It is announced on the street that Messrs. Peter Fick and Oscar Lewis will run as independent candidates for this office. Both are young men who have grown up in the city and know its needs. Voters will make no mistake by voting for these men.

Federal Property in Alaska Is Protected.

Seward, Alaska, Feb. 28—Every precaution is being taken by the federal authorities here and at Anchorage to guard government property, consisting principally of the terminals and buildings of the government railroad, in the event of war with a foreign power. Early this month the force of armed guards at the railroad shops at Anchorage was doubled. All persons employed by the government were required to take the oath of allegiance to the United States.

Molalla Editor Fall Heir to Big Fortune.

Molalla, Or., Feb. 28—Editor H. H. Palmer, of the Molalla Pioneer, who purchased the paper only four months ago, has been notified that he has fallen heir to a fortune estimated at several hundred thousand dollars by the death of his mother, and has gone to New York to claim the fortune. He received an advance draft of $5000 to pay the expenses of the trip East for himself and wife. Gordon J. Taylor, former editor of the paper, is temporarily at the desk in the Pioneer office.

Preliminary Figures on 1916 Wood Pulp.

Returns from 160 wood-pulp mills throughout the country, received in connection with the census of pulp wood consumption and wood-pulp production being made by the Forest Service in cooperation with the Newsprint Manufacturers Association, show that for reporting mills used in 1916, 3,419,000 cords of wood and had an output of approximately 2,229,000 tons of pulp. It is expected that by the middle of March reports from practically all of the mills in the country operating in 1916 will have been received. Complete figures are to be made public as soon as the remaining mills have been heard from.

The final report of the census by the Forest Service will show by States the number of cords of each kind of wood going into each of the four processes of pulp-making, as well as the average cost of the wood in the rough, peeled or rossed stage. Figures showing the

Summons

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF OREGON, FOR JACKSON COUNTY.
Lillian Hazleton, Plaintiff, vs.
Frank Hazleton, Defendant.

To Frank Hazleton, the above named defendant; IN THE NAME OF THE STATE OF OREGON:
You are hereby notified and required to appear in the above entitled court and cause and answer the complaint of the plaintiff, now on file therein, against you within Six (6) weeks from the date of the first publication of this summons, which is the 24th day of February, 1917, and if you fail to appear and answer within the time required for and demanded in her complaint, to-wit: For a decree of divorce dissolving the bonds of matrimony existing between the plaintiff and defendant and for an absolute decree of divorce from the defendant; and for the care and custody of Herschel Hazleton, minor child of plaintiff and defendant.

This summons is served upon you by publication once a week for Six (6) consecutive weeks in the Jacksonville Post, a newspaper of general circulation, published at Jacksonville, Jackson County, Oregon, in pursuance of an order of Honorable F. M. Calkins, Judge of said Court, which order was made on the 15th day of February, 1917.

GUS NEWBURY,
Attorney for Plaintiff.

Alike, Yet Very Different.

On Seventh avenue the other evening I saw a small red headed fool of a boy throwing cans. "An excitement craving, empty headed kid," I said to myself, driving by. On the next block I saw a girl with red curls, dressed in furs, rather dashing, who gave me a little provocative smile as I passed. Did I say to myself that she was an excitement craving, empty headed kid? She was, but I didn't. On the contrary, for the moment at least, I felt quite drawn toward her. Yet she and that boy might easily have been brother and sister and twin rowdies at heart. Why did one of the two so attract me and the other repel?

The strange lure of sex. It was ready to blind me to the mental defects of that girl. It was ready to fix my thoughts on her cheeks or her hair if I'd sat with her. Now, isn't that odd? I should never have given a snap for her kid brother's hair or cheeks naturally. I'd have looked him well over and seen at a glance he hadn't much character and maybe less brains, but could I have seen what she lacked once I'd felt her attraction?—Clarence Day, Jr., in Metropolitan Magazine.

Wonders of Color.

A small and simple experiment can be made by any reader which will go far to convince him or her what a good thing it is to have sunlight, which enables our eyes to take advantage of the beautiful hues of nature. Make a room quite dark and then burn some carbons of soda in the flame of a bunsen gas burner. It will burn with an orange yellow light sufficiently strong to illuminate everything in the room, but you will realize with a sudden shock that, bright though the light is all distinctions of color have vanished. Only light and shade remain. A crimson carnation, a blue violet, a red tablecloth, a yellow blind—all look gray or black or white. The faces of those present look positively repulsive, for all natural color has disappeared. No other experiment will so well convince those who have witnessed it how great a loss would be that of our sense for color.

Artist and Counterfeiter.

There used to be an old German counterfeiter in this country who was a veritable wonder with the brush and pen. This man literally painted pictures of twenty dollar notes which were works of art. He used no tools except his pens and brushes, and it took him a week to do the portrait of a banknote. He figured that his handiwork was worth about $3 a day and worked under the idea that the world owed him a fair living and should not object if his talent led him toward portrait painting, with twenty dollar bills for models. Even jail terms failed to impress him seriously with his wrongdoing. A collector of curios once offered $500 for one of his specimens of bill portraiture, and the value of some others was said to be even greater, so marvelous was the delicacy of his brush work.

The Ancient Dragon.

The pterodactyl, whose fossil remains have been found in the chalk at Cambridge, England, and elsewhere, with a very varied spread of wings, which in the largest specimens must have reached twenty-five feet, is almost identical with the dragon of fable. A bat-like creature, with an elevated body and long neck ending in an absurdly small head with a portentous beak, it could run very swiftly, was a fish eater and could swim, or it flew by means of huge membranous wings, which connected its long fore quarters with its hind legs. The pterodactyl evidently existed down to a comparatively recent geological period, and it is not at all improbable that the traditional dragon is described from the last living specimens as met with by primitive man.

Hard to Endure.

"My dear, said the sick man, "if I should die don't let that irrepressible wag, Snoofers, be one of the pallbearers."

"Oh, don't talk about dying, Henry!" answered the tearful woman.
"But I must. The idea of Snoofers keeping the other pallbearers chuckling all the way out to the cemetery and back to town gets on my nerves."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Regrets Inevitable.

He had proposed and been rejected. "Very well," he said coldly; "there will come a time when your treatment of me will be regretted."
"I shall never regret it," she replied.
"Oh, I don't mean you," he returned. "I refer to the man whom you will finally accept."—New York Times.

Nothing Like.

"Is your physician a homeopath or an allopath, Mrs. Snooks?"
"I don't think he is either one of those. At any rate, those names do not sound in the least like what my husband called him when the bill came in."—Exchange.

An Ancient Clock.

The Tour de l'Horloge, a square tower which forms part of the Palais de Justice in Paris, the ancient palace of the French kings, has the oldest public clock in France. It dates from 1370.

Three feet of Snow at Ashland

Ashland, Feb. 28—Almost three feet of snow has fallen in Ashland since last Monday, an unprecedented snowfall for this season here. According to Cooperative Observer Louis Dodge, 33½ inches had fallen up to this morning, and it has been snowing intermittently all day. This much snow is equal to three and a half inches of rain and is of great benefit.

Owing to the fact that the thermometer has dropped to freezing only for two short periods in the week, the snow has melted fast and only about a foot lies on the ground. The steady melting allows the earth to get the full benefit of the moisture and the snow is worth probably twice the amount of rain.

The power lines have given some little trouble, but Ashland has not been totally without lights owing to the fact that the city is supplied by the municipal plant as well as the Fall creek and Prospect plants of the Oregon-California company.—Tidings
