Cannery May Open Tuesday

Vancouver, Wash., May 31—The Oregon Packing company's cannery will probably open next Tuesday if present weather conditions prevail. It was started yesterday. The opening of the cannery is eagerly awaited by local people as it will not only give employment to nearly 300 persons, but will furnish the farmers with a market for their fruit, much of which would go to waste were it not for the cannery. Plans have been made for immediately erecting a water tower and 12,000-gallon tank beside the plant. The tower will be 50 feet in height.

Forest Notes

Shoe-blacking owes its peculiar aromatic odor faintly suggestive of the deep woods where spruce or hemlock needles pad the ground, to an oil which is manufactured from these same kinds of needle. Similar oils are obtained from the foliage and small twigs of various con-bearing trees and find use for a number of purposes. In Europe the finer of these oils are used extensively as perfume in soap. They are common components of liniments and other medicinal preparations. Cedar oil is chiefly used in the preparation of insecticides, and, to some extent, in making liniment.

Investigations of the yield and the value of the oil obtainable from some of our southern and western trees have been made by the Forest Service, partly with a view to the possible utilization of waste material left after lumbering in the National Forests. The large quantities of needles and twigs on Forest Service timber sale areas are not only a sheer waste, but also form a special fire hazard. An increased market for leaf oil would make possible the utilization of some of this waste material.

The industry, though small, is fairly old in the United States. The value of the annual production of needle oil is about $50,000. Black and white spruce and eastern hemlock produce very similar oils, 40,000 to 50,000 pounds annually, worth 45 to 60 cents per pound. Red cedar produces 15,000 to 20,000 pounds of oil, having the same value per pound as the spruce and hemlock oil.

Strawberries Short in Roseburg

Roseburg, Or., May 31—The strawberry crop of Douglas county is far smaller than ever before, owing to the cool season, and the unusual affliction of pests during the last year. In some neighborhoods the beds of berries have been harmed so much that the owners have given up the culture of the berry. Douglas county is one of Oregon's earliest producers of strawberries. WHY THE BEST OF CHEWS IS "SPEAR HEAD"

Its Rich, Sweet, Mellow Flavor Has Been Famous for a Generation

MADE OF CHOICEST RED BURLEY

The secret of tobacco satisfaction is known only to the man who chews fine tobacco. The reason is that a good chew gets right next to your taste, while the leaf in fine tobacco is in a state of fresh, juicy richness that is not possible in any other form of tobacco.

There's no tobacco in the world that can give you the hearty, wholesome flavor that you get from a delicious chew of Spear Head. Spear Head is made exclusively of ripe, red Kentucky Burley—the most richly-flavored chewing tobacco that grows. Still more, only the very choicest red Burley leaf is used for Spear Head.

This choice leaf is selected with the most painstaking care, is stemmed by hand, is thoroughly washed free of all foreign matter, and is pressed into Spear Head plugs so slowly that not a drop of juice or an atom of the natural flavor escapes.

Try Spear Head, and you'll get a sweet, mellow, luscious, satisfying chew that cannot be obtained in any other tobacco. In 10c cuts, wrapped in wax paper.
