying as she went that her mother must have gone stark, staring mad. Reaching the front door she went out, shutting it behind her not over carefully.
"I wonder what the governor means," said Mr. Edmonds to himself, "by trying himself up to a young thing like that and evidently with a fine temper. And won't she make it hot for me!"
He waited until Gwen had had time to get some distance from the house, then went into the hall, took his hat, crammed it down on his head, and went his way.
The next day Mrs. Fielding returned, learned that Mr. Edmonds had called and asked Gwen if she was pleased with him.
"Pleased with him!" said Gwen. "Mamma, have you gone mad to engage yourself to a young fellow who says he would like to change you for two girls, each twenty years old?"
"Gwen! What do you mean?"
"Why, mother, he's young enough to be your son."
"He is sixty-two."
"Mother and daughter looked at each other without speaking."
"Are you sure that it was Mr. Edmonds who called?" asked the mother.
Gwen went to a dresser, took a card from it and handed it to her mother.
"Why, this is Harry's card."
"Harry?"
"Yes, stupid! Didn't you see the junior on it? Harry is Mr. Edmonds' only son. He is worth $250,000 in his own right and would make a good catch for you."
"Catch!" cried Gwen in dismay. "I expect he considers that he has caught a tartar."

WHY THE BEST OF CHEWS IS "SPEAR HEAD"

Its Rich, Sweet, Mellow Flavor Has Been Famous for a Generation

MADE OF CHOICEST RED BURLEY
The secret of tobacco satisfaction is known only to the man who chews plug tobacco. The reason is that a good chew gets right next to your taste, while the leaf in plug tobacco is in a state of fresh, juicy richness that is not possible in any other form of tobacco.

There's no tobacco in the world that can give you the hearty, wholesome flavor that you get from a delicious chew of Spear Head.
Spear Head is made exclusively of ripe, red Kentucky Burley—the most richly-flavored chewing tobacco that grows. Still more, only the very choicest red Burley leaf is used for Spear Head.
This choice leaf is selected with the most painstaking care, is stemmed by hand, is thoroughly washed free of all foreign matter, and is pressed into Spear Head plugs so slowly that not a drop of juice or an atom of the natural flavor escapes.
Try Spear Head, and you'll get a sweet, mellow, luscious, satisfying chew that cannot be obtained in any other tobacco. In 10c cuts, wrapped in wax paper.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly. No Other Newspaper in the World Gives so Much at so Low a Price.

There has never been a time when a newspaper was more needed in the household. The great war in Europe has now entered its second year, with no promise of an end for a long time. These are worrisome shaking events, in which the United States, willing or unwilling, has been compelled to take a part. No intelligent person can ignore such issues.
The Presidential contest also will soon be at hand. Already candidates for the nomination are in the field, and the campaign, owing to the extraordinary character of the times, will be of supreme interest. No other newspaper will inform you with the promptness and cheapness of the Thrice-A-Week edition of the New York World.
THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and JACKSONVILLE POST together for one year for $2.00 cash only.
The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.50.
