Wash. Bone Dry Bill Signed

Olympia, Wash., Feb. 19—Governor Lister signed the bone dry prohibition bill this afternoon in the presence of Representative Elmer Halsey, author of the bill, officers of the W. C. T. U. and other advocates of the bill.

Indian War Veteran Dies

Roseburg, Or., Feb. 20—James A. Braden, a former resident of Klamath county, died at the Oregon Soldiers' Home yesterday. He was an Indian war veteran. One son, James Braden, of Dallas, survives.

Dewey stood for true preparedness. In the European game it seems to be the Turk's next move.

When will it be a misdemeanor to have a real old-fashioned thirst?

No neutral nation should be content to derive from its neutrality only riches.

Continuing its campaign of frightfulness, the submarine has now shot ocean freight rates sky high.

An island off Greece must feel like a fly that has succeeded in crawling out from the gravy.

Critics of the nickel egg should reflect that it represents the entire day's labor of a conscientious hen.

The allies couldn't be more anxious for the carving of Turkey if they were small boys at the Thanksgiving dinner.

Admiral Dewey never feared death in the shades of Corregidor or elsewhere.

Hercules of mythological fame performed his twelve labors in less than an eight-hour day, but he was a rattling striking fellow.

If Mexico ever has a society of "Daughters of the Revolution" practically all the members will sooner or later be Presidents General.

At one time discussion of the liquor question was confined to "What will you have?" "Them were the happy days."

Pears to us as though Tom Lawson has been reading too many of E. Philip Oppenheim's novels.

It will be only a few years now until young history students will be wondering what would have happened to Paul Revere if he had run out of gasoline.

Mr. Bryan will have the able assistance of Richmond Pearson Hobson in hitching the donkey to the water wagon.

Summons

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF OREGON, FOR JACKSON COUNTY.

Lillian Hazleton, Plaintiff, vs.

Frank Hazleton, Defendant.

To Frank Hazleton, the above named defendant; IN THE NAME OF THE STATE OF OREGON:

You are hereby notified and required to appear in the above entitled court and cause and answer the complaint of the plaintiff, now on file therein, against you within Six (6) weeks from the date of the first publication of this summons, which is the 24th day of February, 1917, and if you fail to appear and answer within the time required or want thereof the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief prayed for and demanded in her complaint, to-wit: For a decree of divorce dissolving the bonds of matrimony existing between the plaintiff and defendant and for an absolute decree of divorce from the defendant; and for the care and custody of Herschel Hazleton, minor child of plaintiff and defendant.

This summons is served upon you by publication once a week for Six (6) consecutive weeks in the Jacksonville Post, a newspaper of general circulation, published at Jacksonville, Jackson County, Oregon, in pursuance of an order of Honorable F. M. Calkins, Judge of said Court, which order was made on the 15th day of February, 1917.

GUS NEWBURY,
Attorney for Plaintiff.

The "Only Child."

When parents have an "only child" it seems to get as much attention as six or eight children in a large family. Some statistics show that out of a hundred "only children" eighty-seven were nervous, the girls suffering worse than the boys. And then the statisticians say the only child lacks self reliance, is precocious, vain and unsocial, is often extremely timid, being afraid of dark rooms and of sleeping alone—exchange.

It's an Ill Wind.

"Rejected you, did she, old man?"
"Yes."
"Too bad! No doubt you had planned to buy her a ring and all that?"
"Yes."
"Had your money all saved up, eh?"
"I should say so. Had $50 all ready."
"I say, old man, you—er—couldn't find me that $50 till you find some other girl who will have you, could you?"
Boston Transcript.

Worse Still.

"Does your father ever comment on my staying so late at night?"
"No, Algerion."
"That's good."
"But he sometimes makes sarcastic remarks about your staying so early in the morning."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Cause and Effect.

She—So you danced with Miss Lightfoot at the ball last night? He—Yes, did she tell you? She—Oh, no. But I saw her going into a chiroprapist's this morning.

Mosquito Netting.

Mosquito netting is an ancient Greek or Egyptian invention, even if it does seem a Yankee idea.

It is easier for the generous to forgive than for offense to ask it.—Thomson.

Making a Victoria Cross.

Ever since the Victoria cross was instituted by Queen Victoria at the end of the Crimean war the making of the medals has been in the hands of the same firm. The ordinary medal is made from a steel die, being stamped and completed in the same process. But the metal from which the Victoria crosses are made is so hard that no die would stand it without breaking. It is well known that the first crosses were made from captured Russian guns, but now the materials come from guns taken from the Chinese. With an order for the cross is sent a supply of the metal.

First a rough cast of the cross is made, and this has to be filed, drilled and chased. The chasing occupies the attention of a skilled artisan for many hours. The bar is a separate casting and is also chased. The authorities are most careful to see that none of the metal is wasted. It is most carefully served out, and if any is left over from one lot of crosses it is used up before a fresh supply can be obtained.—London Globe.

Signing Diplomatic Notes.

No one can say exactly why our secretaries of state sign diplomatic communications with their surnames only except that it has always been so. We copied the custom from European chancelleries, and it probably has its origin in the habit of royalty, which is to sign with one name only. Thus King George of England signs himself "George, R. I." (Rex, Imperator—King Emperor); Sir Edward Grey signed always as "Grey"; the democratic Mr. Bryan when secretary of state affixed his signature to diplomatic notes as "Bryan." At first sight there seems to be a profound flattery implied in the custom. It assumes that the signer cannot be mistaken; that there is only one "George," and "Grey," one "Bryan." And generally there is only one in the diplomatic world where these exchanges take place.—New York Sun.

Effects of Arsenic.

"Arsenic, as science has long told us, is an accumulative poison," said a druggist. "When one takes it either by prescription for the upbuilding of an appetite or for the bleaching of the skin he does not feel any ill effects for several years. The effect of the drug is bracing and makes a person feel like eating. It also aids the digestion. The average user of the poison takes it in such small quantities that he does not realize how much of it will accumulate in his system in the course of four or five years.

"Being an accumulative poison, it often takes that length of time to see the results of the drug. Then the user may complain of not being able to control his fingers or toes. Subsequently he loses control of his hands and arms. Paralysis, superinduced by arsenical poisoning, is the fearful result."

Got There All Right.

Many years ago, at the beginning of November, a missive bearing the St. Albans postmark reached St. Martin's. The envelope was addressed "lud mar lunding." Neither tail nor head could be made out of this by the staff, so the envelope was read for a clew. The letter read, "kenyoblaousyoshio bill igs."

The practiced St. Martin's decipherer of puzzles promptly made out the signature as "Bill Higgs." With the key this afforded the rest was deliciously easy. The message was, "Can you buy a horse for your show?" and "lud mar" meant "lord mayor." So the letter, with an official translation considerably appended, was delivered to the lord mayor elect.—London Mail.

Many Uses For Sawdust.

Sawdust is valuable. It can be used for almost anything except food. Used as an absorbent for nitroglycerin it produces dynamite. Used with clay and burned it produces a terra cotta brick full of small cavities that, owing to its lightness and its properties as a nonconductor, makes excellent fireproof material for walls or floors. Treating it with fused caustic alkali produces oxalic acid. Treating it with sulphuric acid and fermenting it with the sugar so formed produces alcohol. Mixed with a suitable binder and compressed it can be used for making moldings and imitation carvings. If mixed with portland cement it produces a flooring material.—Philadelphia Record.

Ivory In Siberia.

An enormous supply of ivory exists in the frozen tundras of Siberia, which, it is thought, will probably suffice for the world's consumption for many years to come. This ivory consists of the tusks of the extinct species of elephants called mammoths. The tusks of these animals were of great size and are wonderfully abundant at some places in Siberia, where the frost has perfectly preserved them.

Tree In a Chimney.

On the island of Trinidad is a lone brick chimney which once was part of a sugar mill long since gone to ruin. The chimney has remained intact, and a tree has grown up through the center and pushed its branches through the top.

Love.

At twenty love is a rosy dream, at thirty it is a thrilling reality, at forty it is a calm contentment, and at fifty it is a reminiscence.
