Blossom Time in the Golden State

A friend just back from Southern California says: "The weather was fine, in fact too warm for heavy clothes. Many were bathing at the beaches. Oranges were ripe in the valleys, while the mountains nearby were covered with snow."

With warm sunny weather it will not be long before the blossoms on the trees will be everywhere announcing that springtime is here.

A Valentine Poem

I'LL build a house of lollypops,
Just suited, sweetheart, to your taste;
The windows shall be lemon drops,
The doors shall be of jujube paste,
Heigh-o, if you'll be mine!

With peppermints I'll pave the walks;
A little garden, too, I'll sow
With seeds that send up sweetened stalks
On which bright candied violets grow,
Heigh-o, my valentine!

Some seats of sassafras I'll make
Because I know you think it's nice;
The cushions shall be jelly cake
Laced all around with lemon ice,
Heigh-o, if you'll be mine!

We'll have a party every day
And feast on cream and honeydew,
And, though you're only six, we'll play
That I am just as young as you,
Heigh-o, sweet valentine!
—Anna M. Pratt in St. Nicholas.

Helping St. Valentine

HAVE you forgotten about St. Valentine's day? It is coming, you know. Of course you cannot really have forgotten, with all the foolish, sentimental, happy things cluttering up the show windows, but you may have forgotten that St. Valentine's day is something more than a window display and that you are a part of it, says the Indianapolis News.

It is no good saying that you are not; that you had nothing to do with it in the beginning and have nothing to do with it now. If you have forgotten and if you haven't a valentine stuck away in your market basket, it is time you were remembering.

It is time you were remembering every sweetheart you ever had and every one you ever wished you had. It is time you were remembering every bit of proof you ever cherished that anybody, anybody at all, loved you. There is no sense in being ashamed of it.

Living in a world without sweethearts would be a dismal thing, and you would be a dismal sort of person if you never had one—if you haven't one now.

St. Valentine as we know him is very likely a sentimentalist, but he is a useful sort of person at that. He makes it very easy for you to tell folks that you love them, and that is a thing that has to be told somehow some time, although nobody is supposed to know who is telling it.

Of course, like all sentimentalists, St. Valentine is likely to make many mistakes, and that is the reason it is so necessary for you to do your part. He is likely to fill one pretty girl's room with flowers and give her more candy than is good for her, forgetting all about the girl across the street, who really needs a little candy. He loves to stuff the mail boxes with valentines for the children, forgetting that old ladies like them too.

He may persuade the agreeable bachelor of comfortable years to send a valentine to the young woman who sits across the table from him at the boarding house when it is the woman, not quite so young, to be sure, who sits at the end of the table who wants a valentine.

It is a sad thing to want a valentine and not get one, but probably a sadder thing not to send a valentine at all. And the only possible remedy for St. Valentine's mistakes is for everybody to send a valentine to somebody he loves.

Valentine Party Supper Menu

First.—Toast hearts spread with some potted relish, as anchovy paste.

Second.—Creamed oysters in heart shaped patty shells or paper cases.

Third.—Cold beef tongue or ham sliced and cut into heart shaped figures with a cooky cutter, bread and butter sandwiches, lettuce with mayonnaise, coffee.

Fourth.—Grapefruit filled with pineapple and chopped cherries and nuts. Valentine cakes and almonds.

Another menu which makes a very relishing supper:

First.—Tomato bouillon, toast hearts.

Second.—Creamed chicken and mushrooms decorated with tiny hearts cut from red peppers, wheat bread sandwiches filled with cress and mayonnaise.

Third.—Cold macedoine of vegetables decorated with hearts, beets cut in heart shape, served in head lettuce; toasted crackers with hearts shaped on their surface of cream cheese and raspberry jam.

Fourth.—Strawberry parfait with whipped cream in lady finger cases, pink cakes and candies and salted almonds, coffee.

Before St. Valentine's Day.

Long before Rome was converted to Christianity the youths and maids on Feb. 15 annually drew names from two sacred urns in the temple, of those of the opposite sex who fate decreed were to be their sweethearts for the coming year. The early fathers of the church, finding they were powerless to entirely eradicate the pagan practices of the Lupercalia, changed it from Feb 15 to St. Valentine's day, the 14th.

Valentine Books.

In 1797 a small book, "The Young Men's Valentine Writer," was published for the use of ardent swains who were unable to do their own riming. In 1812 a less modest volume appeared, "The Cabinet of Love, or Cupid's Repository of Choice Valentines," a very complete compendium.

Six Americans Sail Into Submarine Zone.

New York, Feb. 6—With six Americans among her passengers, the steamship Creole, of the White Star line, sailed for Mediterranean points from this port today. She had a three-inch gun mounted on her stern. She carried twenty-one cabin passengers and 86 in the steerage and had a large cargo.

Canyonville Elects 5 Women For Council

Canyonville, Or., Feb. 7—Canyonville believes in woman's rights and at the city election held yesterday members of the council were elected as follows: Mrs. Barbara Hopkins, Mrs. Clar Willis, Mrs. Lottie Stock, Mrs. Clara Shaw, Mrs. Rowena Leblanc; for recorder, Mira McGilvray; for treasurer, David Hughes; for marshal, Frank Hopkins.

Search and Seizure Bill For Automobiles.

Salem, Or., Feb. 7—The house late yesterday passed a special bill for the peace officers in the border counties, giving them the right to search autos, vehicles of all kinds and boats for liquors, without a search warrant. It was Sheldon's bill and is designed to enforce the bone dry law against importation of liquor. The bill passed the house with only three dissenting votes—Kubli, Meek and Schimpff. Under the provisions of the bill any officer of the law has the right to search any vehicle or boat and to require the carrier to show that the liquor, if any is found, was legally secured.

No searching of travelers' suit cases is provided for by the bill.

Governor to Make Six Appointments at Once.

Salem, Or., Feb. 7—The governor will appoint, before the end of the legislative session, three regents for the State university, and three members of the state board of health and ask the approval of the senate. The terms of Judge R. S. Bean and M. A. Miller, of the board of regents of the university, expire, and a third member of the board, Ray Goodrich, died Sunday. On the state board of health the terms of Drs. E. A. Pierce, W. B. Morse and E. B. Pickel have expired.
